U. S. STEEL, UNION EXTEND PACTS

Anglo-Russian Alliance Still Alive, Stalin Says In Urging Revisions Before Extension

USSR Leader, Bevin Agree Pact Not Dead, Apparently Settling Month-Old Tempest

LONDON, Jan. 24—(AP)—Prime Minister Stalin has agreed with Foreign Secretary Bevin that the 20-year British-Russian alliance has not been "repudiated" but has suggested that it will have to be revised and strengthened if it is to be extended to 50 years, an exchange of notes disclosed tonight.

"It is now clear that you and I share the same view-point with regard to the Anglo-Soviet treaty", Stalin said in a note written January 23 and released by the British Foreign Office.

But the added with regard to Bevin's repeated proposals to extend the treaty until 1992: "I must say that if one is to speak seriously of such an extension, then, before extending this treaty, it is necessary to change it, freeing it from the reservations which weaken this treaty."

Tempest Appears Settled

Whether Britain would be willing to negotiate a revised pact was not clear. A Foreign Office spokesman this week, when answering newspapermen's questions whether Bevin's offer to extend the pact implied revision also, said, "As I understand it, the offer implied that the word 'twenty' would be substituted by the word 'fifty'".

The exchange of notes appeared to have settled the tempest which began December 22 with Bevin's radio review of foreign affairs which contained the statement that Britain "does not tie herself to anyone."

That statement, construed at the time as an effort to answer criticisms that Britain's policy was too closely bound with the United States and as an effort to approach to easier relations with Russia, was picked up by Pravda, and interpreted by that Communist Party organ in Moscow as a renunciation of Britain's Soviet alliance.

The British at once issued a public statement that the treaty was neither "superseded or suspended", and then on last Saturday sent the Moscow government a note declaring the Pravda article "misleading" and reaffirming the treaty.

Bevin also was disclosed today to have got off a note directly to Stalin asserting "it is certainly not my view" that the treaty was dead.

Stalin Was Perplexed

This note disclosed that Stalin also had expressed puzzlement at Bevin's December 22 statement when the Russian leader talked with Field Marshal Lord Montgomery during the latter's recent visit to Moscow, and had inquired whether it left the treaty "suspended in the air."

In his reply, Stalin admitted he had been caused perplexity as "it seems to me that such a statement without a corresponding explanation can be used by the enemies of Anglo-Soviet friendship."

"For me," he continued, "it is clear that no matter what reservations there are in the Anglo-Soviet treaty, and no matter how those reservations weaken the significance of the treaty in the postwar period, the existence of the Anglo-Soviet treaty imposes obligations on our countries."

"However," Stalin added, "Your message and the statement of the British government completely explain the affair and do not leave room for misunderstandings."

Doctor Says Al Capone Is Near Death

Former Gang Leader Develops Pneumonia

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 24 (AP)—Al Capone's heart was reported by a specialist to be failing tonight and the doctor said "I doubt very seriously if there is a chance for recovery." He has developed pneumonia.

Dr. Arthnur J. Logie, chest specialist who had been called into the case, said Capone was critically ill.

"It is impossible to say how long he will last," said Dr. Logie. "His lungs are pretty well filled."

Dr. Kenneth Phillips, Capone's regular physician, remained at the patient's side while Dr. Logie reported that death may be very near.

Dr. Phillips left the Capone home at 11:20 p. m. (EST) and said the former gang leader's condition at that hour was "unchanged."

"He is in a serious condition, but is holding his own," the attending physician announced. "I won't return tonight unless there is an emergency," he said. But he emphasized that Capone is in "serious condition."

Dr. Phillips had been at the Capone villa since shortly before 8 p. m.

Dr. Phillips returned to the 25-room Capone villa shortly before 8 p. m. (EST), accompanied by Dr. Logie. Dr. Phillips said Capone was being administered oxygen, but did not elaborate.

Two priests made a 10-minute visit to the home but departed before the physicians arrived.

Dr. Phillips made a hurried visit to the Palm island home of the former gang leader this afternoon and spent an hour with the pudgy patient who had steadily improved for 24 hours prior to the relapse today.

Rents To Be Hiked In Hardship Cases

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. (AP)—Landlords suffering hardship can get a rent increase under a policy announced today by Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, director of the Office of Temporary Controls.

Fleming told reporters, after a call on President Truman, that his office has directed regional OPA offices to "liberalize" rents in "hardship cases."

While stressing that this does not mean a break in the general line of rent controls, Fleming said:

1. Any doubts as to the need of raising rents in a hardship case must be resolved in favor of the landlord.

2. Local costs will be the measuring rod as to whether rents are too low.

3. The new order is designed to correct local situations where rents of some properties are lower than those of similar properties in the same area.

President Truman yesterday reaffirmed that he favors continued rent control.

Fleming said today he and Mr. Truman went over the question of rent controls thoroughly but did not come to any conclusion. He said the "hardship" order was given earlier this week to the regional OPA directors.

Charges Against Pastor, Choir Singer Withdrawn

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Jan. 24. (AP)—Adultery charges against Rev. Daniel L. Reedy, 54-year-old Methodist minister, and Choir Singer Mrs. Marcy Marguerite Cowles, 40, were withdrawn today by the woman's husband, Paul.

In police court, Judge Burleson approved a motion to dismiss, ending a case which grew out of a 10-day motor trip to Texas and back by the minister and Mrs. Cowles, who sang in his church.

Reconciliations of Rev. Reedy and Mrs. Cowles with their families followed upon their voluntary return here after Cowles had filed his charges. Both the minister and Mrs. Cowles have grown children.

SHIP WRECK SURVIVORS—A group of survivors of the sinking of the 1,800-ton Greek steamship Chimarra reach shore and safety at Rafina, Greece, about 15 miles from Athens, after they were rescued by the crew of the caique shown above. The sinking, blamed officially on a mine explosion, resulted in 437 persons among passengers and crew being listed as dead or missing.

May Pleads Not Guilty; Trial Is Set For March 19

Quartet Released On Bonds Of $2,000

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—The wartime chairman of the House Military Committee, Andrew J. May, pleaded innocent in a firm voice to government fraud charges today and was ordered to trial March 19.

The 71-year-old ex-congressman anxiously complained of heart pain as he appeared to answer a grand jury indictment that he agreed to sell his influence with the Army to three co-defendants in the Garsson munitions combine.

Released On $2,000 Bonds

May and the trio charged with him were released on $2,000 bonds after their arraignment in the federal court building a few blocks from the capitol.

There, the Kentucky Democrat had been a powerful figure during the war. He was defeated for re-election last November after eight terms.

The others who pleaded innocent with May were Henry M. Garsson, head of a combine of 19 firms which did a $78,000,000 business in war contracts; Murray Garsson, his brother and associate, and Joseph F. Freeman, their Washington agent.

Their indictment by a grand jury yesterday said May agreed to receive $53,634.07 and "other sums" from the Garssons to use his influence with high Army officers in behalf of the combine.

Shows No Emotion

May answered these charges before Justice Bolitha J. Laws tensely and without emotion: "I plead not guilty."

En route here by train from his Prestonsburg, Ky., home, May told a reporter that "I am confident that an impartial jury will clear me," saying he is innocent of "any wrongdoing either legally or morally."

After being finger-printed with the others, and making bond, May remarked to a group around him:

"Send to Prestonsburg for your jury and I won't challenge a one of them."

U. S. Navy Plane Crashes East Of Halifax Harbor

HALIFAX, N. S., Jan. 24 (AP)—A United States naval plane bound from Floyd Bennett Field, New York, to a United States North Atlantic base crashed tonight in a wooded area east of Halifax harbor, injuring a number of its passengers.

First reports said that none of the plane's occupants had been killed. Seven were brought to the Canadian naval here, but the exact number of passengers and crew members was unknown.

An R.C.A.F. officer said the plane flew over Halifax at a low altitude, dipped low over the R.C.A.F. eastern passage airbase, apparently attempting a landing, then headed northward and disappeared.

Sen. George Would Trim Budget, Defer Tax-Cutting

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP) — Sen. George (D-Ga.) called on Congress today to trim President Truman's budget by at least $2,500,000,000, pay $1,000,000,000 on the debt and put off cutting taxes until it is sure incore will exceed outgo by at least $2,000,000,000.

George, a member of the new Congressional Budget Committee and former chairman of the Senate Finance Committee told a reporter he thinks a "breathing space" must be left in the budget to take care of any possible slump in business that would cut revenues in the next year.

Negro Bigamist Fails To Sway Court By Plea Ga. Has Two Governors

ATLANTA, Jan. 24 (AP) — O. B. Andrews, negro charged with bigamy, threw himself on the mercy of the court today with the plea:

"Judge, I'm guilty. I admit that. But I can't see where it's wrong for a man to have two wives when it's all right for the state to have two governors."

Superior Judge Verlyn B. Moore sentenced Andrews to 12 months.

Modified Closed Shop Bill Offered

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) today introduced a bill which he said would "eliminate the closed shop issue as a source of strikes" and "restore" to employers complete freedom of speech.

His statement said complete freedom of speech had been "lost" under the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

McCarthy's bill would allow an employer to make "any statement of views or arguments" concerning any labor question whatever, if the statement "contains no threat of force or violence."

It also would outlaw the closed shop or union shop unless two-thirds of the employes of a plant voted for it by secret ballot. But the employer would be compelled to accept it if two-thirds voted for it.

In a closed shop, only union members may be hired. Under a union shop, non-union workers may be hired but then they must join the union.

Sale Of Food Surpluses To Needy Nations Urged

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP) — A proposal to distribute the world's food surpluses at cut-rate prices to needy countries was outlined today in a United Nations report.

It urged steps to relieve "chronic malnutrition among more than half of the world's people."

The report was prepared by the United Nations Preparatory Commission on World Food Problems. The commission was assigned to the task three months ago by the 40-nation food and agriculture organization.

S. Africa Urges Speedy Revision Of Potsdam Pact

German Economy Is Called Peace Menace

LONDON, Jan. 24. (AP)—The Union of South Africa joined Australia today in demanding a quick revision of the Potsdam agreement to improve Germany's war-blighted economy, which it described as a dangerous potential menace to peace.

E. K. Scallan, the Union's acting high commissioner in London, in addressing the four-power Deputy Foreign Ministers now preparing the groundwork for the German peace treaty, asked that the rate of current German coal exports, reparations deliveries and plant dismantling be "reconsidered," official American sources said.

Scallan opposed large-scale territorial demands on Germany and advocated a decentralized German government.

The 10th day of German-Austrian peacemaking brought these other developments, as reported by American diplomats:

1. South Africa and Australia pressed their demand for fuller participation by smaller powers in all treaty deliberations and again were rebuffed by Russian Deputy Feodor I. Gousev, with no final decision reached on the issue.

2. Australia asked for an early, separate peace conference on Austria and said that Austrian peace should impose no unjustifiable burdens or humiliations.

3. The deputies in the German treaty section scheduled a meeting tomorrow to hear the Canadian representative and agreed that the meeting would be cancelled if Canada carried out its threat to "boycott" the deliberations.

Prisoners Recaptured

JESSUPS, Md., Jan. 24 (AP)—Four prisoners who had a brief taste of freedom yesterday were back in the Maryland House of Correction today — minus a hacksaw, kitchen knife, screw driver, and nail file converted into a knife. These articles were taken from them by police who found the quartet, cold and hungry, huddled beneath a railroad bridge at Relay, Baltimore county, last night.

Senate Votes To Set Up Small Business Group

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP) — The Senate Republican leadership pushed through a revival of the Special Small Business Committee today over the protest of Sen. Tobey (R-NH) that it is a "lollipop" for Sen. Wherry (R-Neb).

Wherry, GOP whip, is slated to become chairman of the group under the procedure by which it was reconstituted.

Aiming his protests at Chairman Taft (R-Ohio), of the GOP policy committee, Tobey declared the Republican leaders "have been running the train off the rails" by supporting two special committes and that their methods are "bound to result in confusion, delay, inefficiency and waste."

The Senate voted 46 to 42 to set up the group for another eight months after defeating, 41 to 47, a motion by Sen. Tobey (R-NH) to turn its work over to the regular Banking Committee. Generally speaking, both votes were on party lines.

Four other Republicans joined Tobey in voting against renewing the committe—Sen. Aiken, of Vermont; Cooper, of Kentucky; Langer, of North Dakota, and Morse, of Oregon. Three Democrats voted for continuing the committee—Sen. Murray, of Montana; O'Daniel, of Texas, and Stewart, of Tennessee.

In a similar battle which ended Wednesday, the Republicans succeeded in winning extension of the Special War Investigating Committee over Democratic opposition. The vote then was 49 to 43.

Tobey, chairman of the Banking Committee, urged that the small business work be turned over to his group. Tobey appealed to his fellow Republicans "to refuse to follow those who are using the party for their own advancement."

Wherry urged an eight-month extension for the committee and said that next year its work could be taken over by one of the regular standing committees. He reported that in the last four years the committee received 200,000 letters from small businessmen asking assistance and held more than 3,000 hearings.

The group, officially named the "Special Committee to Study and Survey problems of Small Business Enterprises," was headed last year by Sen. Murray (D-Mont). It has investigated problems of small business and proposed means of assistance.

Talmadge Hits His Opponents In Broadcast

Appeals To Father's Old-Line Followers

ATLANTA, Jan. 24. (AP)—Herman Talmadge assailed his opponents tonight as creators of "planned confusion" and appealed by radio to his father's old-line followers to back his claims to the disputed governorship of Georgia.

Talmadge bought radio time with personal funds to attack former Gov. Ellis Arnall and the Atlanta Journal, and to urge public pressure on legislators during the weekend recess of Georgia's General Assembly. He also appealed for contributions from the Talmadge faithful "to aid me in carrying this fight to the people."

Journal "Tries To Make News"

Said Talmadge: "The Atlanta Journal will not print the news. The Atlanta Journal tries to make the news. They are trying to create anarchy in Georgia by drumming up the little meetings of the people who are opposed to the Democratic white primary and who are opposed to the county unit (electoral) system in Georgia. They want to break down the functions of government."

(Wright Bryan, editor of the Journal, said yesterday the Journal had no connection with indignation meetings being held throughout Georgia, except to report the news.)

Talmadge continued: "Don't get alarmed because these newspapers are on my neck—that means I am sticking true to you Georgia people who respect your fathers, who established the (white supremacy) traditions which Ellis Arnall has sworn to destroy."

Urges Special Election

Talmadge re-iterated his preference for a special election to settle Georgia's gubernatorial muddle, and for a third time challenged his rival, Lt. Gov. M. E. Thompson, to resign with him and contest for the governorship. Thompson previously had declined to "barter" for the office.

Meanwhile, Revenue Department checks totalling $1,815,293 lay uncashed in vaults of Georgia's treasury in a dispute over bonding of Talmadge's appointee as revenue commissioner, Charles Redwine. Operations of the State Highway Department also were "frozen" by State Treasurer George B. Hamilton in a similar bonding controversy.

Nurse May Have Been Under Drug

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 24 (AP) — Toledo State Hospital authorities expressed belief today that a 23-year-old Baltimore nurse, brought here after missing for two days, was under a drug and had not suffered an amnesia attack.

Dr. W. B. Tracy, of the hospital staff, said the first diagnosis that Jean Francis Foss was the victim of a temporary attack of amnesia apparently was incorrect.

She was reported almost fully recovered today, but the physician said she still refused to answer questions about her disappearance or to even admit that her last name was Foss.

He said he had been informed by Greyhound Bus Company officials that a passenger reported seeing the girl take a pill while a bus on which she was traveling stopped in Akron.

Dr. Tracy expressed doubt, however, that one pill would be strong enough to make the young woman semi-conscious as she was when admitted to the hospital last night.

Boy, 9, Goes To Nevada To "Divorce" Parents

The tow-headed lad was taken in hand by the police after a bus driver discovered him unaccompanied among the passengers at Battle Mountain, 25 miles from here.

"I'm mad at my folks because they won't take me anywhere, and my hobby is traveling," the boy told reporters. He added that he planned to get a divorce from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin R. Lewin, Oakland, in Nevada, and go to visit an aunt in Chicago.

Draft Dodger Sentenced To 18 Months In Prison

BALTIMORE, Jan. 24 (AP)—Emerald Edward Kennedy, a native of Grafton, W. Va., was sentenced to 18 months in a federal reformatory today after he told Judge William C. Coleman he became a draft dodger because he was afraid he would be returned to a reform school from which he had escaped.

Kennedy, who was charged with failure to report for induction, registered with a Baltimore draft board in 1943, but had never communicated with the board since that time, it was testified.

Witnesses told Judge Coleman in federal court the 21-year-old West Virginian was arrested in Detroit last November on an assault and battery charge and subsequently was returned here.

Marshall To Attend Big Four Ministers' Meeting At Moscow

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall will attend the Big Four Foreign Ministers' meeting on Germany at Moscow March 10, it was officially announced today.

Diplomatic informants expect he will urge Chairman Vanderberg (R-Mich), of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and Sen. Connally (D-Tex) to accompany him and that they will agree.

Marshall thus is expected to continue former Secretary Byrnes' pattern of direct personal negotiation on two peace settlements with the Russian British and French Foreign Ministers.

Punjab Outlaws Moslem League's National Guard

Disorders Flare; Strike Is Called

LAHORE, Punjab, Jan. 24 (AP) — The Punjab provincial government today outlawed the Moslem League's National Guard, a semi-military volunteer body, and arrested eight high-ranking league members. Violence flared tonight in subsequent demonstrations, with nearly 200 persons injured when police armed with clubs charged into a group of league members.

Resentment against the government action spread 900 miles south to Bombay, where the league called upon the 2,500,000 Moslems in all Bombay province to stage a protest strike tomorrow. Moslems were summoned tonight to mass meetings in Bombay in defiance of a ban against assemblages of more than five persons. The ban was imposed because of communal rioting which cost the lives of more than 1,200 Moslems and Hindus since September 1.

Purge Is Demanded

Dawn, the Moslem League's most powerful journalistic voice, demanded in an editorial that the people of Punjab depose the provincial government for what it termed "a vicious and vengeful blow at Moslem Punjab by the Hindu government."

The Punjab government, which supports the program of the predominantly Hindu All-India Congress, announced it had also declared illegal the Rashtriya Sevak Sangh, Hindu youth organization. It said offices of the National Guard and Hindu youth group were raided at the same time, but announced no Hindu arrests.

In a communique the government said it wished to make clear that the action "was not directed against any political party, but was intended "only to prevent expansion of private communal armies which would be harmful to the peaceful position of the country.

30 Arrested In Lahore

Demonstrators appeared in Lahore, the province capital, shortly after the raids and arrests became known. At least 30 persons were arrested. The police charge occurred in front of the Charing Cross police station, with the demonstrators had approached shouting anti-government slogans.

Chazanfar Ali Khan, Moslem League member of the interim government of India, who is in Lahore, tonight cautioned the province league members against letting themselves to be drawn into an "intercommunical (Moslem-Hindu) conflict."

One Dead In Plane Crash

SEATTLE, Jan. 24 (AP)—The body of Lt. Robert L. Thomas, Royal Oak, Mich., was recovered today in the wreckage of a C-47 transport plane from which two fellow airmen bailed out successfully. The plane crashed early today near Kenmore, north end of Lake Washington, the sheriffs announced.

'46 Contracts Stay In Force Until April 30

Management Proposal Accepted By CIO-USW

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 24 (AP)—The United States Steel Corporation and the CIO-United Steel Workers agreed tonight to extend present contracts of all "big steel" subsidiaries until April 30 to gain additional time to work out a 1947 agreement for some 170,000 workers.

News to the extension came after both sides decided to adjourn contract discussions until Monday. A two-hour morning meeting, first to be held on a new contract, ended with the union presenting its 15-point program to the steel representatives headed by John A. Stephens, vice-president in charge of industrial relations for United States Steel of Delaware. The present contract expires February 15.

A year ago, the steel union had begun a month-long strike, involving 750,000 steel workers throughout the nation to enforce demands for a $2-a-day wage increase. That strike was settled by an 18½ cent hourly boost which was adopted by industry generally. The steel union now claims a membership of 850,000.

Murray Announces Extension

Philip Murray, president of both the CIO and the United Steel Workers, announced the extension, saying it was proposed by management. He added that similar extensions with other steel companies probably would be made early next week.

"The union agreed to this course of action," declared Murray, "because we believe that real collective bargaining requires complete discussion of all points. During such discussions the public should not be kept in a state of apprehension. We likewise understand some of the problems confronting management, such as their uncertainty as to their liability in portal-to-portal suits."

Benjamin F. Fairless, president of United States Steel, also issued a statement in which he said:

"The proposal was made and accepted because of the desire on the part of both parties to make a contribution to the national welfare. This action assures continuity of our steel operations until April 30, 1947. During the period of extension there may be clarification of matters now constituting issues between the parties which vitally affect wage and other costs."

Portal Suits Cited

He cited the half-billion dollar suits filed against the giant producer for "alleged past portal-to-portal liability" and said: "Had the union not agreed to the contract extension we would have found ourselves facing an immediate demand to raise wages without knowing how long an individual employe works each day and how much he is entitled to receive at the end of the day—if the portal-to-portal pay theory is to be imposed."

Murray said the contract extension was proposed at this morning's conference between union and corporation and unanimously approved at afternoon meetings of the 42-man executive board and the 260-member national wage and policy committee.

Both Murray and Fairless emphasized the contract extension does not affect the question of retroactivity as it may apply to terms and conditions later agreed upon.

The United States Steel contract would cover 175,000 employees of five subsidiary companies but in the past the settlement with "big steel" has set the pattern for the remainder of the industry. Negotiations already are underway with several other basic steel companies.

Miss Perkins Confirmed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP)—Miss Frances Perkins, former Secretary of Labor, was confirmed by the Senate today as a member of the Civil Service Commission, succeeding Lucille F. McMillin, who resigned.

Coal Industry, Saying Every City Has Slum, Defends Company House

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—The soft coal industry today defended the miner's "company home," asserting that every city has slums and that one-third of the nation's houses have outside toilets, too.

"Poor living conditions in coal mining towns," it said, "are the exception, not the rule."

An elaborate collection of pictures of model little towns nestling against a hillside, peopled by miners' families, was released by the Bituminous Coal Institute as a reply to charges of John L. Lewis and others that miners live in squalor.

Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, has protested that coal companies do nothing to improve the housing of those who dig 600,000,000 tons of bituminous coal annually, and has demanded that the industry do something about it.

As part of the government agreement, signed by Lewis and Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug, last May 29, a study is being made to present both sides of the controversy over miners' living and health conditions.

It is being conducted by Rear Adm. Joel T. Boone, one-time White House naval medical aide, who told a reporter today that his work was "nearing completion."

Boone said the industry's pictures and publications "do a good job of telling their side" but he added that the government survey would present a complete picture.

"Conditions in the coal mining towns," the coal institute said, "are for the most part no worse, and in many instances better, than those in non-mining communities of comparable size and location."

Its survey showed, the institute said, that no more than one-third of the miners, taking the industry as a whole, live in company-owned houses.

Are GOP Senators More Beautiful Than Democrats? Contest Is Urged

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP)—An argument over whether Republicans are more beautiful than Democrats got an offer of a sponsor today on the floor of the United States Senate.

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) relayed the proposal from Martin Stern of New York, executive director of the Swim for Health Association.

With rays from the Senate lighting system glittering pleasantly from the bald heads around him, Fulbright read a telegram from Stern:

"The Swim For Health Association is willing to provide neutral jury to conduct glamor contest between Democratic and Republican members of United States Senate. "Will provide necessary trunks. Will furnish beach sweaters or coats for modest members if necessary. Will be happy to conduct beauty contest among wives of Senators, providing bathing suits or sweaters for event.

"Have just completed annual Swim For Health queen beauty contest at Miami Beach. Please wire if you need assistance."

Before reading the telegram, Fulbright recalled that Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) had been quoted as making certain statements about the pulchritude of members of the two major parties.

Taft's observations were tossed off at a state-of-Maine dinner Tuesday night for Republican members of the Senate. He is reported to have looked over the assemblage and remarked that the Republicans, male and female, outshone the Democrats in looks as well as political sagacity.

Fulbright expressed disappointment that Taft was not present today to deliberate on the question. (The Ohioan was out of town making a speech.)

Fulbright said he wanted to ask whether Taft would be willing to settle the matter by a party vote following a caucus, or whether he would leave it to a neutral body, as suggested by Stern's telegram

U. S. STEEL, UNION EXTEND PACTS

USSR Leader, Bevin Agree Pact Not Dead, Apparently Settling Month-Old Tempest

LONDON, Jan. 24—(AP)—Prime Minister Stalin has agreed with Foreign Secretary Bevin that the 20-year British-Russian alliance has not been "repudiated" but has suggested that it will have to be revised and strengthened if it is to be extended to 50 years, an exchange of notes disclosed tonight.

"It is now clear that you and I share the same view-point with regard to the Anglo-Soviet treaty", Stalin said in a note written January 23 and released by the British Foreign Office.

But the added with regard to Bevin's repeated proposals to extend the treaty until 1992: "I must say that if one is to speak seriously of such an extension, then, before extending this treaty, it is necessary to change it, freeing it from the reservations which weaken this treaty."

Tempest Appears Settled

Whether Britain would be willing to negotiate a revised pact was not clear. A Foreign Office spokesman this week, when answering newspapermen's questions whether Bevin's offer to extend the pact implied revision also, said, "As I understand it, the offer implied that the word 'twenty' would be substituted by the word 'fifty'".

The exchange of notes appeared to have settled the tempest which began December 22 with Bevin's radio review of foreign affairs which contained the statement that Britain "does not tie herself to anyone."

That statement, construed at the time as an effort to answer criticisms that Britain's policy was too closely bound with the United States and as an effort to approach to easier relations with Russia, was picked up by Pravda, and interpreted by that Communist Party organ in Moscow as a renunciation of Britain's Soviet alliance.

The British at once issued a public statement that the treaty was neither "superseded or suspended", and then on last Saturday sent the Moscow government a note declaring the Pravda article "misleading" and reaffirming the treaty.

Bevin also was disclosed today to have got off a note directly to Stalin asserting "it is certainly not my view" that the treaty was dead.

Stalin Was Perplexed

This note disclosed that Stalin also had expressed puzzlement at Bevin's December 22 statement when the Russian leader talked with Field Marshal Lord Montgomery during the latter's recent visit to Moscow, and had inquired whether it left the treaty "suspended in the air."

In his reply, Stalin admitted he had been caused perplexity as "it seems to me that such a statement without a corresponding explanation can be used by the enemies of Anglo-Soviet friendship."

"For me," he continued, "it is clear that no matter what reservations there are in the Anglo-Soviet treaty, and no matter how those reservations weaken the significance of the treaty in the postwar period, the existence of the Anglo-Soviet treaty imposes obligations on our countries."

"However," Stalin added, "Your message and the statement of the British government completely explain the affair and do not leave room for misunderstandings."

Doctor Says Al Capone Is Near Death

Former Gang Leader Develops Pneumonia

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 24 (AP)—Al Capone's heart was reported by a specialist to be failing tonight and the doctor said "I doubt very seriously if there is a chance for recovery." He has developed pneumonia.

Dr. Arthnur J. Logie, chest specialist who had been called into the case, said Capone was critically ill.

"It is impossible to say how long he will last," said Dr. Logie. "His lungs are pretty well filled."

Dr. Kenneth Phillips, Capone's regular physician, remained at the patient's side while Dr. Logie reported that death may be very near.

Dr. Phillips left the Capone home at 11:20 p. m. (EST) and said the former gang leader's condition at that hour was "unchanged."

"He is in a serious condition, but is holding his own," the attending physician announced. "I won't return tonight unless there is an amergency," he said. But he emphasized that Capone is in "serious condition."

Dr. Phillips had been at the Capone villa since shortly before 8 p. m.

Dr. Phillips returned to the 26-room Capone villa shortly before 8 p. m. (EST), accompanied by Dr. Logie. Dr. Phillips said Capone was being administered oxygen, but did not elaborate.

Two priests made a 10-minute visit to the home but departed before the physicians arrived.

Dr. Phillips made a hurried visit to the Palm island home of the former gang leader this afternoon and spent an hour with the pudgy patient who had steadily improved for 24 hours prior to the relapse today.

Rents To Be Hiked In Hardship Cases

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. (AP)—Landlords suffering hardship can get a rent increase under a policy announced today by Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, director of the Office of Temporary Controls.

Fleming told reporters, after a call on President Truman, that his office has directed regional OPA offices to "liberalize" rents in "hardship cases."

While stressing that this does not mean a break in the general line of rent controls, Fleming said:

1. Any doubts as to the need of raising rents in a hardship case must be resolved in favor of the landlord.

2. Local costs will be the measuring rod as to whether rents are too low.

3. The new order is designed to correct local situations where rents of some properties are lower than those of similar properties in the same area.

President Truman yesterday reaffirmed that he favors continued rent control.

Fleming said today he and Mr. Truman went over the question of rent controls thoroughly but did not come to any conclusion. He said the "hardship" order was given earlier this week to the regional OPA directors.

Charges Against Pastor, Choir Singer Withdrawn

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Jan. 24. (AP)—Adultery charges against Rev. Daniel L. Reedy, 54-year-old Methodist minister, and Choir Singer Mrs. Marcy Marguerite Cowles, 40, were withdrawn today by the woman's husband, Paul.

In police court, Judge Burleson approved a motion to dismiss, ending a case which grew out of a 10-day motor trip to Texas and back by the minister and Mrs. Cowles, who sang in his church.

Reconciliations of Rev. Reedy and Mrs. Cowles with their families followed upon their voluntary return here after Cowles had filed his charges. Both the minister and Mrs. Cowles have grown children.

Coal Industry, Saying Every City Has Slum, Defends Company House

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—The soft coal industry today defended the miner's "company home," asserting that every city has slums and that one-third of the nation's houses have outside toilets, too.

"Poor living conditions in coal mining towns," it said, "are the exception, not the rule."

An elaborate collection of pictures of model little towns nestling against a hillside, peopled by miners' families, was released by the Bituminous Coal Institute as a reply to charges of John L. Lewis and others that miners live in squalor.

Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, has protested that coal companies do nothing to improve the housing of those who dig 600,000,000 tons of bituminous coal annually, and has demanded that the industry do something about it.

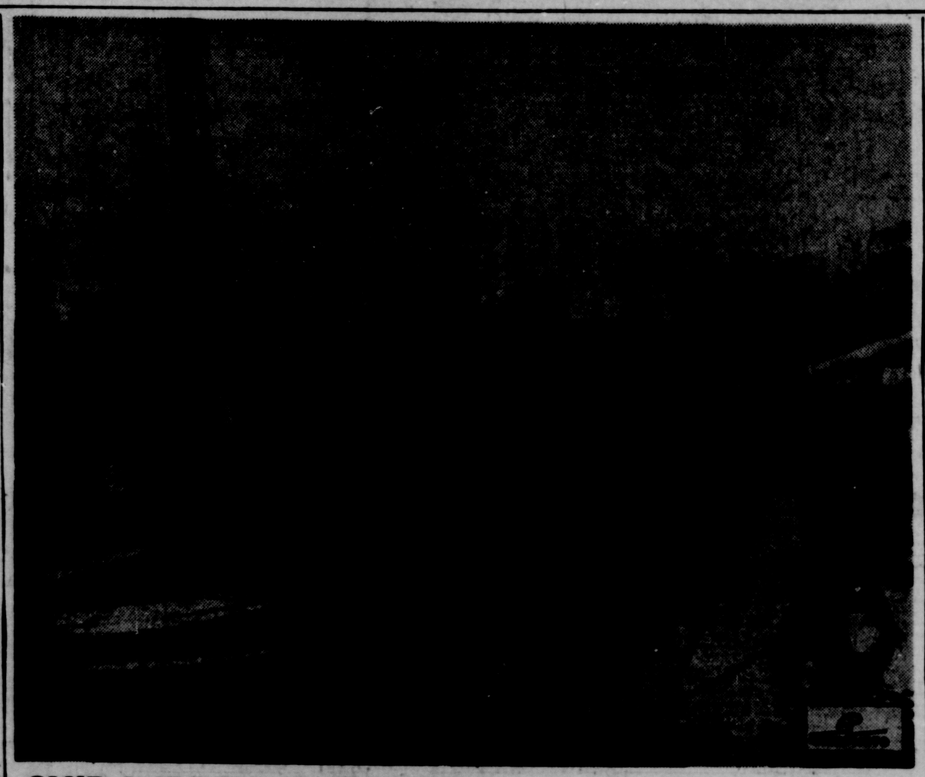

As part of the government agreement, signed by Lewis and Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug, last May 29, a study is being made to present both sides of the controversy over miners' living and health conditions.

It is being conducted by Rear Adm. Joel T. Boone, one-time White House naval medical aide, who told a reporter today that his work was "nearing completion."

Boone said the industry's pictures and publications "do a good job of telling their side" but he added that the government survey would present a complete picture.

"Conditions in the coal mining towns," the coal institute said, "are for the most part no worse, and in many instances better, than those in non-mining communities of comparable size and location."

Its survey showed, the institute said, that no more than one-third of the miners, taking the industry as a whole, live in company-owned houses.

May Pleads Not Guilty; Trial Is Set For March 19

Quartet Released On Bonds Of $2,000

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—The wartime chairman of the House Military Committee, Andrew J. May, pleaded innocent in a firm voice to government fraud charges today and was ordered to trial March 19.

The 71-year-old ex-congressman anxiously complained of heart pain as he appeared to answer a grand jury indictment that he agreed to sell his influence with the Army to three co-defendants in the Garsson munitions combine.

Released On $2,000 Bonds

May and the trio charged with him were released on $2,000 bonds after their arraignment in the federal court building a few blocks from the capitol.

There, the Kentucky Democrat had been a powerful figure during the war. He was defeated for re-election last November after eight terms.

The others who pleaded innocent with May were Henry M. Garsson, head of a combine of 19 firms which did a $78,000,000 business in war contracts; Murray Garsson, his brother and associate, and Joseph F. Freeman, their Washington agent.

Their indictment by a grand jury yesterday said May agreed to receive $53,634.07 and "other sums" from the Garssons to use his influence with high Army officers in behalf of the combine.

Shows No Emotion

May answered these charges before Justice Bolitha J. Laws tensely and without emotion: "I plead not guilty."

En route here by train from his Prestonsburg, Ky., home, May told a reporter that "I am confident that an impartial jury will clear me," saying he is innocent of "any wrongdoing either legally or morally."

After being finger-printed with the others, and making bond, May remarked to a group around him:

U. S. Navy Plane Crashes East Of Halifax Harbor

HALIFAX, N. S., Jan. 24 (AP)—A United States naval plane bound from Floyd Bennett Field, New York, to a United States North Atlantic base crashed tonight in a wooded area east of Halifax harbor, injuring a number of its passengers.

First reports said that none of the plane's occupants had been killed. Seven were brought to the Canadian naval here, but the exact number of passengers and crew members was unknown.

An R.C.A.F. officer said the plane flew over Halifax at a low altitude, dipped low over the R.C.A.F. eastern passage airbase, apparently attempting a landing, then headed northward and disappeared.

Sen. George Would Trim Budget, Defer Tax-Cutting

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP) — Sen. George (D-Ga.) called on Congress today to trim President Truman's budget by at least $2,500,000,000, pay $1,000,000,000 on the debt and put off cutting taxes until it is sure incore will exceed outgo by at least $2,000,000,000.

George, a member of the new Congressional Budget Committee and former chairman of the Senate Finance Committee told a reporter he thinks a "breathing space" must be left in the budget to take care of any possible slump in business that would cut revenues in the next year.

Negro Bigamist Fails To Sway Court By Plea Ga. Has Two Governors

ATLANTA, Jan. 24 (AP) — O. B. Andrews, negro charged with bigamy, threw himself on the mercy of the court today with the plea:

"Judge, I'm guilty. I admit that. But I can't see where it's wrong for a man to have two wives when it's all right for the state to have two governors."

Superior Judge Verlyn B. Moore sentenced Andrews to 12 months.

Modified Closed Shop Bill Offered

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) today introduced a bill which he said would "eliminate the closed shop issue as a source of strikes" and "restore" to employers complete freedom of speech.

His statement said complete freedom of speech had been "lost" under the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

McCarthy's bill would allow an employer to make "any statement of views or arguments" concerning any labor question whatever, if the statement "contains no threat of force or violence."

It also would outlaw the closed shop or union shop unless two-thirds of the employes of a plant voted for it by secret ballot. But the employer would be compelled to accept it if two-thirds voted for it.

In a closed shop, only union members may be hired. Under a union shop, non-union workers may be hired but then they must join the union.

Sale Of Food Surpluses To Needy Nations Urged

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP) — A proposal to distribute the world's food surpluses at cut-rate prices to needy countries was outlined today in a United Nations report.

It urged steps to relieve "chronic malnutrition among more than half of the world's people."

The report was prepared by the United Nations Preparatory Commission on World Food Problems. The commission was assigned to the task three months ago by the 40-nation food and agriculture organization.

S. Africa Urges Speedy Revision Of Potsdam Pact

German Economy Is Called Peace Menace

LONDON, Jan. 24. (AP)—The Union of South Africa joined Australia today in demanding a quick revision of the Potsdam agreement to improve Germany's war-blighted economy, which it described as a dangerous potential menace to peace.

E. K. Scallan, the Union's acting high commissioner in London, in addressing the four-power Deputy Foreign Ministers now preparing the groundwork for the German peace treaty, asked that the rate of current German coal exports, reparations deliveries and plant dismantling be "reconsidered," official American sources said.

Scallan opposed large-scale territorial demands on Germany and advocated a decentralized German government.

The 10th day of German-Austrian peacemaking brought these other developments, as reported by American diplomats:

1. South Africa and Australia pressed their demand for fuller participation by smaller powers in all treaty deliberations and again were rebuffed by Russian Deputy Feodor I. Gousev, with no final decision reached on the issue.

2. Australia asked for an early, separate peace conference on Austria and said that Austrian peace should impose no unjustifiable burdens or humiliations.

3. The deputies in the German treaty section scheduled a meeting tomorrow to hear the Canadian representative and agreed that the meeting would be cancelled if Canada carried out its threat to "boycott" the deliberations.

Prisoners Recaptured

JESSUPS, Md., Jan. 24 (AP)—Four prisoners who had a brief taste of freedom yesterday were back in the Maryland House of Correction today — minus a hacksaw, kitchen knife, screw driver, and nail file converted into a knife. These articles were taken from them by police who found the quartet, cold and hungry, huddled beneath a railroad bridge at Relay, Baltimore county, last night.

Senate Votes To Set Up Small Business Group

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP) — The Senate Republican leadership pushed through a revival of the Special Small Business Committee today over the protest of Sen. Tobey (R-NH) that it is a "lollipop" for Sen. Wherry (R-Neb).

Wherry, GOP whip, is slated to become chairman of the group under the procedure by which it was reconstituted.

Aiming his protests at Chairman Taft (R-Ohio), of the GOP policy committee, Tobey declared the Republican leaders "have been running the train off the rails" by supporting two special committes and that their methods are "bound to result in confusion, delay, inefficiency and waste."

The Senate voted 46 to 42 to set up the group for another eight months after defeating, 41 to 47, a motion by Sen. Tobey (R-NH) to turn its work over to the regular Banking Committee. Generally speaking, both votes were on party lines.

Four other Republicans joined Tobey in voting against renewing the committe—Sen. Aiken, of Vermont; Cooper, of Kentucky; Langer, of North Dakota, and Morse, of Oregon. Three Democrats voted for continuing the committee—Sen. Murray, of Montana; O'Daniel, of Texas, and Stewart, of Tennessee.

In a similar battle which ended Wednesday, the Republicans succeeded in winning extension of the Special War Investigating Committee over Democratic opposition. The vote then was 49 to 43.

Tobey, chairman of the Banking Committee, urged that the small business work be turned over to his group. Tobey appealed to his fellow Republicans "to refuse to follow those who are using the party for their own advancement."

Wherry urged an eight-month extension for the committee and said that next year its work could be taken over by one of the regular standing committees. He reported that in the last four years the commitee received 200,000 letters from small businessmen asking assistance and held more than 3,000 hearings.

The group, officially named the "Special Committee to Study and Survey problems of Small Business Enterprises," was headed last year by Sen. Murray (D-Mont). It has investigated problems of small business and proposed means of assistance.

Talmadge Hits His Opponents In Broadcast

Appeals To Father's Old-Line Followers

ATLANTA, Jan. 24. (AP)—Herman Talmadge assailed his opponents tonight as creators of "planned confusion" and appealed by radio to his father's old-line followers to back his claims to the disputed governorship of Georgia.

Talmadge bought radio time with personal funds to attack former Gov. Ellis Arnall and the Atlanta Journal, and to urge public pressure on legislators during the weekend recess of Georgia's General Assembly. He also appealed for contributions from the Talmadge faithful "to aid me in carrying this fight to the people."

Journal "Tries To Make News"

Said Talmadge: "The Atlanta Journal will not print the news. The Atlanta Journal tries to make the news. They are trying to create anarchy in Georgia by drumming up the little meetings of the people who are opposed to the Democratic white primary and who are opposed to the county unit (electoral) system in Georgia. They want to break down the functions of government."

(Wright Bryan, editor of the Journal, said yesterday the Journal had no connection with indignation meetings being held throughout Georgia, except to report the news.)

Talmadge continued: "Don't get alarmed because these newspapers are on my neck—that means I am sticking true to you Georgia people who respect your fathers, who established the (white supremacy) traditions which Ellis Arnall has sworn to destroy."

Urges Special Election

Talmadge re-iterated his preference for a special election to settle Georgia's gubernatorial muddle, and for a third time challenged his rival, Lt. Gov. M. E. Thompson, to resign with him and contest for the governorship. Thompson previously had declined to "barter" for the office.

Meanwhile, Revenue Department checks totalling $1,815,293 lay uncashed in vaults of Georgia's treasury in a dispute over bonding of Talmadge's appointee as revenue commissioner, Charles Redwine. Operations of the State Highway Department also were "frozen" by State Treasurer George B. Hamilton in a similar bonding controversy.

Nurse May Have Been Under Drug

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 24 (AP) — Toledo State Hospital authorities expressed belief today that a 23-year-old Baltimore nurse, brought here after missing for two days, was under a drug and had not suffered an amnesia attack.

Dr. W. B. Tracy, of the hospital staff, said the first diagnosis that Jean Francis Foss was the victim of a temporary attack of amnesia apparently was incorrect.

She was reported almost fully recovered today, but the physician said she still refused to answer questions about her disappearance or to even admit that her last name was Foss.

He said he had been informed by Greyhound Bus Company officials that a passenger reported seeing the girl take a pill while a bus on which she was traveling stopped in Akron.

Dr. Tracy expressed doubt, however, that one pill would be strong enough to make the young woman semi-conscious as she was when admitted to the hospital last night.

Boy, 9, Goes To Nevada To "Divorce" Parents

RENO, Nev. Jan. 24. (AP)—Police held nine-year-old Melvin Roger Lewin, Jr., for his Oakland, Calif., parents tonight, after he took an impromptu 24-hour ride to Nevada "to get a divorce from them."

The tow-headed lad was taken in hand by the police after a bus driver discovered him unaccompanied among the passengers at Battle Mountain, 25 miles from here.

"I'm mad at my folks because they won't take me anywhere, and my hobby is traveling," the boy told reporters. He added that he planned to get a divorce from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin R. Lewin, Oakland, in Nevada, and go to visit an aunt in Chicago.

Draft Dodger Sentenced To 18 Months In Prison

BALTIMORE, Jan. 24 (AP)—Emerald Edward Kennedy, a native of Grafton, W. Va., was sentenced to 18 months in a federal reformatory today after he told Judge William C. Coleman he became a draft dodger because he was afraid he would be returned to a reform school from which he had escaped.

Kennedy, who was charged with failure to report for induction, registered with a Baltimore draft board in 1943, but had never communicated with the board since that time, it was testified.

Witnesses told Judge Coleman in federal court the 21-year-old West Virginian was arrested in Detroit last November on an assault and battery charge and subsequently was returned here.

Marshall To Attend Big Four Ministers' Meeting At Moscow

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall will attend the Big Four Foreign Ministers' meeting on Germany at Moscow March 10, it was officially announced today.

Diplomatic informants expect he will urge Chairman Vanderberg (R-Mich), of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and Sen. Connally (D-Tex) to accompany him and that they will agree.

Marshall thus is expected to continue former Secretary Byrnes' pattern of direct personal negotiation on two peace settlements with the Russian British and French Foreign Ministers.

Punjab Outlaws Moslem League's National Guard

Disorders Flare; Strike Is Called

LAHORE, Punjab, Jan. 24 (AP) — The Punjab provincial government today outlawed the Moslem League's National Guard, a semi-military volunteer body, and arrested eight high-ranking league members. Violence flared tonight in subsequent demonstrations, with nearly 200 persons injured when police armed with clubs charged into a group of league members.

Resentment against the government action spread 900 miles south to Bombay, where the league called upon the 2,500,000 Moslems in all Bombay province to stage a protest strike tomorrow. Moslems were summoned tonight to mass meetings in Bombay in defiance of a ban against assemblages of more than five persons. The ban was imposed because of communal rioting which cost the lives of more than 1,200 Moslems and Hindus since September 1.

Purge Is Demanded

Dawn, the Moslem League's most powerful journalistic voice, demanded in an editorial that the people of Punjab depose the provincial government for what it termed "a vicious and vengeful blow at Moslem Punjab by the Hindu government."

The Punjab government, which supports the program of the predominantly Hindu All-India Congress, announced it had also declared illegal the Rashtriya Sevak Sangh, Hindu youth organization. It said offices of the National Guard and Hindu youth group were raided at the same time, but announced no Hindu arrests.

In a communique the government said it wished to make clear that the action "was not directed against any political party, but was intended "only to prevent expansion of private communal armies which would be harmful to the peaceful position of the country.

30 Arrested In Lahore

Demonstrators appeared in Lahore, the province capital, shortly after the raids and arrests became known. At least 30 persons were arrested. The police charge occurred in front of the Charing Cross police station, with the demonstrators had approached shouting anti-government slogans.

Chazanfar Ali Khan, Moslem League member of the interim government of India, who is in Lahore, tonight cautioned the province league members against letting themselves to be drawn into an "intercommunical (Moslem-Hindu) conflict."

One Dead In Plane Crash

SEATTLE, Jan. 24 (AP)—The body of Lt. Robert L. Thomas, Royal Oak, Mich., was recovered today in the wreckage of a C-47 transport plane from which two fellow airmen bailed out successfully. The plane crashed early today near Kenmore, north end of Lake Washington, the sheriffs announced.

'46 Contracts Stay In Force Until April 30

Management Proposal Accepted By CIO-USW

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 24 (AP)—The United States Steel Corporation and the CIO-United Steel Workers agreed tonight to extend present contracts of all "big steel" subsidiaries until April 30 to gain additional time to work out a 1947 agreement for some 170,000 workers.

News to the extension came after both sides decided to adjourn contract discussions until Monday. A two-hour morning meeting, first to be held on a new contract, ended with the union presenting its 15-point program to the steel representatives headed by John A. Stephens, vice-president in charge of industrial relations for United States Steel of Delaware. The present contract expires February 15.

A year ago, the steel union had begun a month-long strike, involving 750,000 steel workers throughout the nation to enforce demands for a $2-a-day wage increase. That strike was settled by an 18½ cent hourly boost which was adopted by industry generally. The steel union now claims a membership of 850,000.

Murray Announces Extension

Philip Murray, president of both the CIO and the United Steel Workers, announced the extension, saying it was proposed by management. He added that similar extensions with other steel companies probably would be made early next week.

"The union agreed to this course of action," declared Murray, "because we believe that real collective bargaining requires complete discussion of all points. During such discussions the public should not be kept in a state of apprehension. We likewise understand some of the problems confronting management, such as their uncertainty as to their liability in portal-to-portal suits."

Benjamin F. Fairless, president of United States Steel, also issued a statement in which he said:

"The proposal was made and accepted because of the desire on the part of both parties to make a contribution to the national welfare. This action assures continuity of our steel operations until April 30, 1947. During the period of extension there may be clarification of matters now constituting issues between the parties which vitally affect wage and other costs."

Portal Suits Cited

He cited the half-billion dollar suits filed against the giant producer for "alleged past portal-to-portal liability" and said: "Had the union not agreed to the contract extension we would have found ourselves facing an immediate demand to raise wages without knowing how long an individual employe works each day and how much he is entitled to receive at the end of the day—if the portal-to-portal pay theory is to be imposed."

Murray said the contract extension was proposed at this morning's conference between union and corporation and unanimously approved at afternoon meetings of the 42-man executive board and the 260-member national wage and policy committee.

Both Murray and Fairless emphasized the contract extension does not affect the question of retroactivity as it may apply to terms and conditions later agreed upon.

The United States Steel contract would cover 175,000 employees of five subsidiary companies but in the past the settlement with "big steel" has set the pattern for the remainder of the industry. Negotiations already are underway with several other basic steel companies.

Miss Perkins Confirmed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP)—Miss Frances Perkins, former Secretary of Labor, was confirmed by the Senate today as a member of the Civil Service Commission, succeeding Lucille F. McMillin, who resigned.

Are GOP Senators More Beautiful Than Democrats? Contest Is Urged

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP)—An argument over whether Republicans are more beautiful than Democrats got an offer of a sponsor today on the floor of the United States Senate.

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) relayed the proposal from Martin Stern of New York, executive director of the Swim for Health Association.

With rays from the Senate lighting system glittering pleasantly from the bald heads around him, Fulbright read a telegram from Stern:

"The Swim For Health Association is willing to provide neutral jury to conduct glamor contest between Democratic and Republican members of United States Senate. "Will provide necessary trunks. Will furnish beach sweaters or coats for modest members if necessary. Will be happy to conduct beauty contest among wives of Senators, providing bathing suits or sweaters for event.

"Have just completed annual Swim For Health queen beauty contest at Miami Beach. Please wire if you need assistance."

Before reading the telegram, Fulbright recalled that Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) had been quoted as making certain statements about the pulchritude of members of the two major parties.

Taft's observations were tossed off at a state-of-Maine dinner Tuesday night for Republican members of the Senate. He is reported to have looked over the assemblage and remarked that the Republicans, male and female, outshone the Democrats in looks as well as political sagacity.

Fulbright expressed disappointment that Taft was not present today to deliberate on the question. (The Ohioan was out of town making a speech.)

Fulbright said he wanted to ask whether Taft would be willing to settle the matter by a party vote following a caucus, or whether he would leave it to a neutral body, as suggested by Stern's telegram

Baltimore And Ohio Points Way Toward Control Of Smoke

A few days ago the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, through James J. Conner, Jr., instructor in fuel economy, placed before Mayor Thomas S. Post a resume of activities carried on by that company looking to the reduction of smoke within Cumberland's city limits. Mr. Conner gave it as his opinion that great strides have been made by the company in the past few months in eliminating smoke. Mr. Conner said that conditions, as regards the reduction of smoke at the South End Shops and roundhouse have improved approximately 90 percent. He went so far as to say "that by Spring we hope to have things where we want them." He stated further that the smoke-reducing program now being followed by the B. & O. is to be extended to the Bolt and Forge Shop, and climaxed his review of work done with the assertion that "it is believed the necessary equipment for control of smoke has been devised."

All of this is welcome, refreshing and reassuring news to the people of Cumberland, and again demonstrates a fine spirit of good fellowship on the part of the Baltimore and Ohio toward the people of this city. This progress, as outlined by the railroad company's representative, has all come about, we believe, since the recent outpouring of sentiment by the citizens for a smoke control ordinance, and no doubt the company was spurred to greater efforts by the result of the poll conducted by the Cumberland newspapers. Be that so or not, the report made by Mr. Conner goes far toward eliminating the argument often offered by industries and railroads that smoke could not be controlled to a degree proposed for an ordinance by those advocating such legislation.

But the Baltimore and Ohio took time by the forelock, and, without waiting for an ordinance, not only put into service devices to control smoke, but employes have been carefully instructed in their usage to secure the greatest benefits. Not only have workers been schooled in the process of eliminating smoke but when it has been found that orders of the company have not been adhered to by engineers and firemen, and those employed in the firing of locomotives at the roundhouse, they have been called upon to explain their derelictions to officials of the company.

That is as it should be. Employes in charge of the operation of trains should be made to realize their responsibility in such an undertaking. It was with that thought in mind that the first ordinance drafted for the City Council aimed to make employes as much responsible in the carrying out of its provisions as the company itself.

All this, we reiterate, is most encouraging to the people of Cumberland, but it is no reason for the City Council to forget the mandate from the people of Cumberland for a anti-smoke ordinance, and in the face of that overwhelming vote for legislation to apply to railroads and industries alike, it cannot afford to. A compelling ordinance is a necessity if the smoke-control program is to be on a business-like and orderly basis. But such action has been too long delayed.

Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, who has been directed to whip into shape an ordinance for presentation to the City Council, is looked to for speedy action by those making up the huge majority expressing themselves on the matter. Mr. Heskett has announced he is awaiting receipt of further information to be incorporated in the legislation that will make certain smoke is restricted to the greatest possible minimum. Mr. Heskett, we can be certain, will do a thorough job, and his efforts should provide a guide to those who will be expected to carry out the terms of the ordinance.

The task of enforcing such an ordinance can be greatly eased if it is given the wholehearted support of those it is directed against. This has already been demonstrated by the forward steps toward less smoke taken by the Baltimore and Ohio. But a compelling ordinance is, nevertheless, essential, and there can be little excuse for putting it off much longer.

It is now possible to talk to Moscow via long distance for $12, but what good would it do?

Secretary Marshall Rules Out Politics In His Job

General Marshall says he isn't a candidate for political office, and that he cannot be drafted. Because he said that, we believe him. He isn't given to political double-talk. When he says "no," he doesn't mean "maybe." He means NO—period. His wartime associates testify to that.

The new Secretary of State's statement should end the talk of "Marshall for President" in 1948, as well as the speculation about a Truman-Marshall ticket. He has ruled out both possibilities.

It is Secretary Marshall's correct view that the position he has assumed is non-political under present conditions. It was in this spirit that he became Chief of Staff of the Army, and in that position he was non-partisan and non-political in the best traditions of the professional military man.

Without political affiliations, and insisting he will have none, the new Secretary of State is in an ideal position to work under a Democratic President and with a Republican majority in Congress. This is most important, for it is vital that the American bi-partisan foreign policy be maintained throughout the critical negotiations with our allies concerning the Germans, Austrians and Far Eastern war settlements.

Secretary Marshall is not seeking political perferment, and he isn't standing in anyone's light, so we hope the politicians will take him at his word and let him alone. We need Americans today more than we need Republicans or Democrats, and statesmen far more than we need candidates. We have a big job to be done, and a big man to do it. Let's support him in the same spirit with which he has accepted the assignment.

Later discoveries indicate the earth is twenty times older than first believed. It doesn't act its age.

Lesson For Executive

A lesson for every executive from Mrs. George C. Marshall's book, "Together," about herself and the General who is our new Secretary of State.

"He issued few orders (at Army posts). If the post was shabby, with poorly kept grounds, he began fixing up his own garden and lawn; and within a few weeks all the lawns and gardens down the line began to take on a different complexion. There was never a word said."

THUMBSUCKERS

INFANTS are inclined to put any available object into the mouth. The fingers and toes are favored but since the impulse is part of their development there is usually no cause for alarm. But should the habit continue after the first birthday it can be classified as undesirable.

Initially the practice is considered natural because it represents a response to the sucking reflex, particularly when the tike is hungry or about to be fed. A few, however, cannot refrain from bringing the fingers to the lips even tho they are perfectly healthy and receive more than enough nourishment. Now and then, while the child is sucking the thumb of one hand the other will be busily engaged in pulling an ear or twisting the hair.

Many mothers worry about the possibility of deformities. There is nothing to fear, provided the trick disappears by the time the permanent teeth erupt. Should it persist, the upper jaw may be pushed forward, leading to dental malocclusion. Moreover, the thumb may become flattened from constant pressure between the lips and a lesion usually appears at the site of contact with the teeth.

Prior to school age, some toddlers console themselves this way when bored, fatigued, ill, or after punishment. Occasionally a youngster indulges when he is frustrated and the action has no more significance than an adult wringing his hands or resting his brow on the palm of the hand. Consequently treatment is not necessary. Otherwise the subject's attention is focused on the mannerism so that ultimately it will become second nature. The less said the better and quicker results are obtained by handing the child a toy or giving him something to do.

Should the custom be carried beyond infancy and become an all-day affair, rigging up a mechanical device or painting the digit with a bitter substance like quinine may be successful. But again, there is always the chance that the fault will be given undue prominence. This will defeat the purpose in youngsters who are willing to quit and need only a simple reminder. The better plan is to keep them busy with interesting toys which allow plenty of manipulation. Many require playmates but if no children live in the neighborhood, a nursery school will often solve the problem.

After the sixth or seventh year the maneuver is looked upon as a manifestation of general emotional immaturity. Psychiatric care may be necessary as the personality or environment frequently demands readjustment. Perhaps an unrecognized handicap such as poor vision may be the basis and, when corrected, relief will follow. Furthermore, older thumbsuckers sometimes have related disorders such as bedwetting or picking at fuzzy clothing or blankets.

Treatment is always advocated if for esthetic reasons alone. Because the neighbors talk, parents begin to nag their offspring. For this reason the boy or girl may curb the practice in public but not necessarily when he is unobserved and in a solitary place undisturbed by others. We can see that these children need help.

INTESTINAL FLU

R. H. writes: What are the symptoms of intestinal flu?

REPLY

The term is used loosely by the laity in describing an intestinal infection manifested by nausea, vomiting, diarhea, cramping, and sometimes constipation. The condition is usually acute in onset and associated with fever. In the strict sense, however, the term should be limited to these manifestations as they occur with influenza. In these circumstances there are accompanying respiratory symptoms — headache, lassitude, cough, and generalized aching.

BURPING HUBBY

Mrs. W. writes: My husband belches all the time, even in his sleep. What can be done for him?

REPLY

This is better than snoring. The disorder may be due to air swallowing, nervousness, or disease of the gall blader. I would suggest, therefore, that he consult a physician who will consider all the possibilities.

BILE INGREDIENTS

R. T. writes: You said in a recent article on bile that its composition is complex. What does it contain?

REPLY

The substances include such jawbreakers as sodium glycocholate and taurocholate, cholesterin, billverdin and billirubin and lecithin. Fat and mucus are also present.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

I just read where the Byrd expedition has run into the "Little America" settlement which was built in 1939. The icicle expedition found frozen, dressed chickens and hams and a 1940 newspaper—all still in good condition. (1940—that's when the Democrats were still getting the outside rooms in Washington.)

And they didn't have any trouble going through the newspaper, of course, they had to read it cube by cube.

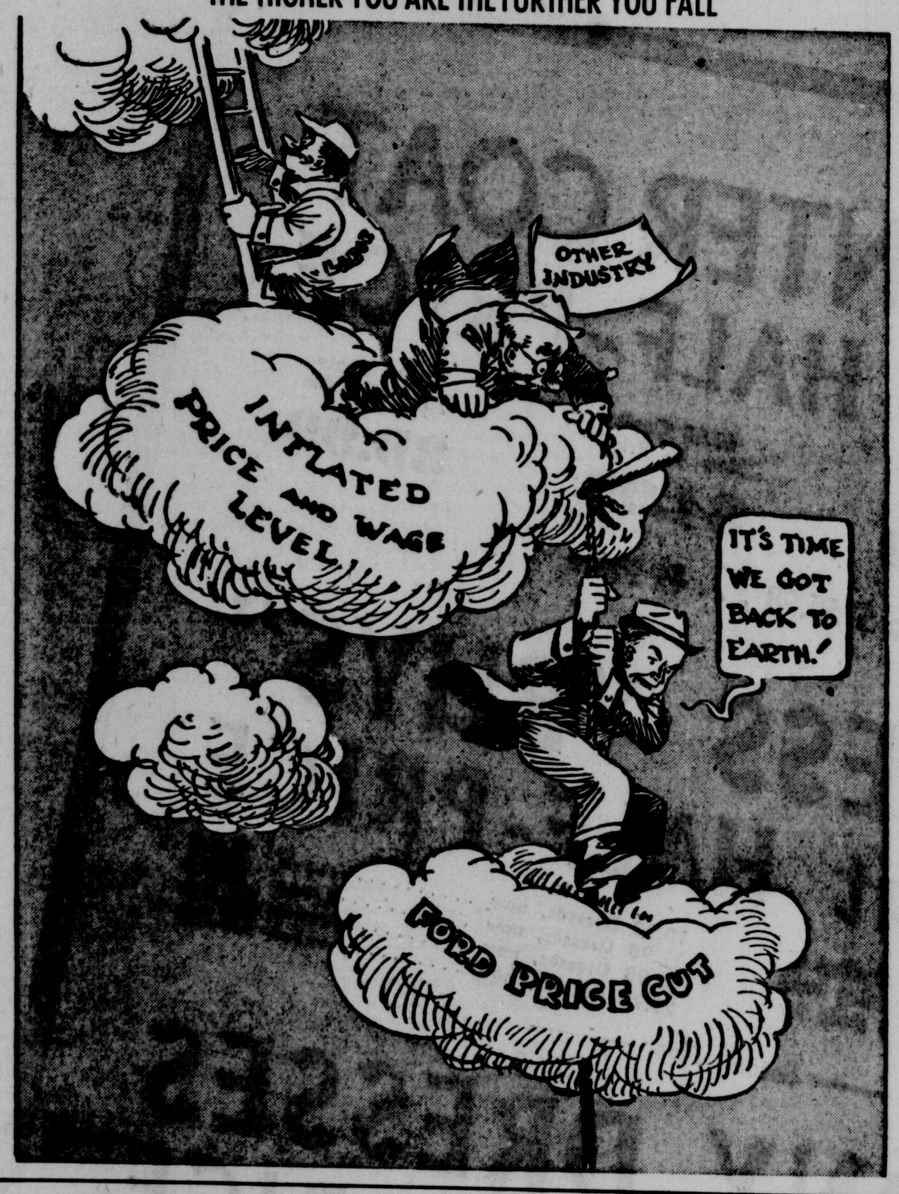

And frozen hams are nothing new. You should see some of these actors who work in air-conditioned studios.

Of course, until now I never realized men would go that far to get new refrigerators, but then housewives would love it down there; they'd never have any worries about crowding the icebox.

But this natural refrigeration has given the frozen food companies some bad habits. Two hundred of their best customers were seen loading provisions on a dogsled.

However, the Byrd news dispatches caused a little confusion here in Los Angeles. For two weeks the farmers smudged their orange groves before they discovered the expedition's daily communique wasn't our own weather report.

Admirals Are Like Women - They Change Their Minds; The Navy's Favorite Story On a Well-Known Columnist; Free Match Problem

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—If Congress really wants to cut the budget, the boys on Capitol Hill might scrutinize certain naval operations going on almost under their noses in Southern Maryland.

Directly south of Washington near Solomon's Island, Md., the Navy operated an important wartime ordnance development center. About 19,000 men were stationed there during the war and some of the Navy's most important guns were tested out near Solomon's Island.

Just half a mile on the other side of Solomon's, the Navy also operated another important establishment —a mine test base.

Came the end of the war and last August, the Navy decided to abandon the mine test base but continue the ordnance development center as a permanent operation. So it started to tear down buildings, clear land and to construct permanent officers' quarters for the ordnance center.

Then two months later the Navy changed its mind. In October, it decided to reverse the process and make the mine test center permanent, abandoning the ordnance development center.

Accordingly, the Navy signed a contract with the Burns Construction Company, which proceeded to move 25 Quonset huts, previously erected at the ordnance development, over to the mine test base. The Burns Company also started construction of permanent new homes for Navy personnel, poured cement foundations, laid floors, installed indirect heating systems, and erected steel framework for prefabrication.

Those Changeable Admirals

In fact, the homes were about one-half completed, when suddenly the Navy again changed its mind.

Having first decided to abandon the mine test base, then decided to make it permanent, the admirals have now decided once again to abandon the mine test base.

Meanwhile various expensive supplies badly needed for veterans housing, having already been ordered, are being delivered. If Congressmen had journeyed south a few miles into Maryland recently, they might have seen truckloads of steel framework and insulation going down to Solomon's Island—despite the fact that all construction has been stopped. The Navy forgot the slight detail of countermanding its orders in time to prevent delivery.

All of this is one reason why veterans housing is so scarce. The biggest builders in the United States are the Army and Navy. Both branches of the service decided to rush through a lot of construction immediately after the war while they thought Congress was in a generous mood.

The Navy's Two Pets

Here is the latest story going the rounds of the Navy Department. When you read the above account on the changeable admirals you can understand why the Navy tells it with such glee.

A grammar school teacher was enrolling a new class, according to the Navy, and was somewhat surprised to find two small boys who gave their names as: "John L. Lewis Smith" and "Drew Pearson Smith."

A little perplexed at these unusual names, the teacher decided to call the mother of the two boys, and the following conversation took place:

"Mrs. Smith, I'm calling about your two little boys who enrolled with me at school today. I just better names for those two little b——————."

And that is the Navy's story.

Developments In Field Of Prices Foreshadow Something Larger

By MARK SULLIVAN

Several current developments in the field of prices foreshadow something larger. The over-all problem will confront the country and Congress within a few months.

One development is the fall in food prices, and the feeling of warmers about it. After a cut in the price of milk in the Philadelphia area was ordered by the Department of Agriculture at Washington, the Philadelphia Inquirer interviewed several leading milk producers. It found that "not more than a handful of milk farmers will object to the cut." The prevailing view was epitomized in the headline, "Milk Price Cut Pleases Many Dairy Farmers."

But if farmers regard a drop in wartime prices of good and crops as normal and wholesome, their contentment is conditional. If prices of what they must buy take the same downward course, well and good. But if prices of manufactured goods remain high, and especially if they go higher, there will ensue a feeling on the part of farmers likely to lead to a variation of the political condition which in the 1920s was called the "farm problem."

Depends on Wage Problem

At this stage, much of the outcome depends on whether the current demands of CIO for wage raises in several industries are won. To the power recently exercised by labor leaders generally, farmers are opposed, and their opposition expresses itself politically. Farmers contributed heavily to the majorities which in the November election resulted in a Republican Congress. Toward CIO, farmers have a reason for special grievance. Practically every farmer is familiar with two CIO strikes in big farm implement plants, so prolonged as to be spectacular, which made farm implements scarce and high priced—one in Allis-Chalmers which has lasted 271 days; one in the J. I. Case Company which has lasted over a year.

Winning of the present round of wage demands, entailing continuation of high prices for manufactured goods, and possibly even higher prices, cannot go hand in hand with acceptance by farmers of reduced prices for their crops. A 1947 "farm problem" would descend upon Congress. It would take, as in the 1920s, the form of demands that prices of farm crops be kept from going down by actions of government.

At present, the government follows two contradictory policies about crop prices. On one hand, it is taking legal steps against an organization of dairymen in New York State which bought butter at artificial prices in order to prevent the prices of dairy products from going down. That is in the spirit of letting the economic law of supply and demand work.

Government Holds Up Prices

On the other hand, the government itself artificially prevents prices of some crops from going down. During last summer and fall the government spent some $80,000,000 to buy potatoes and take them off a market in which lower prices for potatoes were likely to result from an exceptionally large crop. Many of the potatoes thus bought went to waste. That was done at a time when there was widespread complaint against high prices of food.

Already in Congress and in the Administration, are suggestions for preventing lower prices of farm crops, by extension of existing wartime statutes or otherwise. Some farmers endorse the idea, or tacitly accept it. Others have learned that when government undertakes to prevent prices of crops from falling, it at the same time imposes on farmers limitations on what crops they may plant and how much, limitation on the farmer's use of his land. To many farmers this is unwelcome.

What to do about prices, whether to let them follow the law of supply and demand, or regulate them by government, is at once the root and the fruit of the world-wide conflict between individualism and collectivism. That conflict confronts Congress not only in several domestic issues but internationally, through proposals for world-wide stabilization of prices, through instrumentalities of the United Nations or otherwise

More Than Money Claims Seen In Portal To Portal Pay Dispute

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—More than money claims is involved in the "portal to portal" pay dispute. If the Supreme Court ruling is allowed to stand, the way is opened to the regulation of every single moment of time of the worker notwithstanding what his union contract or individual bargain may be.

The AFL wisely has refrained from presenting "portal to portal" claims and argues that what constitutes a "work week" should be left to the employers and employees to determine by agreement as always has been the custom.

The CIO, on the other hand, for some unexplained reason has chosen to file suits involving billions of dollars and has done more damage to the cause of organized labor than it can ever recover through money claims.

For, if Congress has the right under the constitution to define a "work week" and what constitutes work done within 40 hours, it has the power to prescribe the duties of workers in that period and to rule on whether the employer has or has not received a day's work for a given day's wage.

Congress Can Clarify Situation

The Congress purposely refrained from defining a "work week" and no good purpose will be served now by trying to write a definition. If the Congress will, in effect, nullify the Supreme Court's ruling by declaring that a "work week" is whatever is agreed upon by unions and employers, or between individual employees and employers where no union exists, the situation will be clarified.

To try to define a "work week" would raise questions of constitutionality. Congress can make no law prescribing obligations of work for any individual, and to attempt to exclude or include this or that use of the worker's time in defining a "work week" is to tread on dangerous ground.

If the Supreme Court had not overstepped the bounds and written a piece of legislation which Congress had deliberately refused to write, the present controversy would never have arisen.

The remedial measures now pending before Congress can be confined to a 100 per cent taxation of windfall income arising out of the "portal to portal" suits. This would dispose of past instances. Then a declaratory resolution with respect to the acceptance of definitions hereafter written by mutual agreement of employers and employees would dispose of future suits.

The hullaballoo that is being raised in some quarters about the impairment of the wage and hour law is not based on reality. Actually the wage and hour law simply requires that overtime beyond 40 hours shall be compensated for, and there is no power under the law to settle what constitutes the 40 hours. This is a matter for agreement or disagreement between employer and employees and is part of the work contract, just as is the question of whether an employee works undertime. Usually there is machinery for adjusting disputes or grievances over working time, but when a federal statute is interpreted by the Supreme Court to mean that the courts are hereafter to pass upon what constitutes a "work week," the way is opened to chaos in the industrial world.

Definition Of Work Week Doubtful

It has been suggested by many who have not thought through the subject that a definition of "work week" is in order. If Congress ever attempted such a definition, it is probable that it would be questioned in the courts as to constitutionality. Likewise, there appears to be no sentiment in Congress in favor of adding to the regimentation rituals of the preceding decade. The tendency is rather to throw off as many controls as possible so that management and labor can make their own bargaining arrangements. Once the individual or union agrees with the employer on what constitutes a "work week" or 40 hours, the federal law relative to overtime would apply.

Certainly the labor unions have more to gain than to lose by making the "work week" a subject of collective bargaining negotiations and agreements. The AFL leaders are smart to drive home that point, but this is no surprise, as the AFL leaders are among the most experienced trade unionists in the world.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—CP—Lord Inverchapel, the British ambassador, has no intention of returning to England before midsummer, at least. He is too busy reliving some of the times he enjoyed when, as a young embassy clerk, he previously served in Washington. Chatting a few days ago, he appeared anxious to visit Florida and several other places.

But uppermost in his mind is the thought of spring and watching the flowers he personally planted come to bloom. Then he wants to go to New England.

Inverchapel

"I used to shoot whitetailed deer," he said. "I don't mind that, but I couldn't shoot a bear. It made my guide angry, for it was a beautiful bear. He was sitting there munching blueberries and I hadn't the heart."

He prefers, also, New England's hardwood trees as "far better than those eternal Christmas trees they have in the west."

The envoy's memory of good sport is to take a canoe to Harper's Ferry, toss it in the water and shoot the rapids down to Great Falls, just out of Washington.

"You can make it nicely in a weekend," he said. "Start Saturday afternoon and you are back in Washington Monday morning. But be sure to have at least an 18-foot canoe or you are liable to nose under in stiff rapids."

Political observers are watching President Truman closely for signs that his pre-1948 strategy might take the form of putting the Republicans on the spot by forcing them to make important decisions which they may be reluctant to make.

They noted that his termination of hostilities had all the earmarks of forcing the GOP to commit itself on several essential points—farm support prices, excise taxes and the Smith-Conally act. In his state of the union message, observers saw his references to demands for a balanced budget and debt-reduction in the face of Republican requests for lower income taxes.

Some observers think Mr. Truman will steer a middle course, waiting for the Republicans to make mistakes before he takes a stand for 1948.

Former Rep. Roger C. Slaughter (D) of Missouri who was "purged" by President Truman last year, may accompany the House surplus property committee overseas as special counsel.

Sources close to the committee declared that Slaughter, who acted as committee chairman last year, would probably be asked to make the trip —after the adjournment of Congress this summer.

The Missourian, who aroused the president's ire by voting against administration legislation, has returned to his law practice in Kansas City. It was not known whether he would accept the committee's invitation.

The committee, which is being reconstituted under the chairmanship of Rep. Ross Rizley (R) of Oklahoma, is expected to concentrate this year on the disposal of billions of dollars in surplus property overseas.

Diplomats housed in the State Department building just across a narrow tree-lined street from the White House should be immersed in the problems of international policy. But about the corridors, talk centers rather on the removal of the oldest department of the government to Washington's "foggy bottom."

The die appears cast that most of then will move, including Secretary George C. Marshall and his aides.

President Truman says he wants the secretary of state to stay where he is, but White House moves make it impossible.

Mr. Truman has placed many special agencies in the State Department building, such as the Budget Bureau and the Atomic Energy Commission. Recently he has also ordered the offices of John Steelman, "assistant president," to be located there.

Newsmen are disturbed about giving up the lush, carpeted soundproofed press room, built for them by former Secretary Stettinius.

As one budget bureau inspector said on seeing the room, "All it lacks is a bar."

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

When the Lights Go On

Life is full of wonder and surprises. Each has its given thrill. I have sat in my office in the big city, and watched the lights go on, sweeping, little by little, until the entire city becomes a great expanse of glittering lights. Then I look up into the night sky and see the Heavens all lit up—the unknown vying with man, and the little that he knows.

The same is experienced, after dusk, when you enter your home and turn on the lights. The home lights up—and so do you! You are shut out from the outer darkness—in the light.

I often think of the little towns, in which I was brought up, and when there was no electricity, and when the Lamp Lighter went about with a torch and lit up the street lamps. One by one the lights appeared and soon long streets of them glowed in the night. It always thrilled me to look upon such an experience.

When we are low in spirit, and troubled perhaps, what a joy it is to get a letter, or to meet an old friend, or to have some happy experience that veritably lights us up in mind and heart. I often think of many human being who go around lighting up lives whenever they contact them. This was true of two of my old friends, now gone—Bob Davis and "Billy" Phelps. Two great noblemen. They never left anyone without leaving a glow behind.

I have a few favorite books, which I am sure many have, that always light up the mind, and even all about one, after contact with the thoughts therein. They are the living books, the indispensables. My friend George Stimpson, is an authority on the Bible and Shakespeare He tells me that he never goes to bed at night without reading from both—each of which he has read through scores of times. No other books shed so much light into a human being as do these two.

If the Light of Love could be turned on in every human being's heart, throughout the world, there would be no need of a United Nations organization. All wars would be at an end. There would be no strikes, and the humblest could aspire to be a King in his own little world!

Baltimore And Ohio Points Way Toward Control Of Smoke

A few days ago the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, through James J. Conner, Jr., instructor in fuel economy, placed before Mayor Thomas S. Post a resume of activities carried on by that company looking to the reduction of smoke within Cumberland's city limits. Mr. Conner gave it as his opinion that great strides have been made by the company in the past few months in eliminating smoke. Mr. Conner said that conditions, as regards the reduction of smoke at the South End Shops and roundhouse have improved approximately 90 percent. He went so far as to say "that by Spring we hope to have things where we want them." He stated further that the smoke-reducing program now being followed by the B. & O. is to be extended to the Bolt and Forge Shop, and climaxed his review of work done with the assertion that "it is believed the necessary equipment for control of smoke has been devised."

All of this is welcome, refreshing and reassuring news to the people of Cumberland, and again demonstrates a fine spirit of good fellowship on the part of the Baltimore and Ohio toward the people of this city. This progress, as outlined by the railroad company's representative, has all come about, we believe, since the recent outpouring of sentiment by the citizens for a smoke control ordinance, and no doubt the company was spurred to greater efforts by the result of the poll conducted by the Cumberland newspapers. Be that so or not, the report made by Mr. Conner goes far toward eliminating the argument often offered by industries and railroads that smoke could not be controlled to a degree proposed for an ordinance by those advocating such legislation.

But the Baltimore and Ohio took time by the forelock, and, without waiting for an ordinance, not only put into service devices to control smoke, but employes have been carefully instructed in their usage to secure the greatest benefits. Not only have workers been schooled in the process of eliminating smoke but when it has been found that orders of the company have not been adhered to by engineers and firemen, and those employed in the firing of locomotives at the roundhouse, they have been called upon to explain their derelictions to officials of the company.

That is as it should be. Employes in charge of the operation of trains should be made to realize their responsibility in such an undertaking. It was with that thought in mind that the first ordinance drafted for the City Council aimed to make employes as much responsible in the carrying out of its provisions as the company itself.

All this, we reiterate, is most encouraging to the people of Cumberland, but it is no reason for the City Council to forget the mandate from the people of Cumberland for a anti-smoke ordinance, and in the face of that overwhelming vote for legislation to apply to railroads and industries alike, it cannot afford to. A compelling ordinance is a necessity if the smoke-control program is to be on a business-like and orderly basis. But such action has been too long delayed.

Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, who has been directed to whip into shape an ordinance for presentation to the City Council, is looked to for speedy action by those making up the huge majority expressing themselves on the matter. Mr. Heskett has announced he is awaiting receipt of further information to be incorporated in the legislation that will make certain smoke is restricted to the greatest possible minimum. Mr. Heskett, we can be certain, will do a thorough job, and his efforts should provide a guide to those who will be expected to carry out the terms of the ordinance.

The task of enforcing such an ordinance can be greatly eased if it is given the wholehearted support of those it is directed against. This has already been demonstrated by the forward steps toward less smoke taken by the Baltimore and Ohio. But a compelling ordinance is, nevertheless, essential, and there can be little excuse for putting it off much longer.

It is now possible to talk to Moscow via long distance for $12, but what good would it do?

Secretary Marshall Rules Out Politics In His Job

General Marshall says he isn't a candidate for political office, and that he cannot be drafted. Because he said that, we believe him. He isn't given to political double-talk. When he says "no," he doesn't mean "maybe." He means NO—period. His wartime associates testify to that.

The new Secretary of State's statement should end the talk of "Marshall for President" in 1948, as well as the speculation about a Truman-Marshall ticket. He has ruled out both possibilities.

It is Secretary Marshall's correct view that the position he has assumed is non-political under present conditions. It was in this spirit that he became Chief of Staff of the Army, and in that position he was non-partisan and non-political in the best traditions of the professional military man.

Without political affiliations, and insisting he will have none, the new Secretary of State is in an ideal position to work under a Democratic President and with a Republican majority in Congress. This is most important, for it is vital that the American bi-partisan foreign policy be maintained throughout the critical negotiations with our allies concerning the Germans, Austrians and Far Eastern war settlements.

Secretary Marshall is not seeking political perferment, and he isn't standing in anyone's light, so we hope the politicians will take him at his word and let him alone. We need Americans today more than we need Republicans or Democrats, and statesmen far more than we need candidates. We have a big job to be done, and a big man to do it. Let's support him in the same spirit with which he has accepted the assignment.

Later discoveries indicate the earth is twenty times older than first believed. It doesn't act its age.

Lesson For Executive

A lesson for every executive from Mrs. George C. Marshall's book, "Together," about herself and the General who is our new Secretary of State.

"He issued few orders (at Army posts). If the post was shabby, with poorly kept grounds, he began fixing up his own garden and lawn; and within a few weeks all the lawns and gardens down the line began to take on a different complexion. There was never a word said."

THUMBSUCKERS

INFANTS are inclined to put any available object into the mouth. The fingers and toes are favored but since the impulse is part of their development there is usually no cause for alarm. But should the habit continue after the first birthday it can be classified as undesirable.

Initially the practice is considered natural because it represents a response to the sucking reflex, particularly when the tike is hungry or about to be fed. A few, however, cannot refrain from bringing the fingers to the lips even tho they are perfectly healthy and receive more than enough nourishment. Now and then, while the child is sucking the thumb of one hand the other will be busily engaged in pulling an ear or twisting the hair.

Many mothers worry about the possibility of deformities. There is nothing to fear, provided the trick disappears by the time the permanent teeth erupt. Should it persist, the upper jaw may be pushed forward, leading to dental malocclusion. Moreover, the thumb may become flattened from constant pressure between the lips and a lesion usually appears at the site of contact with the teeth.

Prior to school age, some toddlers console themselves this way when bored, fatigued, ill, or after punishment. Occasionally a youngster indulges when he is frustrated and the action has no more significance than an adult wringing his hands or resting his brow on the palm of the hand. Consequently treatment is not necessary. Otherwise the subject's attention is focused on the mannerism so that ultimately it will become second nature. The less said the better and quicker results are obtained by handing the child a toy or giving him something to do.

Should the custom be carried beyond infancy and become an all-day affair, rigging up a mechanical device or painting the digit with a bitter substance like quinine may be successful. But again, there is always the chance that the fault will be given undue prominence. This will defeat the purpose in youngsters who are willing to quit and need only a simple reminder. The better plan is to keep them busy with interesting toys which allow plenty of manipulation. Many require playmates but if no children live in the neighborhood, a nursery school will often solve the problem.

After the sixth or seventh year the maneuver is looked upon as a manifestation of general emotional immaturity. Psychiatric care may be necessary as the personality or environment frequently demands readjustment. Perhaps an unrecognized handicap such as poor vision may be the basis and, when corrected, relief will follow. Furthermore, older thumbsuckers sometimes have related disorders such as bedwetting or picking at fussy clothing or blankets.

Treatment is always advocated if for esthetic reasons alone. Because the neighbors talk, parents begin to nag their offspring. For this reason the boy or girl may curb the practice in public but not necessarily when he is unobserved and in a solitary place undisturbed by others. We can see that these children need help.

INTESTINAL FLU

R. H. writes: What are the symptoms of intestinal flu?

REPLY

The term is used loosely by the laity in describing an intestinal infection manifested by nausea, vomiting, diarhea, cramping, and sometimes constipation. The condition is usually acute in onset and associated with fever. In the strict sense, however, the term should be limited to these manifestations as they occur with influenza. In these circumstances there are accompanying respiratory symptoms — headache, lassitude, cough, and generalized aching.

BURPING HUBBY

Mrs. W. writes: My husband belches all the time, even in his sleep. What can be done for him?

REPLY

This is better than snoring. The disorder may be due to air swallowing, nervousness, or disease of the gall blader. I would suggest, therefore, that he consult a physician who will consider all the possibilities.

BILE INGREDIENTS

R. T. writes: You said in a recent article on bile that its composition is complex. What does it contain?

REPLY

The substances include such jawbreakers as sodium glycocholate and taurocholate, cholesterin, biliverdin and billirubin and lecithin. Fat and mucus are also present.

It Says Here ... By BOB HOPE

I just read where the Byrd expedition has run into the "Little America" settlement which was built in 1939. The icicle expedition found frozen, dressed chickens and hams and a 1940 newspaper—all still in good condition. (1940—that's when the Democrats were still getting the outside rooms in Washington.)

And they didn't have any trouble going through the newspaper, of course, they had to read it cube by cube.

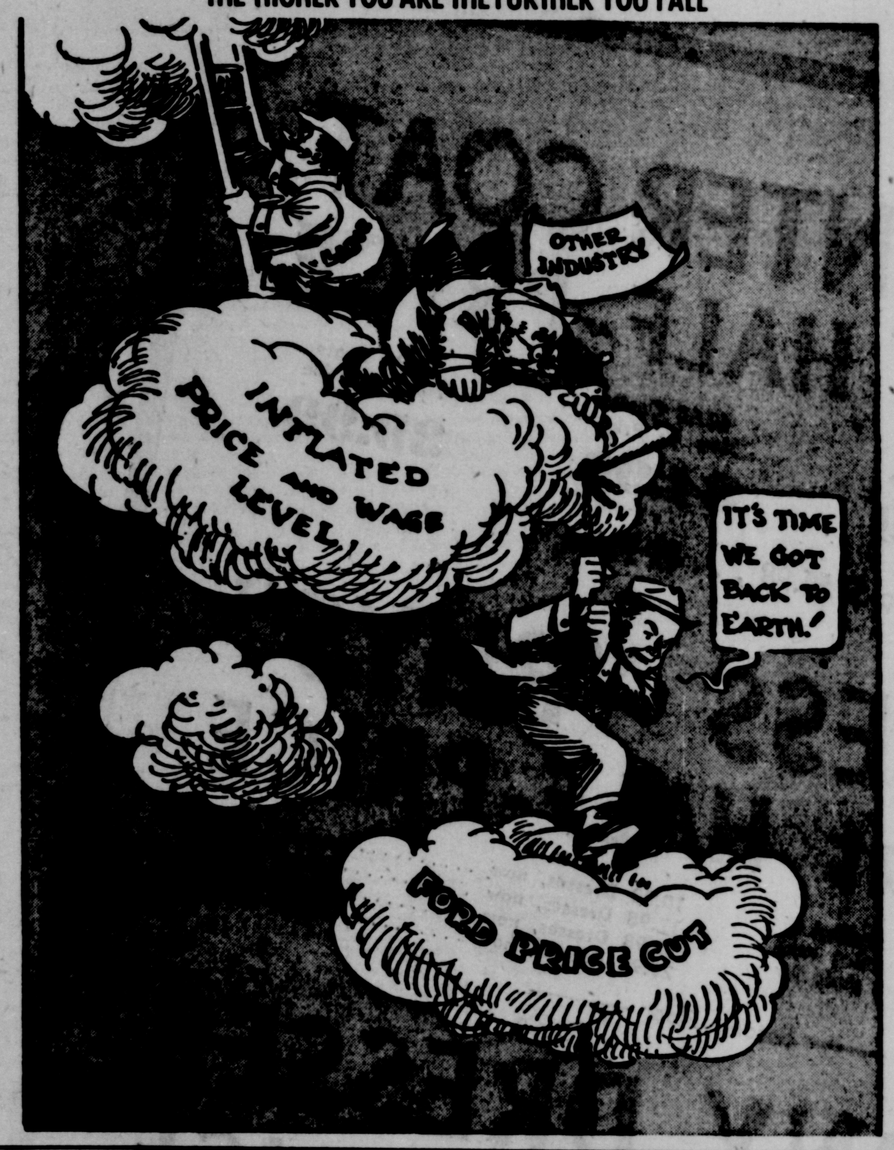

And frozen hams are nothing new. You should see some of these actors who work in air-conditioned studios.

Of course, until now I never realized men would go that far to get new refrigerators, but then housewives would love it down there; they'd never have any worries about crowding the icebox.

But this natural refrigeration has given the frozen food companies some bad habits. Two hundred of their best customers were seen loading provisions on a dogsled.

However, the Byrd news dispatches caused a little confusion here in Los Angeles. For two weeks the farmers smudged their orange groves before they discovered the expedition's daily communique wasn't our own weather report.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—If Congress really wants to cut the budget, the boys on Capitol Hill might scrutinize certain naval operations going on almost under their noses in Southern Maryland.

Directly south of Washington near Solomon's Island, Md., the Navy operated an important wartime ordnance development center. About 19,000 men were stationed there during the war and some of the Navy's most important guns were tested out near Solomon's Island.

Just half a mile on the other side of Solomon's, the Navy also operated another important establishment —a mine test base.

Came the end of the war and last August, the Navy decided to abandon the mine test base but continue the ordnance development center as a permanent operation. So it started to tear down buildings, clear land and to construct permanent officers' quarters for the ordnance center.

Then two months later the Navy changed its mind. In October, it decided to reverse the process and make the mine test center permanent, abandoning the ordnance development center.

Accordingly, the Navy signed a contract with the Burns Construction Company, which proceeded to move 25 Quonset huts, previously erected at the ordnance development, over to the mine test base. The Burns Company also started construction of permanent new homes for Navy personnel, poured cement foundations, laid floors, installed indirect heating systems, and erected steel framework for prefabrication.

Those Changeable Admirals

In fact, the homes were about one-half completed, when suddenly the Navy again changed its mind.

Having first decided to abandon the mine test base, then decided to make it permanent, the admirals have now decided once again to abandon the mine test base.

Meanwhile various expensive supplies badly needed for veterans housing, having already been ordered, are being delivered. If Congressmen had journeyed south a few miles into Maryland recently, they might have seen truckloads of steel framework and insulation going down to Solomon's Island—despite the fact that all construction has been stopped. The Navy forgot the slight detail of countermanding its orders in time to prevent delivery.

All of this is one reason why veterans housing is so scarce. The biggest builders in the United States are the Army and Navy. Both branches of the service decided to rush through a lot of construction immediately after the war while they thought Congress was in a generous mood.

The Navy's Two Pets

Here is the latest story going the rounds of the Navy Department. When you read the above account on the changeable admirals you can understand why the Navy tells it with such glee.

A grammar school teacher was enrolling a new class, according to the Navy, and was somewhat surprised to find two small boys who gave their names as: "John L. Lewis Smith" and "Drew Pearson Smith."

A little perplexed at these unusual names, the teacher decided to call the mother of the two boys, and the following conversation took place:

"Mrs. Smith, I'm calling about your two little boys who enrolled with me at school today. I just better names for these two little b————."

And that is the Navy's story.

By MARK SULLIVAN

Several current developments in the field of prices foreshadow something larger. The over-all problem will confront the country and Congress within a few months.

One development is the fall in food prices, and the feeling of warmers about it. After a cut in the price of milk in the Philadelphia area was ordered by the Department of Agriculture at Washington, the Philadelphia Inquirer interviewed several leading milk producers. It found that "not more than a handful of milk farmers will object to the cut." The prevailing view was epitomized in the headline, "Milk Price Cut Pleases Many Dairy Farmers."

But if farmers regard a drop in wartime prices of good and crops as normal and wholesome, their contentment is conditional. If prices of what they must buy take the same downward course, well and good. But if prices of manufactured goods remain high, and especially if they go higher, there will ensue a feeling on the part of farmers likely to lead to a variation of the political condition which in the 1920s was called the "farm problem."

Depends on Wage Problem

At this stage, much of the outcome depends on whether the current demands of CIO for wage raises in several industries are won. To the power recently exercised by labor leaders generally, farmers are opposed, and their opposition expresses itself politically. Farmers contributed heavily to the majorities which in the November election resulted in a Republican Congress. Toward CIO, farmers have a reason for special grievance. Practically every farmer is familiar with two CIO strikes in big farm implement plants, so prolonged as to be spectacular, which made farm implements scarce and high priced—one in Allis-Chalmers which has lasted 271 days; one in the J. I. Case Company which has lasted over a year.

Winning of the present round of wage demands, entailing continuation of high prices for manufactured goods, and possibly even higher prices, cannot go hand in hand with acceptance by farmers of reduced prices for their crops. A 1947 "farm problem" would descend upon Congress. It would take, as in the 1920s, the form of demands that prices of farm crops be kept from going down by actions of government.

At present, the government follows two contradictory policies about crop prices. On one hand, it is taking legal steps against an organization of dairymen in New York State which bought butter at artificial prices in order to prevent the prices of dairy products from going down. That is in the spirit of letting the economic law of supply and demand work.

Government Holds Up Prices

On the other hand, the government itself artificially prevents prices of some crops from going down. During last summer and fall the government spent some $80,000,000 to buy potatoes and take them off a market in which lower prices for potatoes were likely to result from an exceptionally large crop. Many of the potatoes thus bought went to waste. That was done at a time when there was widespread complaint against high prices of food.

Already in Congress and in the Administration, are suggestions for preventing lower prices of farm crops, by extension of existing wartime statutes or otherwise. Some farmers endorse the idea, or tacitly accept it. Others have learned that when government undertakes to prevent prices of crops from falling, it at the same time imposes on farmers limitations on what crops they may plant and how much, limitation on the farmer's use of his land. To many farmers this is unwelcome.

What to do about prices, whether to let them follow the law of supply and demand, or regulate them by government, is at once the root and the fruit of the world-wide conflict between individualism and collectivism. That conflict confronts Congress not only in several domestic issues but internationally, through proposals for world-wide stabilization of prices, through instrumentalities of the United Nations or otherwise

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—More than money claims is involved in the "portal to portal" pay dispute. If the Supreme Court ruling is allowed to stand, the way is opened to the regulation of every single moment of time of the worker notwithstanding what his union contract or individual bargain may be.

The AFL wisely has refrained from presenting "portal to portal" claims and argues that what constitutes a "work week" should be left to the employers and employees to determine by agreement as always has been the custom.

The CIO, on the other hand, for some unexplained reason has chosen to file suits involving billions of dollars and has done more damage to the cause of organized labor than it can ever recover through money claims.

For, if Congress has the right under the constitution to define a "work week" and what constitutes work done within 40 hours, it has the power to prescribe the duties of workers in that period and to rule on whether the employer has or has not received a day's work for a given day's wage.

Congress Can Clarify Situation

The Congress purposely refrained from defining a "work week" and no good purpose will be served now by trying to write a definition. If the Congress will, in effect, nullify the Supreme Court's ruling by declaring that a "work week" is whatever is agreed upon by unions and employers, or between individual employees and employers where no union exists, the situation will be clarified.

To try to define a "work week" would raise questions of constitutionality. Congress can make no law prescribing obligations of work for any individual, and to attempt to exclude or include this or that use of the worker's time in defining a "work week" is to tread on dangerous ground.

If the Supreme Court had not overstepped the bounds and written a piece of legislation which Congress had deliberately refused to write, the present controversy would never have arisen.

The remedial measures now pending before Congress can be confined to a 100 per cent taxation of windfall income arising out of the "portal to portal" suits. This would dispose of past instances. Then a declaratory resolution with respect to the acceptance of definitions hereafter written by mutual agreement of employers and employees would dispose of future suits.

The hullaballoo that is being raised in some quarters about the impairment of the wage and hour law is not based on reality. Actually the wage and hour law simply requires that overtime beyond 40 hours shall be compensated for, and there is no power under the law to settle what constitutes the 40 hours. This is a matter for agreement or disagreement between employer and employees and is part of the work contract, just as is the question of whether an employee works undertime. Usually there is machinery for adjusting disputes or grievances over working time, but when a federal statute is interpreted by the Supreme Court to mean that the courts are hereafter to pass upon what constitutes a "work week," the way is opened to chaos in the industrial world.

Definition Of Work Week Doubtful

It has been suggested by many who have not thought through the subject that a definition of "work week" is in order. If Congress ever attempted such a definition, it is probable that it would be questioned in the courts as to constitutionality. Likewise, there appears to be no sentiment in Congress in favor of adding to the regimentation rituals of the preceding decade. The tendency is rather to throw off as many controls as possible so that management and labor can make their own bargaining arrangements. Once the individual or union agrees with the employer on what constitutes a "work week" or 40 hours, the federal law relative to overtime would apply.

Certainly the labor unions have more to gain than to lose by making the "work week" a subject of collective bargaining negotiations and agreements. The AFL leaders are smart to drive home that point, but this is no surprise, as the AFL leaders are among the most experienced trade unionists in the world.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—CP—Lord Inverchapel, the British ambassador, has no intention of returning to England before midsummer, at least. He is too busy reliving some of the times he enjoyed when, as a young embassy clerk, he previously served in Washington. Chatting a few days ago, he appeared anxious to visit Florida and several other places.

But uppermost in his mind is the thought of spring and watching the flowers he personally planted come to bloom. Then he wants to go to New England.

Inverchapel

"I used to shoot whitetailed deer," he said. "I don't mind that, but I couldn't shoot a bear. It made my guide angry, for it was a beautiful bear. He was sitting there munching blueberries and I hadn't the heart."

He prefers, also, New England's hardwood trees as "far better than those eternal Christmas trees they have in the west."

The envoy's memory of good sport is to take a canoe to Harper's Ferry, toss it in the water and shoot the rapids down to Great Falls, just out of Washington.

"You can make it nicely in a weekend," he said. "Start Saturday afternoon and you are back in Washington Monday morning. But be sure to have at least an 18-foot canoe or you are liable to nose under in stiff rapids."

Political observers are watching President Truman closely for signs that his pre-1948 strategy might take the form of putting the Republicans on the spot by forcing them to make important decisions which they may be reluctant to make.

They noted that his termination of hostilities had all the earmarks of forcing the GOP to commit itself on several essential points—farm support prices, excise taxes and the Smith-Conally act. In his state of the union message, observers saw his references to demands for a balanced budget and debt-reduction in the face of Republican requests for lower income taxes.

Some observers think Mr. Truman will steer a middle course, waiting for the Republicans to make mistakes before he takes a stand for 1948.

Former Rep. Roger C. Slaughter (D) of Missouri who was "purged" by President Truman last year, may accompany the House surplus property committee overseas as special counsel.

Sources close to the committee declared that Slaughter, who acted as committee chairman last year, would probably be asked to make the trip —after the adjournment of Congress this summer.

The Missourian, who aroused the president's ire by voting against administration legislation, has returned to his law practice in Kansas City. It was not known whether he would accept the committee's invitation.

The committee, which is being reconstituted under the chairmanship of Rep. Ross Risley (R) of Oklahoma, is expected to concentrate this year on the disposal of billions of dollars in surplus property overseas.

Diplomats housed in the State Department building just across a narrow tree-lined street from the White House should be immersed in the problems of international policy. But about the corridors, talk centers rather on the removal of the oldest department of the government to Washington's "foggy bottom."

The die appears cast that most of then will move, including Secretary George C. Marshall and his aides.

President Truman says he wants the secretary of state to stay where he is, but White House moves make it impossible.

Mr. Truman has placed many special agencies in the State Department building, such as the Budget Bureau and the Atomic Energy Commission. Recently he has also ordered the offices of John Steelman, "assistant president," to be located there.

Newsmen are disturbed about giving up the lush, carpeted soundproofed press room, built for them by former Secretary Stettinius.

As one budget bureau inspector said on seeing the room, "All it lacks is a bar."

Today's Talk

When the Lights Go On

Life is full of wonder and surprises. Each has its given thrill. I have sat in my office in the big city, and watched the lights go on, sweeping, little by little, until the entire city becomes a great expanse of glittering lights. Then I look up into the night sky and see the Heavens all lit up—the unknown vying with man, and the little that he knows.

The same is experienced, after dusk, when you enter your home and turn on the lights. The home lights up—and so do you! You are shut out from the outer darkness—in the light.

I often think of the little towns, in which I was brought up, and when there was no electricity, and when the Lamp Lighter went about with a torch and lit up the street lamps. One by one the lights appeared and soon long streets of them glowed in the night. It always thrilled me to look upon such an experience.

When we are low in spirit, and troubled perhaps, what a joy it is to get a letter, or to meet an old friend, or to have some happy experience that veritably lights us up in mind and heart. I often think of many human being who go around lighting up lives whenever they contact them. This was true of two of my old friends, now gone—Bob Davis and "Billy" Phelps. Two great noblemen. They never left anyone without leaving a glow behind.

I have a few favorite books, which I am sure many have, that always light up the mind, and even all about one, after contact with the thoughts therein. They are the living books, the indispensables. My friend George Stimpson, is an authority on the Bible and Shakespeare. He tells me that he never goes to bed at night without reading from both—each of which he has read through scores of times. No other books shed so much light into a human being as do these two.

If the Light of Love could be turned on in every human being's heart, throughout the world, there would be no need of a United Nations organization. All wars would be at an end. There would be no strikes, and the humblest could aspire to be a King in his own little world!

Public Opinion Favors Freeing Jailed Conscientious Objectors

World War II Vets Cast Majority Vote

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., January 24 — The great majority of American voters think conscientious objectors who were given jail sentences for refusing to serve in the Army should be let out now.

The restoration of peace through victory has mellowed public thinking in this respect. Americans took a stern attitude toward C. O.'s both before and during the war. Back in 1940, before this country found itself actively involved in World War II, the majority of the public approved the idea of jailing people who refused to register for the draft or serve in the military force.

President Truman shortly before the end of the year announced formation of an amnesty board, headed by former Justice Owen J. Roberts, to canvass the whole problem of amnesty not only for those still in jail but also those who, freed, have not had their civil rights restored. The board is scheduled to meet during February.

At the present time, about 300 men regarded as conscientious objectors remain in prison on sentences arising out of their refusal to serve in the armed services of their country.

The question used to measure public sentiment on the issue at the present time:

"During the war, some conscientious objectors were sent to prison for refusing to serve in any way in the armed forces. Do you think these men should now be let out of prison?"

The results:

Yes	69%
No	23
No Opinion	8

Highest sentiment for release of the men exists among people who have had at least some college training and among women as contrasted to men.

Veterans show more reluctance to have the C. O.'s released than the rest of the voting population, but even so, six out of every 10 World War II veterans say the C. O.'s should be let out of jail now.

The vote on the issue among important voting population groups:

	Yes	No	No op.
College	77%	18%	5%

Celanese To Build New Plant In South

Field work on the site of the new Celanese cellulose acetate yarn producing plant at Rock Hill, S. C., has begun, it was made known at the New York offices of Celanese Corporation of America.

Construction of the new plant, part of the large-scale expansion program of Celanese Corporation in the three major fields of chemicals, synthetic textiles and plastics, received final CPA approval last November. Upon completion the Rock Hill plant is expected to cost in the neighborhood of $37,000,000 and to employe about 3,000 persons.

A contract for the general building construction has been awarded to the Daniel Construction Company of Greenville, S. C.

GRIPE AGAINST HOLLYWOOD

I have a gripe against Hollywood. No, it isn't the usual thing. My gripe isn't based on the fact that Hollywood glamorizes women.

I beef because Hollywood deglamorizes them, regiments them and makes them as synthetic as a bunch of sawdust dolls.

A normal woman may not be glamorous in the movie studio sense. But she packs a wallop no director or makeup artist can ever imitate.

A normal, healthy woman is as individual and as endearing as a normal healthy male. She looks, acts, thinks and smells like a regular human mammal. She doesn't need false eyelashes nor trick enamel caps to her teeth to put her individuality across. She expresses that individuality in every movement of her body, in every frank utterance, in every free thought.

Occasionally Hollywood discovers this fact. When an Ingrid Bergman comes along or a Greta Garbo plays in Anna Christie, they have sense enough to let her be a person and not a model. And the box office rewards their good judgment.

However, Hollywod can never remember this lesson. The very next time some real and natural little lady from the sticks shows up, they are right there with the phoney lights and the makeup box to destroy all her semblance to humanity.

Time was when you took women as they came. If the Creator, in his infinite wisdom, had chosen to give Mary Jane a map like a hubbard squash, she sensibly gave up any dreams of Beauty Contests and developed her cooking and sewing talents instead. And was, generally speaking, a wow with all the boys for fifty miles around.

For, despite tradition, men like them natural. They don't give a hoot if the Babe has a few extra wrinkles across her nose or an outside mouth or eyes that are a little less than starry. As long as she uses that mouth to grin and those eyes to beam in sympathy and friendliness, they are for her 100 percent.

So I respectfully suggest to Hollywood that they consider human nature a little more and lean less on the trick technique. The vast majority of females are far from glamorous. They are loving mothers and loyal wives, they are understanding comrades and good sports. And no man could ask for more, either in the home or on the stage.

Just for once, Messrs. DeMille, Goldwyn and Warner Bros., give us a few gals that are gals and not a reasonable facsimile of a stuffed skin.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Fiance Who Wants Girl To Give Up Her Friends Is In The Wrong

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been going with a very fine boy for the past two years, and we recently became engaged. We are very much in love and would like to marry this summer.

This boy is very reliable, ambitious and respectable, but the only trouble is that he expects me to give up my girl friends. I have belonged to a girls' club since before I graduated from high school, and we meet at each other's houses once a week just to chat and have a little fun. This boy seems to think I should break away, as he says that's what he intends to do with his friends. He has two sisters who are married, and they gave up their social activities and he seems to think they are right. I say they are wrong, as we all should have young friends.

This worries me very much, as I love this boy and I do want to be happy after we are married, and also be a good wife. We have quite a few arguments about this, and I would like to know if I am in the wrong.

"FRIEDA S."

No, Frieda, you are not wrong. On the contrary, you are very right indeed. It would be a very unfortunate thing if you gave up your friends and your fiance gave up his. It is most unwise for any couple, young or older, to concentrate exclusively on each other. It almost always leads to some kind of trouble.

I hope that you can get your fiance to look at this thing differently before you are married, and agree that you will always be free to go out for occasional good times with your girl friends, and he, on his side, should go out now and then with his men friends. That is the only sensible basis for any marriage.

"Platonic" Friendship

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a senior in high school and planning to attend a college out of town after graduation.

I am infatuated with a certain young man whom I met on a blind date. He seemed to enjoy my company, but to my amazement and sorrow, he never asked me out again. Whenever we meet, he always acts very friendly, but that's the trouble: the friendship is purely "platonic."

Now that I am leaving for college very soon, I am very miserable because of this situation. What can I do to make him understand my feelings? Do you think I have a chance with him?

"C.S."

When you are going away so soon, and will have a fine opportunity to meet new people and get your mind on new things why bother about this "platonic" friendship? Chances are, in your new environment you'll find plenty of other young men to interest you, and who may be more responsive than the one you're wasting so much emotion over.

Certainly many a "platonic" friendship has eventually turned into love, but only where the couple involved saw each other frequently enough so that their friendship had opportunity to develop and change into something deeper. Since this young man seems completely uninterested in seeing you again, it hardly looks as though your friendship had much future.

Perhaps, on the other hand, when you've left town he may begin to notice your absence. But I wouldn't count on it, and I wouldn't try to do anything to make him understand your feeling, as you put it. That would be a serious mistake. Your best plan by far is to go your own way and let things take their natural course.

Garrett County Firm Damage Suit Winner

OAKLAND, Jan. 24—The Dusio Wholesale Produce Company wa. awarded damages amounting to $484 this week at Romney, W. Va., the outcome of a wreck near that city last August.

One of the company's trucks driven by Henry Arnold, was struck by an auto driven by Carl Knopf, Chicago, last August 16. As a result of the wreck suits were entered, one for $1,000 against Mr. Knopf, and one for $3,000 against the produce company.

The trial was held before a jury, and a verdict rendered in favor of the Oakland concern.

Dr. Helen Taylor To Be Bride Of Howard W. Miller

Ceremony To Be Performed Jan. 28

Mr. and Mrs. Peter E. Taylor, Charleston, Ill., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Dr. Helen Taylor, 149 Wood street, Frostburg, to Howard W. Miller, Pittsburgh, son of Mrs. Cora Miller, Evansville, Ind.

The single-ring wedding ceremony will be solemnized at 3:30 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon in the First Methodist Church, Frostburg, with Rev. Watson Holley officiating.

Miss Frances Hamilton, Washington, will be the maid of honor and the bride's only attendant. Russell Miller, Evansville, will serve as best man.

The bride-elect received her A.B. from Illinois College, Jacksonville, Ill. Then as a fellow at the University of Illinois, she received her master's degree and taught while working for her doctorate, and continued on the staff from 1931 to 1937, and was head of the mathematics department in the University High School. From there she went to Montgomery, Ala., where she was head of the Mathhematics department in Huntingdon Women's College for a year, before accepting a position as dean of women and head of the Math department at Ashland, Ky., City Junior College.

During the war Dr. Taylor received national recognition for having held three positions, never before awarded to a woman. The winter of 1941-1942 she taught math at the Illinois Institute of Technology; then she went to the University of South Carolina, Columbia, with the Navy ROTC, and was the only woman in the Engineering department in the 144 years of the university; her third wartime job was at Langley field, where she was a member of the National Advisory committee of the field, directing the research in "loads" division.

Next Dr. Taylor accepted a position as director of the research bureau, studying wartime saving and standing in family economy in the Agriculture department. From there she went to Hartford, Conn., to assist in war industries, helping with statistic of the timer on the Norden bombsight, for M. H. Rhode, also makers of the parking meters used in Cumberland. She also worked in research for Pratt and Whitney aircraft and for six months at the close of the war with Connecticut General Insurance Company.

This fall Dr. Taylor came to Frostburg State Teachers College to teach math to the veterans enrolled there.

Besides being a member of the Cumberland Branch of the American Association of University Women, she belongs to six other chapters, in three of which she is a charter member; the Altrusa International, Kappa Delta Pi and Sigma Delta Epsilon. She held national office in the latter and the AAUW.

Mr. Miller is a graduate of DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind., where he was a Rector scholar and received his Bachelor degree. He has been teaching journalism at the University of Pittsburgh, while studying for his Master's degree. Mr. Miller began his newspaper work while in the university, as a reporter on the Greencastle city paper.

After graduation he accepted a position as news reporter and sports writer at Waterloo, Iowa, and since has had experience on the Indianapolis Star and Toledo Blade, and spent nine years on the paper in Evansville, Ind.

Since 1942 Mr. Miller has been on the Pittsburgh Post Gazette, serving as war co-ordinator and at present is head of the copy desk and assists the telegraph editor.

Following the ceremony a wedding reception will be held at the college.

The exact date of the earliest English comedy is uncertain, but the play was "Ralph Royster Doyster," written by Nicholas Udall before 1551. It was written to be presented by the boys of Eton College.

The election and installation of officers of the United Democratic Women's Club featured the meeting Thursday night at the Algonquin hotel.

Mrs. Mary Jo Adams was inducted as president; Mrs. J. B. Dowling, first vice-president; Mrs. William C. Walsh, second vice-president; Mrs. Ada Conley Long, secretary; Mrs. Katherine M. Landis, treasurer; and Mrs. Howard P. Loughrie, corresponding secretary.

The new president in addressing the club suggested that an advisory board be organized, and that it should comprise the past presidents and presiding officers. Short talks were made by Mrs. Joseph H. Griffin, retiring president; and Mrs. Long, who stressed co-operation as essential for a successful organization. A contribution of $5 was made to the March of Dimes fund.

A committee for a membership drive will be named and plans for the year outlined at the meeting February 18. Thirty members attended.

W. A. Willison Weds Helen Radcliffe

Miss Helen Hurl Radcliffe, daughter of Mrs. Mae Radcliffe, Vale Summit, became the bride of William Alvie Willison, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Willison, Cresap Park, last night.

Rev. Louis P. Chastain officiated at the wedding ceremony at 7 o'clock in the parsonage of the Cresaptown Methodist Church. Mrs. Guy Hardesty, Grantsville, was the matron of honor and bride's only attendant. Frederick Willison served as his brother's best man.

The bride was attired in an aqua blue dress, with which she wore black accessories and a corsage of red roses completed her costume. Her attendant wore a gray suit with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

The bride is a graduate of Beall High School, Frostburg. The bridegroom attended Allegany High School and spent two and one half years in the ETO with the Army. He is now employed by the Celanese Corporation of America.

For the present Mr. Willison and his bride will reside with his parents.

House Committee Takes No Action On Oyster Bill

Assembly Receives Four New Measures

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 24 (AP) — Maryland legislators, adjourning for the weekend, looked to the governors of two states today for an amicable solution of the controversial Potomac River oyster problem.

Meanwhile, a Senate bill passed under suspension of the rules yesterday which would permit Maryland authorities to prosecute Virginians arrested in this state in violation of the oyster regulations was held in the House Chesapeake Bay and Tributaries Committee.

Although the measure was to have been considered by the House committee today, no action was taken after Gov. Tuck, of Virginia, telephoned Gov. Lane, of Maryland, pledging that if residents of his state were violating the law he would "see that they are prosecuted."

Lane Has No Comment

Gov. Lane, engaged in a study of the bill and the history of the long controversy, had no official comment but it was evident that there was little likelihood of further developments before the first of the week.

The Senate and House met briefly, both adjourning before noon, and members departed for the weekend, to reconvene Monday at 8:30 p. m.

In the rush for weekend adjournment, the Senate received one new bill, and passed nine, the majority ofthel atter permitting the salaries of some minor state officials to be set in the budget rather than by statute.

Four new bills came into the House. One would extend until 1949 provisions of the one and one-half cent lateral roads gasoline tax. This extends the time county commissioners could apply or authorize the use of their share of the fund for maintenance, construction or reconstruction of roads and bridges.

Ground Rents Measure

Another bill, sponsored by Delegate Beckwith (D-Balto county), would permit tenants to buy up ground rents within one month after date of purchase. The measure strikes out the present provision which requires that five years must elapse before ground rents may be redeemed. It would apply principally to Baltimore city.

The Senate continued its lead over the House in passing legislation— putting through seven Legislative Council measures and two local bills.

Six of the Legislative Council bills would transfer salary setting authority from statutes to the budget, which is presented by the Governor and approved by the legislature.

Amvets Idle Sunday

Tomorrow is an open date on the schedule of the Cumberland Amvets, local pro basketball team.

Idle tomorrow, the locals will not resume action until Sunday, February 2 when they play the New York Bombardiers here at 9 p. m. The Amvets have won seven games in a row and have a season's record of eight wins and eight losses.

Hanoi Street Battle

PARIS, Jan. 24 (AP)—French marines, parachute troopers and commandos used bazookas, mortars and grenades to drive Viet-Namese out of a 200-yard sector of streets and barricaded houses in Southern Hanoi in some of the fiercest action there in weeks, dispatches from Indochina said today.

"Freedom" Of Press

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 24 (AP) — Wilbur Forrest, president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, said tonight that of 54 countries in the United Nations, 29 have "very effective barriers against the freedom of information."

Actor Dean Jagger, Gloria Ling Denied Marriage License

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Jan. 24 (AP)—Film Actor Dean Jagger and Gloria Ling, attractive New York City secretary, were denied a marriage license here today under a state law forbidding unions between Caucasians and Mongolians.

Miss Ling's father was born in China.

Deputy County Clerk Mrs. Zelle Serjent rejected the application.

"I had no choice," she said. "The law is specific on that point, and when I learned Miss Ling's father was born in China there was nothing I could do."

U.S. Urged To Defer Sale Of Pipe Lines

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP) — Rep. Hardy (D-Va.) saying many Virginians are concerned over the possible effects of sale of the Big and Little Inch pipe lines for gas transmission, urged today that the sale be deferred pending congressional study.

He made his request before the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee. Congress, he said, should "make a proper study looking toward the disposition of these lines to the best possible advantage to the government and with the least amount of disruption to present business and industrial enterprises."

Hardy said a great many of his constituents "are extremely concerned over the possibility or the likelihood" that the pipe lines may be sold without "due consideration to all of the factors involved, and without proper consideration to the results that may accompany the sale for such use."

"I have received," he added, "a number of resolutions from civic clubs, associations of commerce, and county and municipal governing bodies protesting the contemplated action and requesting that no action be taken toward the sale of these pipe lines until a more thorough and conclusive study is made."

Hardy said there are three major coal-carrying railroads serving his district (the Second) and their traffic could be materially reduced by pipe line transmissions of gas, affecting the railroads' revenues and employment of railroad workers and miners in Virginia and West Virginia.

Portal Pay Claims Near Five Billion Mark

[By The Associated Press]

Filing of four major portal-to-portal pay suits in two days has sent the total of such claims on file throughout the country close to the five billion dollar figure which industry spokesmen have predicted would be sought.

At Akron, O., the CIO United Rubber Workers took the first union-instituted portal action in the rubber industry Thursday. They filed a $24,000,000 claim against the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company and a $26,000,000 claim against B. F. Goodrich Company.

A $108,288,000 suit was filed Friday at Houston, Tex., against the Todd-Houston Shipbuilding Company on behalf of 19,000 employes not affiliated with any union. A second similar suit in Houston asked $50,208,999 from the Brown Shipbuilding Company, Inc., on behalf of 10,000 employes.

Enters Marine Corps

William R. Raley, Jr., 17, Rawlings, who was Maryland's entry in the national contest to select an unknown to play Joe Palooka in the movie of that name, has enlisted in the Marine Corps and is stationed at Parris Islands, S. C., for boot training, according to Staff Sgt. Murrel W. Brainerd, local recruiter.

Raley, a former student at Allegany High School, enlisted for three years unassigned duty.

Case Against Jap Warlords Rested By Prosecution

Defense To Present Dismissal Motion

TOKYO, Jan. 24 (AP) — The prosecution rested its case today against former Premier Hideki Tojo and 25 other former leaders of Japan after nearly nine months and more than 4,000,000 words of testimony.

The defense is scheduled to present a formal motion for dismissal on Monday. After its expected rejection, the International War Crimes Tribunal will adjourn for two weeks to allow the defense time to prepare its case.

The trial opened last April 29, and testimony of more than 100 witnesses began in May. Originally there were 28 defendants. Now there are actually only 25, including Tojo.

Former Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka and Adm. Osami Nagano have died and Propagandist Shumei Okawa has been confined to an asylum.

Technically, Okawa is still on trial, however, on the possibility that he might later be adjudged sane. He had to be removed shortly after the opening, when he contributed one of the few dramatic moments to date by twice slapping Tojo's bald head, attempting to undress, and chattering madly.

VON PAPEN ON TRIAL

NUERNBERG, Jan. 24 (AP) — The trial of Franz Von Papen on charges of playing Hitler's game and bringing Germany to destruction opened today in a Bavarian denazification court only a mile from the building where the International Military Tribunal acquitted him of war crimes charges.

It was cold and dark in the delapidated municipal building where the 69-year-old former Nazi diplomat faced a possible 10-year sentence at hard labor. After four hours the court adjourned until Monday, because lighting facilities were too poor and coal had to be conserved.

Paul Kleinsorge Named Maritime Arbitrator

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP) — Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach announced today the appointment of Paul Kleinsorge as arbitrator in a wage dispute between the CIO National Maritime Union and the American Merchant Marine Institute, organization of East Coast shipping operators.

The NMU has asked for a 25 per cent raise in view of higher costs of living.

Kleinsorge, University of California (Berkley) professor, earlier had been named by Schwellenbach as arbitrator in a similar wage dispute on the West Coast. Unions involved in that dispute are the Marine Cooks and Stewards Union and American Communications Association, both CIO, and the independent Union of Marine Firemen, Oilers and Watertenders.

Turnage Acquitted

Huge Iceberg Threatens Polar Expedition Ships

ABOARD USS MT. OLYMPUS, LITTLE AMERICA, Jan. 24 (AP)—A huge iceberg floating into the narnow necked Bay of Whales early today forced the Mt. Olympus and two other ships of the Antarctic expedition to move out of the bay. Otherwise they might have been caught and perhaps crushed by the mammoth berg and hundreds of ice floes.

The three ships, the Mt. Olympus, the Merrick and the Yancey, had been moored on the ice shores of the bay.

The iceberg, 200 yards long and 100 feet high, moved into the 400-yard wide neck of the bay as though it was a perfectly navigated ship. It had been borne by currents and wind into the V-shaped neck of the bay, which is only a tiny indentation along the face of the Ross ice barrier.

The three ships were tied up two miles inside the bay alongside the edge of the ice. A wind blowing from the north already had piled cakes of ice against the exposed sides of the vessels, pinning them in to some extent.

Since the icebreaker Northwind was 600 miles away for a rendezvous with the carrier Philippine Sea, and the mountainous berg was closing in on the three ships, they had to pull out.

Rear Adm. Richard H. Cruzen, task force commander on this Antarctic expedition of the United States Navy, had kept track of the iceberg's approach with radar.

Mine Owner's Ouster Is Termed "Improper"

ELKINS, W. Va., Jan. 24. (AP)—Arguments began in federal district court here today in the action brought by Ralph A. Fox, Monongalia county coal operator, to restrain the government from continuing its occupation of his mine property near Morgantown.

Kermit R. Mason, Morgantown, counsel for Fox, described as "improper" the ouster of Fox as manager earlier this month by the federal Coal Mines Administration for allegedly failing to meet certain federal operating requirements.

Named as defendants in the action were J. A. Krug, Secretary of the Interior and federal Coal Mines Administrator; Navy Capt. N. H. Collison, also of the Coal Mines Administration, and others. They were represented by J. Francis Hayden, Washington, special assistant to the Attorney General.

West Virginia Budget Itemization Proposed

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 24 (AP) —Chairman Julian C. Hansbarger (D-McDowell), of the House Finance Committee, disclosed today he would introduce a bill to require itemization of the state budget beginning with that o be presened to the 1949 session.

Hansbarger opposed this week a Republican attempt to force his committee to prepare such a budget at this session on the ground the necessary work could not be completed in time for passage during the regular session.

Army Veteran, Woman Sentenced For Bigamy

FREDERICK, Md., Jan. 24 (AP) — An Army veteran and a woman were sentenced to prison terms yesterday by Associate Judge Patrick M. Schnauffer in the Frederick County Circut Court following their conviction in separate bigamy cases.

Mrs. Jessie Virginia Biggs, 32, Washington, was sentenced to five years in the Maryland Reformatory for Women after Irving C. Edwards testified she had squandered $3,300 he sent her while he was in the service. He said she married him here in 1941 after telling him she was divorced from Edmund D. Biggs.

Milton F. Stevens, 20, Rockville, was sentenced to 18 months in the State Reformatory for Males after two Montgomery women testified they were married to him. Mrs. Garnet B. Stevens said she married him in March, 1944, in Hagerstown, and Helen J. Gue testified they were married here last fall.

Subcommittee To Comb State Liquor Law Bill

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 24 (AP) — A Senate subcommittee today had on its hands the greatest single task of the Maryland General Assembly's young - session — it must comb the 94 pages of Senate Bill 98, which undertakes to organize all state and local liquor laws.

Sen. Bolton, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, has assigned the task to Sens. Goldstein (D-Calvert), McLaughlin (R-Washington) and Phoebus (R-Somerset).

Chairman Goldstein announced today he had requested all senators desiring to make changes in local or state liquor laws to submit their proposals to the subcommittee.

The Senate measure is a Legislative Council bill which brings together under a single article all state and local liquor laws, though making no change in any as they exist.

Vets Vie For 280 Surplus Vehicles

ABERDEEN PROVING GROUNDS, Md., Jan. 24 (AP)—Some 200 veterans, most of them seeking equipment for postwar business ventures, pitted their priorities against each other yesterday for 280 jeeps, trucks and weapons' carriers up for sale by the War Assets Administration.

William T. Anthony, Patrick Springs, Va., knocked down the first one as the sale opened at the Army's proving ground here. For $930 he got a big cargo truck with a winch. He and his three brothers, all veterans, are going to use it in their lumber business at Patrick Springs. He came almost 400 miles from Southwest Virginia to get it.

A veteran from Long Island, N. Y., bought the most expensive offering—a 10-ton Diesel cargo truck priced at $4,552.

L. B. Souder, district director of the WAA, said the 280 vehicles originally cost the government $459,000. They went to the veterans at fixed prices. Some 20 jeeps had tags ranging from $283 to $489.

After the veterans were through, the few remaining items were put up for sale to the highest bidder. Souder said 290 former servicemen had filed orders and almost 400 attended the sale.

The WAA started accepting orders from veterans last Thursday on a first-come-first-served basis. Administration officials were stumped for a time on how to determine the priority for a big batch of applications received in the first mail on opening day.

Four Negro Children Are Burned To Death

DUNKIRK, Md., Jan. 24 (AP) — Four negro children were burned fatally today when a fire damaged their small house near here.

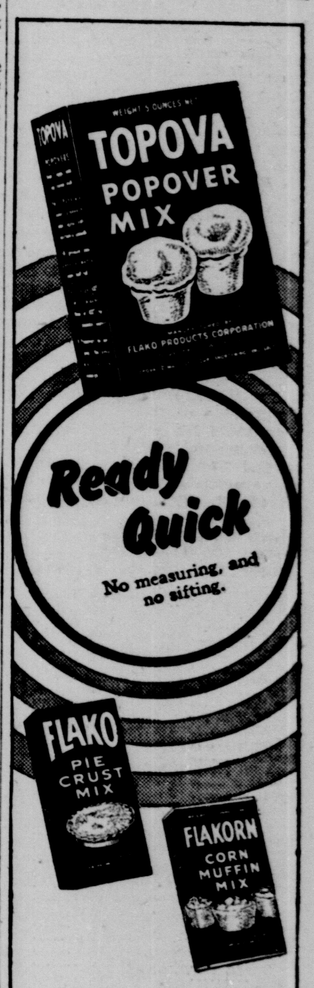

Their mother, Virginia Mackall, identified the children as Martha, four; Gilbert, three; Cornelius, six months, and Beulah, six months.

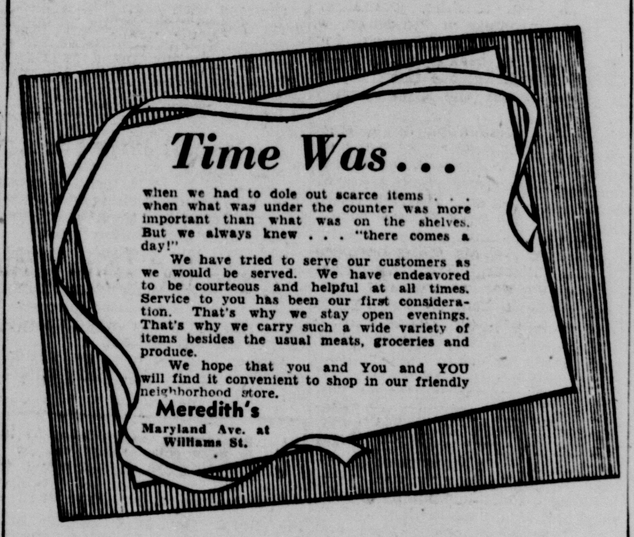

She told State Trooper Noble K. Collison she left them alone while she went to a spring, about 200 yards from the house. While she was at the spring, she noticed the house was on fire. She was not able to enter the blazing structure.

The trial opened last April 29, and testimony of more than 100 witnesses began in May. Originally there were 28 defendants. Now there are actually only 25, including Tojo.

Former Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka and Adm. Osami Nagano have died and Propagandist Shumei Okawa has been confined to an asylum.

Technically, Okawa is still on trial, however, on the possibility that he might later be adjudged sane. He had to be removed shortly after the opening, when he contributed one of the few dramatic moments to date by twice slapping Tojo's bald head, attempting to undress, and chattering madly.

VON PAPEN ON TRIAL

NUERNBERG, Jan. 24 (AP) — The trial of Franz Von Papen on charges of playing Hitler's game and bringing Germany to destruction opened today in a Bavarian denazification court only a mile from the building where the International Military Tribunal acquitted him of war crimes charges.

It was cold and dark in the delapidated municipal building where the 69-year-old former Nazi diplomat faced a possible 10-year sentence at hard labor. After four hours the court adjourned until Monday, because lighting facilities were too poor and coal had to be conserved.

Paul Kleinsorge Named Maritime Arbitrator

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP) — Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach announced today the appointment of Paul Kleinsorge as arbitrator in a wage dispute between the CIO National Maritime Union and the American Merchant Marine Institute, organization of East Coast shipping operators.

The NMU has asked for a 25 per cent raise in view of higher costs of living.

Kleinsorge, University of California (Berkley) professor, earlier had been named by Schwellenbach as arbitrator in a similar wage dispute on the West Coast. Unions involved in that dispute are the Marine Cooks and Stewards Union and American Communications Association, both CIO, and the independent Union of Marine Firemen, Oilers and Watertenders.

Turnage Acquitted

Huge Iceberg Threatens Polar Expedition Ships

ABOARD USS MT. OLYMPUS, LITTLE AMERICA, Jan. 24 (AP)—A huge iceberg floating into the narrow necked Bay of Whales early today forced the Mt. Olympus and two other ships of the Antarctic expedition to move out of the bay. Otherwise they might have been caught and perhaps crushed by the mammoth berg and hundreds of ice floes.

The three ships, the Mt. Olympus, the Merrick and the Yancey, had been moored on the ice shores of the bay.

The iceberg, 200 yards long and 100 feet high, moved into the 400-yard wide neck of the bay as though it was a perfectly navigated ship. It had been borne by currents and wind into the V-shaped neck of the bay, which is only a tiny indentation along the face of the Ross ice barrier.

The three ships were tied up two miles inside the bay alongside the edge of the ice. A wind blowing from the north already had piled cakes of ice against the exposed sides of the vessels, pinning them in to some extent.

Since the icebreaker Northwind was 600 miles away for a rendezvous with the carrier Philippine Sea, and the mountainous berg was closing in on the three ships, they had to pull out.

Rear Adm. Richard H. Cruzen, task force commander on this Antarctic expedition of the United States Navy, had kept track of the iceberg's approach with radar.

Mine Owner's Ouster Is Termed "Improper"

ELKINS, W. Va., Jan. 24. (AP)—Arguments began in federal district court here today in the action brought by Ralph A. Fox, Monongalia county coal operator, to restrain the government from continuing its occupation of his mine property near Morgantown.

Kermit R. Mason, Morgantown, counsel for Fox, described as "improper" the ouster of Fox as manager earlier this month by the federal Coal Mines Administration for allegedly failing to meet certain federal operating requirements.

Named as defendants in the action were J. A. Krug, Secretary of the Interior and federal Coal Mines Administrator; Navy Capt. N. H. Collison, also of the Coal Mines Administration, and others. They were represented by J. Francis Hayden, Washington, special assistant to the Attorney General.

West Virginia Budget Itemization Proposed

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 24 (AP) —Chairman Julian C. Hansbarger (D-McDowell), of the House Finance Committee, disclosed today he would introduce a bill to require itemization of the state budget beginning with that o be presened to the 1949 session.

Hansbarger opposed this week a Republican attempt to force his committee to prepare such a budget at this session on the ground the necessary work could not be completed in time for passage during the regular session.

Army Veteran, Woman Sentenced For Bigamy

FREDERICK, Md., Jan. 24 (AP) — An Army veteran and a woman were sentenced to prison terms yesterday by Associate Judge Patrick M. Schnauffer in the Frederick County Circut Court following their conviction in separate bigamy cases.

Mrs. Jessie Virginia Biggs, 32, Washington, was sentenced to five years in the Maryland Reformatory for Women after Irving C. Edwards testified she had squandered $3,300 he sent her while he was in the service. He said she married him here in 1941 after telling him she was divorced from Edmund D. Biggs.

Milton F. Stevens, 20, Rockville, was sentenced to 18 months in the State Reformatory for Males after two Montgomery women testified they were married to him. Mrs. Garnet B. Stevens said she married him in March, 1944, in Hagerstown, and Helen J. Gue testified they were married here last fall.

Subcommittee To Comb State Liquor Law Bill

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 24 (AP) — A Senate subcommittee today had on its hands the greatest single task of the Maryland General Assembly's young - session — it must comb the 94 pages of Senate Bill 98, which undertakes to organize all state and local liquor laws.

Sen. Bolton, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, has assigned the task to Sens. Goldstein (D-Calvert), McLaughlin (R-Washington) and Phoebus (R-Somerset).

Chairman Goldstein announced today he had requested all senators desiring to make changes in local or state liquor laws to submit their proposals to the subcommittee.

The Senate measure is a Legislative Council bill which brings together under a single article all state and local liquor laws, though making no change in any as they exist.

Vets Vie For 280 Surplus Vehicles

ABERDEEN PROVING GROUNDS, Md., Jan. 24 (AP)—Some 200 veterans, most of them seeking equipment for postwar business ventures, pitted their priorities against each other yesterday for 280 jeeps, trucks and weapons' carriers up for sale by the War Assets Administration.

William T. Anthony, Patrick Springs, Va., knocked down the first one as the sale opened at the Army's proving ground here. For $930 he got a big cargo truck with a winch. He and his three brothers, all veterans, are going to use it in their lumber business at Patrick Springs. He came almost 400 miles from Southwest Virginia to get it.

L. B. Souder, district director of the WAA, said the 280 vehicles originally cost the government $459,000. They went to the veterans at fixed prices. Some 20 jeeps had tags ranging from $283 to $489.

After the veterans were through, the few remaining items were put up for sale to the highest bidder. Souder said 290 former servicemen had filed orders and almost 400 attended the sale.

The WAA started accepting orders from veterans last Thursday on a first-come-first-served basis. Administration officials were stumped for a time on how to determine the priority for a big batch of applications received in the first mail on opening day.

Four Negro Children Are Burned To Death

Their mother, Virginia Mackall, identified the children as Martha, four; Gilbert, three; Cornelius, six months, and Beulah, six months.

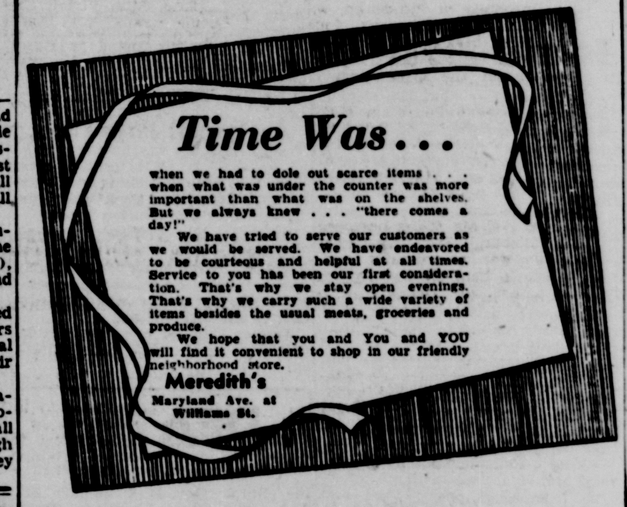

She told State Trooper Noble K. Collison she left them alone while she went to a spring, about 200 yards from the house. While she was at the spring, she noticed the house was on fire. She was not able to enter the blazing structure.

Market Rally Falters But Assorted Rails, Industrials Make Advances

Armour Prior preferred added 2⅜ at 130½ in the wake of a sizable payment on dividend arrearages. Industrial Rayon advanced 2⅜ to 42⅝ following a pleasing annual statement. United States Gypsum was up 2⅜ at 93⅝, Allied Chemical two at 172, Illinois Central 1⅜ at 24½, United States Rubber 1½ at 53½, Dome Mines 1¼ at 19⅝ and Phelps Dodge 1⅜ at 39⅞.

United States Steel was off one-fourth at 72 and Bethlehem up as much as 92⅝ after being lower most of the day. Losers included Schenley, Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Woolworth, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, North American, Consolidated Edison, Kennecott, American Smelting, Johns-Manville and New York Central.

In the Curb a boosted quarterly lifted American Meter three points to 41 on only 200 shares. In the plus ranks were Salt Dome Oil, Lake Shore Mines and St. Regis Paper. Turnover here was 260,000 shares versus 230,000 yesterday.

The rail group put on a last-hour forward drive in the bond market today that carried prices up for the lagest average gain in a week.

Turnover picked up to $5,164,000 from $4,550,000 Thursday.

In the over-the-counter market the Victory Loan 2½s of December '67-'72 improved a trifle at 103 3-32 bid.

WESTERNPORT MAN IS TAKEN BY DEATH

By GEORGE DADDYSMAN

WESTERNPORT, Jan. 24 — Luther Wright, 88, retired B. and O. carpenter and former city commissioner of this community, died tonight at 6:45 o'clock at his home, 139 Philos avenue, Westernport, after an illness of four months.

Mr. Wright was a native of England and came to this country with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Wright, when he was 9 years old and settled here.

He learned the carpenter trade at the old B. and O. Railroad shops in Piedmont and when they were moved to Keyser, W. Va., worked there until 1928 when he retired after 56 years of service.

Mr. Wright served as city commissioner for two terms. He was a member of Lafayette Lodge No. 3, Knights of Pythias, Piedmont, and Philos Lodge No. 91, I. O. O. F., for over 50 years.

He was also a member of Trinity Methodist Church and of the Wesleyan Bible Class of that church.

His wife, Mrs. Jennie Love Martin Wright, died in August, 1943.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Smith Whitworth, at home, and Mrs. Victor Knapp, Arlington, Va., three grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

A funeral service will be conducted Monday at 2:30 p. m. at the home by Rev. Raymond L. Moore, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, and interment will be in Philos Cemetery, Westernport.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rhodes, Riordan road, announce the birth of a son yesterday at the home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gannon, Arlington, Va., returned home after visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Gannon, Murphy street, Piedmont.

Lucas Will Head AFL Craft Group

George W. Lucas, 636 Lincoln street, business manager of Local 307, Electrical Workers Union, was re-elected president of the Building and Construction Trades Council at a meeting of the AFL craft council last night.

Other officers of the group representing 11 building crafts are Edwin Simons, Iron Workers Local 568, vice president; R. C. Simmons, business agent of Laborers Local 616, secretary-treasurer, and Charles E. Bramble, president of Local 453, Teamsters Union, recording secretary.

Trustees will be Elwood Rowley, Peter Paul and John Deetz while Vernon Loy will be sergeant at arms.

The officers will be installed at the next meeting of the council February 14 in Allegany Trades Council hall.

Local Woman Held On Bond Of $150

Charged with operating a disorderly house, and selling alcoholic beverages without a license, a woman who gave her name as Hazel Carter, 208 Charles street, was released last night on $150 bond for a hearing this morning in Police Court.

Assistant Chief of Police John J. Trieber, said the woman was arrested at 10:35 p. m. after a witness picked up for questioning in another case informed them that she "bought beer and whiskey there."

Trieber said Officer Charles Thompson, who made the arrest watched the house for several hours before taking the woman into custody. The warrant was sworn to by Officer Edward Wilson.

Trieber said no one else was in the house at the time police entered.

PAW PAW, W. Va., Jan. 24.—Lane Perveir, 62, well known insurance salesman, died this morning at 10 o'clock at his home in Paw Paw after an illness of two weeks.

Mr. Perveir came to Paw Paw about eight years ago from Massilon, Ohio, where he served for a number of years as a major in the Salvation Army.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Alice Hanson Perveir, he is survived by a daughter, Arleen Ellen, 5, at home, and a brother, Roy, Evanston, Ill.

The funeral service, to be held Saturday at 8 p. m. at the home, will be in charge of the Masopic lodge of Berkeley Springs. Interment will be in Massilon, Ohio.

Officers Re-Elected

Stockholders of the Cumberland Hotel Company, owner of the Fort Cumberland Hotel, re-elected directors yesterday, and directors renamed officers as follows:

George R. Hughes, president; W. Wallace McKaig, vice-president; Charles G. Holzshu, secretary-treasurer; and Wilbur V. Wilson, assistant secretary-treasurer. In addition to the officers, Charles Z. Heskett is a director.

title searcher of the Allegany County Bar, and one whose titles were used and are still used as models." He told many interesting incidents which marked the career of Mr. McCleave and his activities here.

Along with the resolution signed by Gunter, C. Edgar Keller and Walter C. Capper, Mr. Gunter presented the Court with an old document, containing the questions used when D. Lindley Sloan, F. C. Hendrickson and Mr. McCleave were examined on October 28, 1895 before Judge Stake, for admission to the Bar. Benjamin A. Richmond and Dew. H. Reynolds were examiners. The questions, numbering 80 are still quite legible, and the document was termed, "a treasured and valued one." It attracted much interest among lawyers present.

Tributes To Judge Doub

James Alfred Avirett read the resolution to Judge Albert A. Doub and spoke briefly as one of the younger members of the bar, on his association and contact with the late Circuit Court judge. Then he asked Former Judge D. Lindley Sloan, lifelong friend and associate of Judge Doub to speak.

In a voice, barely audible at times, Judge Sloan spoke words of highest tribute for his friend. He recalled many incidents in the career of Judge Doub that were not generally known, or had been forgotten. He described Judge Doub as "the finest kind of man anyone would want to work with. He was the most scholarly lawyer ever to practice before this Court or to sit on its bench."

Judge Sloan told his listeners and the Court that in their younger days he and Doub had practiced and studied together, had worked together and in more recent years had been on the same bench. He spoke, a little emotionally at times, in praise and recollection of Judge Doub and let his audience know how close he was to the late Judge Doub when he said, "I was best man at his wedding."

Avirett said that Judge Doub left a monument to himself in the Cumberland Free Public Library, just across the street. He declared that it was largely through Judge Doub's efforts that the library was first established here and it was under his guidance and leadership for many years as president and a member of the library board that the institution grew and expanded to meet a cultural need of the community.

The resolution to Judge Doub who died November 14, 1946 was signed by Sloan and Avirett.

Court Adjourns

Both Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson replied briefly to the presentations and added their words of tribute in memory of the deceased attorneys. Both recalled their own associations with them and expressed the Court's gratitude for the tributes paid and resolutions presented. Judge Huster declared, "in their memory and as a tribute, I declare this Court adjourned."

The service lasted an hour, but some of those present said it seemed like only a few minutes, because of the interesting and sincerely impressive manner in which it was conducted. The talks made by the speakers and the incidents they recalled were of interest to all present. Nearly all the members of the Bar attended and members of the families of those eulogized also were present.

could have been working every day since he was hired in December and added there would have been overtime every day.

Children Poorly Dressed

When Lt. Flynn brought him into the room, he handed Collins the wood and pointed to the stove. Shortly afterwards a fire was blazing and roaches were crawling from every one of the some hundred odd cracks in the wall. Collins spoke to his children when Lt. Flynn asked them questions . . . "tell him the truth, darling, tell him the truth, and thank him for the food."

McMullen said the children are alone most of the time, but declared they do go to school and as far as he could learn they "are right apt children."

Carolyn pulled her ragged little jacket over a very dirty blue dress, and admitted that she had missed two days of school this week. Edward Raymond, dressed in a pair of tattered coveralls, declared he liked school but had missed "two half days this week."

Faced with a difficult problem, Lt. Flynn, took one more look at the father and decided to prefer charges against him immediately. Then he looked at the stove, and changed his mind.

"Collins," he said firmly," you have these children in the office of the Associated Charities at 10:15 in the morning, and I'd advise you to be there too." Then turning to McMullen he explained that it would be impossible to find a place for the children at that time of night.

"If you'll see that he keeps that fire going tonight, I'll do tomorrow what should be done tonight, right after I find a place for the children," Lt. Flynn asserted.

Later at headquarters, Lt. Flynn explained that Collins has one appointment at 10:15 in the morning that he knows about," and he has another one a little later that he doesn't know about," he added as he walked to answer another police call.

peal from Juvenile Court, where he was convicted as a delinquent minor in the same case, also had his plea withdrawn by the State.

John Bosley, convicted by Magistrate Owen Porter in Frostburg on two motor law violations, withdrew his appeal. Defended by Kelley, he had been fined $100 and costs for drunken driving and $10 and costs for reckless driving.

Fails To Appear

Donald M. Browning, who forfeited $101.45 bond before Magistrate Roy S. Bowman for exceeding 70 miles an hour on the McMullen Highway, failed to appear when his appeal was called, and the verdict was affirmed. He was arrested by State Trooper Thomas Barton.

John J. Idoni, fined $100 and costs for operating a car after his license was suspended, by Magistrate Bowman, withdrew his appeal. He was defended by Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., and Wilson.

In the appeal of Francis Grimes, convicted in Juvenile Court for failing to support his wife and two children, he received a one-year suspended sentence to the House of Correction. Grimes, defended by Ryan, had been given a six-month sentence.

Bruce S. Myers, sentenced by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew in Trial Magistrates' Court to serve 60 days in jail for assaulting Theodore Trenum, had the sentence suspended for one year by the judges. Ryan defended Myers, who was involved in a fight several months ago in the Moscow section.

The Adult choir of the church sponsored the "Robert Burns" tea in commemoration of the poet, beloved by the Scotch folks.

Bonds Forfeited

Marion A. Keech, 405 Grand avenue, forfeited $6.45 yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court on charges of exceeding the 30 mile an hour speed limit on Route 220 Monday. Trooper Robert D. Henline made the arrest.

Archie C. Gault, Avella, Pa., forfeited $6.45 for exceeding 30 miles an hour on Route 40 in LaVale Thursday. He was arrested by Trooper William F. Baker.

Man Is Fined On Title Charge

A fine of $10.75 was imposed on David Miller, 14 Riverview avenue, in Trial Magistrates Court Thursday afternoon after he pleaded guilty to a charge of selling a motor to be placed in another vehicle and failing to turn over the title to the purchaser.

The charge was preferred against Miller by State Trooper G. M. Rotruck after Walter and Arble Moyer, Flintstone, purchased the motor on December 20 and later complained they were unable to get the title. Magistrate Frank A. Perdew presided.

Six Local Men Named To Agency Council

Four local men were elected and two others were re-elected to the national council of the Joint Distribution Committee, the major American agency aiding Jewish survivors overseas, at the 32nd annual meeting of the committee, held recently in New York.

Those elected are Norman Goldblatt, Moses Kaplon, Clarence Lippel and George Ossip. Those re-elected are Isaac Hirsch and Irving Rosenbaum.

The national council is the corporate membership of the J. D. C. Its members elect the board of directors and empower the board to administer the funds and programs of the organization in Jewish relief, reconstruction and emigration.

TRAFFIC is bursting out of our city streets. It slows down every activity that make a city prosperous. It robs all our citizens of time and money.

Transit vehicles save street space. They reduce traffic congestion. They move people more efficiently than any other means of transportation. For example, twenty buses will move 1000 people, but it takes 572 private automobiles to move the same number through our streets.

To defeat the time-robbing giant of traffic congestion, ride the public transit systems.

Market Rally Falters But Assorted Rails, Industrials Make Advances

Armour Prior preferred added 2⅜ at 130½ in the wake of a sizable payment on dividend arrearages. Industrial Rayon advanced 2⅜ to 42⅜ following a pleasing annual statement. United States Gypsum was up 2⅜ at 93⅜, Allied Chemical two at 172, Illinois Central 1⅜ at 24½, United States Rubber 1½ at 53½. Dome Mines 1¼ at 19⅝ and Phelps Dodge 1⅜ at 39⅞.

United States Steel was off one-fourth at 72 and Bethlehem up as much as 92⅝ after being lower most of the day. Losers included Schenley, Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Woolworth, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, North American, Consolidated Edison, Kennecott, American Smelting, Johns-Manville and New York Central.

In the Curb a boosted quarterly lifted American Meter three points to 41 on only 200 shares. In the plus ranks were Salt Dome Oil, Lake Shore Mines and St. Regis Paper. Turnover here was 260,000 shares versus 230,000 yesterday.

The rail group put on a last-hour forward drive in the bond market today that carried prices up for the lagest average gain in a week.

Turnover picked up to $5,164,000 from $4,550,000 Thursday.

In the over-the-counter market the Victory Loan 2½s of December '67-'72 improved a trifle at 103 3-32 bid.

Local Woman Held On Bond Of $150

Charged with operating a disorderly house, and selling alcoholic beverages without a license, a woman who gave her name as Hasel Carter, 208 Charles street, was released last night on $150 bond for a hearing this morning in Police Court.

Assistant Chief of Police John J. Trieber, said the woman was arrested at 10:35 p. m. after a witness picked up for questioning in another case informed them that she "bought beer and whiskey there."

Trieber said Officer Charles Thompson, who made the arrest watched the house for several hours before taking the woman into custody. The warrant was sworn to by Officer Edward Wilson.

Trieber said no one else was in the house at the time police entered.

WESTERNPORT MAN IS TAKEN BY DEATH

By GEORGE DADDYSMAN

WESTERNPORT, Jan. 24 — Luther Wright, 88, retired B. and O. carpenter and former city commissioner of this community, died tonight at 6:45 o'clock at his home, 139 Philos avenue, Westernport, after an illness of four months.

Mr. Wright was a native of England and came to this country with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Wright, when he was 9 years old and settled here.

He learned the carpenter trade at the old B. and O. Railroad shops in Piedmont and when they were moved to Keyser, W. Va., worked there until 1926 when he retired after 56 years of service.

Mr. Wright served as city commissioner for two terms. He was a member of Lafayette Lodge No. 3, Knights of Pythias, Piedmont, and Philos Lodge No. 21, I. O. O. F., for over 50 years.

He was also a member of Trinity Methodist Church and of the Wesleyan Bible Class of that church.

His wife, Mrs. Jennie Love Martin Wright, died in August, 1943.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Smith Whitworth, at home, and Mrs. Victor Knapp, Arlington, Va., three grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

A funeral service will be conducted Monday at 2:30 p. m. at the home by Rev. Raymond L. Moore, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, and interment will be in Philos Cemetery, Westernport.

title searcher of the Allegany County Bar, and one whose titles were used and are still used as models." He told many interesting incidents which marked the career of Mr. McCleave and his activities here.

Along with the resolution signed by Gunter, C. Edgar Keller and Walter C. Capper, Mr. Gunter presented the Court with an old document, containing the questions used when D. Lindley Sloan, F. C. Hendrickson and Mr. McCleave were examined on October 28, 1895 before Judge Stake, for admission to the Bar. Benjamin A. Richmond and Dew. H. Reynolds were examiners. The questions, numbering 80 are still quite legible, and the document was termed, "a treasured and valued one." It attracted much interest among lawyers present.

Tributes To Judge Doub

James Alfred Avirett read the resolution to Judge Albert A. Doub and spoke briefly as one of the younger members of the bar, on his association and contact with the late Circuit Court judge. Then he asked Former Judge D. Lindley Sloan, lifelong friend and associate of Judge Doub to speak.

In a voice, barely audible at times, Judge Sloan spoke words of highest tribute for his friend. He recalled many incidents in the career of Judge Doub that were not generally known, or had been forgotten. He described Judge Doub as "the finest kind of man anyone would want to work with. He was the most scholarly lawyer ever to practice before this Court or to sit on its bench."

Judge Sloan told his listeners and the Court that in their younger days he and Doub had practiced and studied together, had worked together and in more recent years had been on the same bench. He spoke, a little emotionally at times, in praise and recollection of Judge Doub and let his audience know how close he was to the late Judge Doub when he said, "I was best man at his wedding."

Avirett said that Judge Doub left a monument to himself in the Cumberland Free Public Library, just across the street. He declared that it was largely through Judge Doub's efforts that the library was first established here and it was under his guidance and leadership for many years as president and a member of the library board that the institution grew and expanded to meet a cultural need of the community.

The resolution to Judge Doub who died November 14, 1946 was signed by Sloan and Avirett.

Court Adjourns

Both Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson replied briefly to the presentations and added their words of tribute in memory of the deceased attorneys. Both recalled their own associations with them and expressed the Court's gratitude for the tributes paid and resolutions presented. Judge Huster declared, "in their memory and as a tribute, I declare this Court adjourned."

The service lasted an hour, but some of those present said it seemed like only a few minutes, because of the interesting and sincerely impressive manner in which it was conducted. The talks made by the speakers and the incidents they recalled were of interest to all present. Nearly all the members of the Bar attended and members of the families of those eulogized also were present.

could have been working every day since he was hired in December and added there would have been overtime every day.

Children Poorly Dressed

When Lt. Flynn brought him into the room, he handed Collins the wood and pointed to the stove. Shortly afterwards a fire was blazing and roaches were crawling from every one of the some hundred odd cracks in the wall. Collins spoke to his children when Lt. Flynn asked them questions . . . "tell him the truth, darling, tell him the truth, and thank him for the food."

McMullen said the children are alone most of the time, but declared they do go to school and as far as he could learn they "are right apt children."

Carolyn pulled her ragged little jacket over a very dirty blue dress, and admitted that she had missed two days of school this week. Edward Raymond, dressed in a pair of tattered coveralls, declared he liked school but had missed "two half days this week."

Faced with a difficult problem, Lt. Flynn, took one more look at the father and decided to prefer charges against him immediately. Then he looked at the stove, and changed his mind.

"Collins," he said firmly," you have these children in the office of the Associated Charities at 10:15 in the morning, and I'd advise you to be there too." Then turning to McMullen he explained that it would be impossible to find a place for the children at that time of night.

"If you'll see that he keeps that fire going tonight, I'll do tomorrow what should be done tonight, right after I find a place for the children," Lt. Flynn asserted.

Later at headquarters, Lt. Flynn explained that Collins has one appointment at 10:15 in the morning that he knows about," and he has another one a little later that he doesn't know about," he added as he walked to answer another police call.

peal from Juvenile Court, where he was convicted as a delinquent minor in the same case, also had his plea withdrawn by the State.

John Bosley, convicted by Magistrate Owen Porter in Frostburg on two motor law violations, withdrew his appeal. Defended by Kelley, he had been fined $100 and costs for drunken driving and $10 and costs for reckless driving.

Fails To Appear

Donald M. Browning, who forfeited $101.45 bond before Magistrate Roy S. Bowman for exceeding 70 miles an hour on the McMullen Highway, failed to appear when his appeal was called, and the verdict was affirmed. He was arrested by State Trooper Thomas Barton.

John J. Idoni, fined $100 and costs for operating a car after his license was suspended, by Magistrate Bowman, withdrew his appeal. He was defended by Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., and Wilson.

In the appeal of Francis Grimes, convicted in Juvenile Court for failing to support his wife and two children, he received a one-year suspended sentence to the House of Correction. Grimes, defended by Ryan, had been given a six-month sentence.

Bruce S. Myers, sentenced by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew in Trial Magistrates' Court to serve 60 days in jail for assaulting Theodore Trenum, had the sentence suspended for one year by the judges. Ryan defended Myers, who was involved in a fight several months ago in the Moscow section.

Community SUPER MARKET

TRAFFIC is bursting out of our city streets. It slows down every activity that make a city prosperous. It robs all our citizens of time and money.

Transit vehicles save street space. They reduce traffic congestion. They move people more efficiently than any other means of transportation. For example, twenty buses will move 1000 people, but it takes 572 private automobiles to move the same number through our streets.

Boiler Explodes Causing Damage Of About $800

Is Cracked By Ice Cold Water

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, Jan. 24 — A 2,400 pound boiler exploded at Chuckle's Recreation Center, Wright's Crossing, Wednesday when ice, frozen in the return line, entered the boiler after William Keiling, owner of the place, stirred up the banked fire to heat the building for the evening. Every section of the huge boiler cracked after the ice cold water entered the system, causing damage estimated at about $800. No damage was caused to the boiler room which is a small addition to the main building where the boiler is located. Keiling succeeded in securing a new boiler Thursday from a Cumberland concern and with the assistance of neighbors had it installed and in operation by 1 a. m., Friday.

Annual Meeting Held

The annual congregational meeting of Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church was held Wednesday evening, after a buffet supper had been served at 6 o'clock by the Ladies Guild.

At 7 p. m., Rev. Walter D. Mehrling, pastor, conducted the "report's meeting," consisting of statements from the Congregational treasurer, Carl G. Storm; financial secretary, Mrs. Harry Thomas; Women's Guild, last president, Mrs. Thomas, treasurer, Mrs. Henry Taylor, and president, Mrs. Carl Storm; church school superintendent, William Filsinger, assistant, Philip Thomas.

Treasurer, Mrs. Clyde; the Church choir, by Philip Krauss; treasurer Building Fund, Mrs. Settle; Senior-Young People, by Philip Thomas; the Vesper choir, by Hugh Watson.

The prayer and praise service which followed was conducted by the pastor, with Mrs. Marvin Rice at the piano. Among those present were Mrs. Anna Miller, Wood street, 77 years of age, and Mrs. Marie Fischer, Beall's Lane, who celebrated her 80th birthday that day.

To Hold Open House

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Elvin, 79 Frost Avenue, Frostburg, will hold open house Saturday between 8 and 10 p. m., in order to give members and others interested in the First Presbyterian Church an opportunity to meet Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Taylor of Princeton, N. J.

Mr. Taylor, who is a candidate for the pulpit, will conduct the morning and evening services at the Presbyterian Church, Sunday, January 26.

Paul A. Monahan

Paul A. Monahan, 40, retired businessman, died early this morning at his home, 77 West Loo street after a year's illness. He owned and operated a grocery store on West Main street until last November when he retired due to failing health.

Mr. Monahan was a native and lifelong resident of Frostburg. His parents were the late Patrick and Elizabeth Monahan. He belonged to Frostburg Lodge No. 470, B. P. O. Elks, and St. Michael's Catholic Church.

Barton Legion Post Will Present Plaque To High School Leaders

Two Honor Students To Receive Awards

By DAVID E. KIRK

BARTON, Jan. 24 — Barton Post No. 189, American Legion, announced today that they would present an annual award to the honor boy and girl students of the graduating class of Barton High School.

The post will give the school a plaque, finished in satin bronze, on which the name of the honor boy and girl will be placed each year for a period of seven years.

The plaque will have the name and number of the post, city and state, and will be placed in the school.

The awards, which will be judged by the teachers and principal, will be based on honor, courage, scholarship, leadership and service for the boy; and courage, companionship, character, service and scholarship for the girl. The winners will not be announced until they are called to the stage at the annual commencement exercises.

A cash award will also be given the winners, Paul L. Davis, chairman, stated.

Final plans of the annual presentation was made today when a meeting of Davis and Alfred H. Benna, principal of the Barton High School, was held.

This is the second project of the Civic Improvement Committee of the Legion, the other one securing a full-time community doctor which a committee of citizens and of the Legion is working on.

Non-Game Fish Can Be Snared In Some Streams

By MYRTLE PARK

PETERSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 24—Ralph P. Welton, House of Delegates representative from Grant county, who returned yesterday from Charleston stated that the Conservation Commission would permit snaring of non-game fish through the ice in Grant County through January and February, and that he had received the following information from Jack Shipman, director of the commission:

"It is my recommendation that no action be taken against any person or persons found enjoying the privilege of snaring non-game fish through the ice in the various streams of the counties of Hardy, Pendleton, Grant, Berkeley and Webster, during the months of January and February, 1947."

Mr. Shipman further said: "A bill is being drafted for presentation to the current session of the West Virginia Legislature, and action thereon by this group will determine the course which will be taken in the future in relation thereto. Meantime, in the interest of good public relations you are authorized to handle the matter in the above manner."

John Hill Dies

Word has been received here by relatives of the death of John Hill, 49, who died at his home at Casa Grande, Ariz., January 6, after a short illness.

Mr. Hill was a son of the late John Parren Hill, Sr., Petersburg, and is survived by his mother, Mrs. E. M. Hill, Casa Grande, and one sister, Kathleen.

Marriage Is Announced

Word has been received here of the marriage of Miss Jean Hook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hook, 208 Fulton street, Cumberland, to George Boor, son of John L. Boor, Grove street, Petersburg. The ceremony was performed in Winchester, Va., Monday, January 13, by Rev. Teter, pastor of the Methodist Church there.

Mrs. Boor was attired in a blue suit with brown accessories and completed her costume with a shoulder corsage of red rosebuds.

The only attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Harman, brother-in-law and sister of the bridegroom, Petersburg.

Mrs. Boor is a graduate of Allegany High School, Cumberland, and has been employed by the A&P store and Harman's Self Service Market here.

Guardsmen Open First Convention

Judge Henderson Is Guest Speaker

The first convention of the Maryland Department, Legion of Guardsmen, opened here last night with a banquet at Queen City Hotel, attended by 60 members, delegates and guests.

Associate Judge George Henderson, of the Fourth Judicial Circuit, a veteran of two World Wars and former National Guard officer, was guest speaker at the banquet. Judge Henderson told the organization that as Minute Men and State Guardsmen, they filled an important post in the nation's defense during the war. The organization doubtless prevented subversive activity, sabotage and helped discourage possible attacks here at home, the speaker said.

Thomas F. Conlon, former mayor of Cumberland and war-time commander of the State Guard here, was toastmaster. He presented a number of visitors and welcomed the guests and delegates.

Guests included Phil Fleming, commander Post No. 13, American Legion; John E. Hoffman of the Disabled Veterans; Norris Bruce, Westernport, past commander of Spanish American War Veterans, state of West Virginia; City Commissioner Meyers G. Light; Wilson R. Caskey, Commander Washington County Post No. 2, Legion of Guardsmen; and Samuel Widmer, past department vice commander of the W. Va. Legion, and Elmer A. Dize, commander of Crisfield Post No .1, Guardsmen.

The convention will convene at 10 a. m. today in the City Hall auditorium to discuss organizational questions. Election of State Department officers will be held tomorrow afternoon. At 7:30 p. m. Algonquin Post No. 2, the host organization will formally open post headquarters at 142 North Centre street.

William Schulman, Jersey City, N. J., chairman of the national organization committee of the Legion of Guardsmen, who was scheduled to speak here last night, wired that he could not arrive because of bad flying weather. He expects to be here for the opening session today, he informed the local group.

Paid Recreation Head Is Being Sought

A number or organizations, including a delgation from the American Association of University Women, will appear before the Mayor and Council Monday to request that a paid recreation director be appointed for Cumberland, it was indicated yesterday.

Mrs. Gilbert Miller, chairman of the social studies committee of the AAUW, said the group is also interested in learning exactly how the city plans to spend the $150,000 it hopes to obtain through a bond issue for recreation work. She added that a city-wide meeting of all interested groups and individuals is planned later.

If passed by the General Assembly, the bill would authorize the city to issue $150,000 in bonds for recreational purposes after it is approved in a referendum election. The bill provides that the money will be used for the purchase of land, equipment and fencing.

For the current fiscal year the city appropriated $9,540 for playgrounds, and through December 31 a total of $8,010.64 had been expended.

Pvt. Charles Keister Is Going To Rome

Pvt. Miss Betty Yowell, Vienna, Va., Is Wed To Davis Man

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, Jan. 24 — Announcement is being made in Parsons of the marriage of Miss Betty Harrison Yowell, daughter of Mrs. Robert P. Yowell, and the late Mr. Yowell, Vienna, Va., to Paul H. Combs, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Combs, Parsons and Davis.

The ceremony was solemnized in the Methodist Church in Vienna Saturday, January 11, at 3 p. m. with Rev. Millard Rewis, pastor of the church, officiating at the double ring service.

Miss Juanita Anderson, Arlington Forest, Va., maid of honor, wore a gown of blue satin with white gloves and carried an arm bouquet of white mixed flowers and pink roses. Miss Mary Ellen Yowell, bridesmaid, wore a gown of ice blue satin, white gloves and carried a bouquet of flowers matching the maid of honor's.

The Misses Nancy and Jane Yowell, younger sisters of the bride, were flower girls and James Waters, Vienna, served as best man. Ushers were Harry Kidd and Robert Shomo, both of Vienna.

The bride is a graduate of Fairfax High School and prior to her marriage was employed by the state department in Virginia.

Mr. Combs, a graduate of Thomas High School, enlisted in the navy where he spent 33 months, 28 of which were in the Atlantic and Pacific theaters where he held the rating of Gunner's Mate 2-c. Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother after which the young couple left for a short honeymoon. They are now residing in Davis where Mr. Combs is engaged in the plumbing business with his father in Parsons.

Fire Damages Home

The second 1947 fire in Parsons occurred Wednesday afternoon when the Parsons Volunteer Fire Department was called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Phillips to extinguish a fire which had gained considerable headway from a defective flue.

The two story five room frame house in Parsons was damaged to the extent of between $300 and $400, which is partially covered by insurance. Most of the furniture of the downstairs rooms was removed but was damaged by water and smoke. The house was owned by C. R. "Dickie" Currance, Parsons.

Plan Study Course

Mrs. Harold D. Shiflet stated today that tentative plans have been made by the members of the Woman's Auxiliary of Parsons Presbyterian Church to observe the World Missions period with special study course to be started February 5 at the church. Plan Polio Drive

The third of a series of "March of Dimes" campaign rally meetings for committees and volunteers will be held Sunday at 6:30 p. m. in James P. Love Post No. 92, American Legion headquarters, on Jackson street.

Miss Anne Sloan, chairman of the Georges Creek region, said the campaign in the communities of Midland, Barton and Lonaconing is progressing "satisfactory."

Plans are being made for a semi-formal dance Wednesday, February 5, in the auditorium of Central High School. The Aristocrats will play.

The movie committee will also report Sunday evening, and "The Sunshine Girls" will help in the campaign next week when they pass the coin containers through the theatres.

The Lonaconing City Band is expected to give a concert one night to raise funds for the benefit also.

Twenty-five dollars was contributed to the "March of Dimes" campaign by Local Union No. 7768, United Mine Workers of America, Thursday night in the Odd Fellows hall.

Brief Mention

In response to the "March of Dimes" call for funds, Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280 plan their first dance with proceeds to go to the "March of Dimes" fund.

A "March of Dimes" benefit dance will be held Thursday, February 6, at the Veterans of Foreign Wars home in Lonaconing, with the Vets-Own-Four providing music for the entertainment.

Alex Gardner, post commander, represented the Lonaconing VFW post at the public health meeting in the City hall, Cumberland, tonight. Water and sewage disposal were discussed.

The Parent-Teacher Association of Jackson Elementary School, was given permission to use the top floor of the VFW building for their silver tea in February for the benefit of the Red Cross.

Mrs. Molly Boston Richmond fell Wednesday at her home and suffered bruises about her face.

Through the co-operation of the superintendent of schools, Board of Education, Allegany county, a new cold-wall frigidaire has been installed in the Home Economics department at Central High School. The frigidaire is nine cubic foot space.

A street light is being placed at the corner of Hanekamp and High streets near the residence of John R. Merrbaugh. Permission was granted by the Mayor and Council to have the light placed at this turn as soon as the Potomac Edison Company had the materials.

Morning Star Temple No. 1, Pythian Sisters, will hold a party Wednesday, January 29, at 8 o'clock. Games will be played and prizes awarded. Their regular meeting will be held on Monday evening. The Past Chiefs will hold a dinner in honor of the newly-installed officers of the lodge in February.

A fire drill was held at Central High School at 1:31 p. m. for practice. Two minutes was required for 600 students to leave the school building. Practice from emergency exits were used in case of fire.

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., Jan. 24 — Alvin Fazenbaker and Russell Michael were released from the Mineral county jail today, having completed their one-year jail sentence imposed at the January, 1946 term of court, on a misdemeanor verdict in connection with the death of Charles Dornon, chief of police of Piedmont.

In addition to the jail sentence Fazenbaker and Michael were each assessed a fine of $500, to which was added the court costs of prosecution the sum of $704.27.

In the indictment under which the men were tried they were charged with murder which is a felony. The jury verdict reduced the crime to involuntary manslaughter which is a misdemeanor. The costs assessed were computed for the greater crime of felony under which the suit was prosecuted.

Since, by verdict, the crime was reduced to a misdemeanor, Fazenbaker and Michael in person and by their attorney E. L. Tyler, came into court, Tuesday of this week, and by petition, asked that the costs assessed against them be reduced to the costs for a misdemeanor, a reduction of approximately $400.

In his ruling today Judge Ernest A. See held that the costs as assessed amounting to $704.27 should be paid. The court also ordered that on condition of their good behavior and their strict obedience to law for a period of 90 days, and in further consideration of their conduct as model prisoners during their confinement that the fine of $500 be reduced to $250 each, however, the order provides that should the 90-day parole be violated the remitted $250 of the fine would have to be paid by the violator or violators.

The payment of the $704.27 costs was made, also Michael's fine of $250 was paid and Fazenbaker was given six months time in which to pay his fine of $250.

After the departure of Fazenbaker and Michael, Oscar Cosner remained the lone occupant of the jail. Cosner is being held for the slaying of his wife, Evelyn Cosner, on September 3, 1946.

Two divorce orders were entered today:

Blache I. Baker from Paule E. Baker. The custody of their 3-year-old daughter, Evelyn Paulette Baker given to the mother.

George E. Ravenscroft from Mary F. Ravenscroft. The defendant was granted her maiden name Mary F. Butler.

Permit Is Granted For Public Garage

An application for a building permit, made last April 20, was granted yesterday, nine months later, in the city engineer's office. Chester L. Collins, 804 Kentucky avenue, secured the permit to build a one-story public garage for sale, repair and servicing of cars, as well as a service station with parking space for cars on the roof.

The delay in taking out the permit was caused by shortage of materials, according to Collins, who conferred with Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, yesterday regarding plans for the structure, estimated to cost $12,000. It will be located at 69-75 Henderson avenue, at the northeast corner of Henderson avenue and Charles street.

The garage will measure 100 by 100 feet, with an 18-inch concrete footer foundation, walls of concrete block and brick 13 inches in front and back and 8 inches on the sides, and a concrete roof reinforced on bar joists. The capacity of the roof will be 175 pounds per square foot.

Plans are furnished by William M. Rowley, and the work will be done by sub-contracts.

Philip W. Walker, Route 2, Williams road, secured a permit to build a two-room addition to a building at 8 Roberts street. The two-story addition will measure 14 by 16 feet, with a concrete block foundation, frame walls and a slate surface composition roof. P. L. Walker will do the work, estimated tc cost $350.

Boiler Explodes Causing Damage Of About $800

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, Jan. 24 — A 2,400 pound boiler exploded at Chuckle's Recreation Center, Wright's Crossing, Wednesday when ice, frozen in the return line, entered the boiler after William Keiling, owner of the place, stirred up the banked fire to heat the building for the evening. Every section of the huge boiler cracked after the ice cold water entered the system, causing damage estimated at about $800. No damage was caused to the boiler room which is a small addition to the main building where the boiler is located. Keiling succeeded in securing a new boiler Thursday from a Cumberland concern and with the assistance of neighbors had it installed and in operation by 1 a. m., Friday.

Annual Meeting Held

The annual congregational meeting of Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church was held Wednesday evening, after a buffet supper had been served at 6 o'clock by the Ladies Guild.

At 7 p. m., Rev. Walter D. Mehrling, pastor, conducted the "report's meeting," consisting of statements from the Congregational treasurer, Carl G. Storm; financial secretary, Mrs. Harry Thomas; Women's Guild, last president, Mrs. Thomas, treasurer, Mrs. Henry Taylor, and president, Mrs. Carl Storm; church school superintendent, William Filsinger, assistant, Philip Thomas.

Treasurer, Mrs. Clyde; the Church choir, by Philip Krauss; treasurer Building Fund, Mrs. Settle; Senior-Young People, by Philip Thomas; the Vesper choir, by Hugh Watson.

The prayer and praise service which followed was conducted by the pastor, with Mrs. Marvin Rice at the piano. Among those present were Mrs. Anna Miller, Wood street, 77 years of age, and Mrs. Marie Fischer, Beall's Lane, who celebrated her 80th birthday that day.

To Hold Open House

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Elvin, 79 Frost Avenue, Frostburg, will hold open house Saturday between 8 and 10 p. m., in order to give members and others interested in the First Presbyterian Church an opportunity to meet Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Taylor of Princeton, N. J.

Mr. Taylor, who is a candidate for the pulpit, will conduct the morning and evening services at the Presbyterian Church, Sunday, January 26.

Paul A. Monahan

Paul A. Monahan, 40, retired businessman, died early this morning at his home, 77 West Loo street after a year's illness. He owned and operated a grocery store on West Main street until last November when he retired due to failing health.

Mr. Monahan was a native and lifelong resident of Frostburg. His parents were the late Patrick and Elizabeth Monahan. He belonged to Frostburg Lodge No. 470, B. P. O. Elks, and St. Michael's Catholic Church.

Barton Legion Post Will Present Plaque To High School Leaders

Two Honor Students To Receive Awards

By DAVID E. KIRK

BARTON, Jan. 24—Barton Post No. 189, American Legion, announced today that they would present an annual award to the honor boy and girl students of the graduating class of Barton High School.

The post will give the school a plaque, finished in satin bronze, on which the name of the honor boy and girl will be placed each year for a period of seven years.

The plaque will have the name and number of the post, city and state, and will be placed in the school.

The awards, which will be judged by the teachers and principal, will be based on honor, courage, scholarship, leadership and service for the boy; and courage, companionship, character, service and scholarship for the girl. The winners will not be announced until they are called to the stage at the annual commencement exercises.

A cash award will also be given the winners, Paul L. Davis, chairman, stated.

Final plans of the annual presentation was made today when a meeting of Davis and Alfred H. Benna, principal of the Barton High School, was held.

This is the second project of the Civic Improvement Committee of the Legion, the other one securing a full-time community doctor which a committee of citizens and of the Legion is working on.

Non-Game Fish Can Be Snared In Some Streams

By MYRTLE PARK

PETERSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 24—Ralph P. Welton, House of Delegates representative from Grant county, who returned yesterday from Charleston stated that the Conservation Commission would permit snaring of non-game fish through the ice in Grant County through January and February, and that he had received the following information from Jack Shipman, director of the commission:

"It is my recommendation that no action be taken against any person or persons found enjoying the privilege of snaring non-game fish through the ice in the various streams of the counties of Hardy, Pendleton, Grant, Berkeley and Webster, during the months of January and February, 1947."

Mr. Shipman further said: "A bill is being drafted for presentation to the current session of the West Virginia Legislature, and action thereon by this group will determine the course which will be taken in the future in relation thereto. Meantime, in the interest of good public relations you are authorized to handle the matter in the above manner."

John Hill Dies

Word has been received here by relatives of the death of John Hill, 49, who died at his home at Casa Grande, Ariz., January 6, after a short illness.

Mr. Hill was a son of the late John Parren Hill, Sr., Petersburg, and is survived by his mother, Mrs. E. M. Hill, Casa Grande, and one sister, Kathleen.

Marriage Is Announced

Word has been received here of the marriage of Miss Jean Hook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hook, 208 Fulton street, Cumberland, to George Boor, son of John L. Boor, Grove street, Petersburg. The ceremony was performed in Winchester, Va., Monday, January 13, by Rev. Teter, pastor of the Methodist Church there.

Mrs. Boor was attired in a blue suit with brown accessories and completed her costume with a shoulder corsage of red rosebuds.

Judge Henderson Is Guest Speaker

The first convention of the Maryland Department, Legion of Guardsmen, opened here last night with a banquet at Queen City Hotel, attended by 60 members, delegates and guests.

Associate Judge George Henderson, of the Fourth Judicial Circuit, a veteran of two World Wars and former National Guard officer, was guest speaker at the banquet. Judge Henderson told the organization that as Minute Men and State Guardsmen, they filled an important post in the nation's defense during the war. The organization doubtless prevented subversive activity, sabotage and helped discourage possible attacks here at home, the speaker said.

Thomas F. Conlon, former mayor of Cumberland and war-time commander of the State Guard here, was toastmaster. He presented a number of visitors and welcomed the guests and delegates.

Guests included Phil Fleming, commander Post No. 13, American Legion; John E. Hoffman of the Disabled Veterans; Norris Bruce, Westernport, past commander of Spanish American War Veterans, state of West Virginia; City Commissioner Meyers G. Light; Wilson R. Caskey, Commander Washington County Post No. 2, Legion of Guardsmen; and Samuel Widmer, past department vice commander of the W. Va. Legion, and Elmer A. Dize, commander of Crisfield Post No .1, Guardsmen.

The convention will convene at 10 a. m. today in the City Hall auditorium to discuss organizational questions. Election of State Department officers will be held tomorrow afternoon. At 7:30 p. m. Algonquin Post No. 2, the host organization will formally open post headquarters at 142 North Centre street.

William Schulman, Jersey City, N. J., chairman of the national organization committee of the Legion of Guardsmen, who was scheduled to speak here last night, wired that he could not arrive because of bad flying weather. He expects to be here for the opening session today, he informed the local group.

Paid Recreation Head Is Being Sought

A number or organizations, including a delgation from the American Association of University Women, will appear before the Mayor and Council Monday to request that a paid recreation director be appointed for Cumberland, it was indicated yesterday.

Mrs. Gilbert Miller, chairman of the social studies committee of the AAUW, said the group is also interested in learning exactly how the city plans to spend the $150,000 it hopes to obtain through a bond issue for recreation work. She added that a city-wide meeting of all interested groups and individuals is planned later.

If passed by the General Assembly, the bill would authorize the city to issue $150,000 in bonds for recreational purposes after it is approved in a referendum election. The bill provides that the money will be used for the purchase of land, equipment and fencing.

For the current fiscal year the city appropriated $9,540 for playgrounds, and through December 31 a total of $8,010.64 had been expended.

Pvt. Charles Keister Is Going To Rome

Pvt. Charles Keister, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Keister, Centerville, Pa., where he resided before enlisting in the Marines last June, will begin his journey to Rome, Italy, Sunday, when he flies from the capital to Paris, then to London, and then to Rome, where he will become a guard at the United States Embassy.

After finishing his boot training at Parris Island, he was on a duty as guard at the United Nations Conference, New York. He is a graduate of Oldtown High School, and a former student at Frostburg State Teachers' College.

Clerk To Commissioners Ill At His Home

James G. Stevenson, 120 Second street, clerk to the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, is confined to his home, suffering from complications resulting from an old back and leg injury suffered when he played baseball years ago. Stevenson accompanied the Commissioners to Annapolis earlier this week to attend a conference with the County Legislators. Following the conference he was stricken, and returned here by train, Thursday night accompanied by Commissioner James W. Holmes, as he was unable to ride in a car.

Miss Betty Yowell, Vienna, Va., Is Wed To Davis Man

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, Jan. 24 — Announcement is being made in Parsons of the marriage of Miss Betty Harrison Yowell, daughter of Mrs. Robert P. Yowell, and the late Mr. Yowell, Vienna, Va., to Paul H. Combs, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Combs, Parsons and Davis.

The ceremony was solemnized in the Methodist Church in Vienna Saturday, January 11, at 3 p. m. with Rev. Millard Rewis, pastor of the church, officiating at the double ring service.

Miss Juanita Anderson, Arlington Forest, Va., maid of honor, wore a gown of blue satin with white gloves and carried an arm bouquet of white mixed flowers and pink roses. Miss Mary Ellen Yowell, bridesmaid, wore a gown of ice blue satin, white gloves and carried a bouquet of flowers matching the maid of honor's.

The Misses Nancy and Jane Yowell, younger sisters of the bride, were flower girls and James Waters, Vienna, served as best man. Ushers were Harry Kidd and Robert Shomo, both of Vienna.

The bride is a graduate of Fairfax High School and prior to her marriage was employed by the state department in Virginia.

Mr. Combs, a graduate of Thomas High School, enlisted in the navy where he spent 33 months, 28 of which were in the Atlantic and Pacific theaters where he held the rating of Gunner's Mate 2-c. Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother after which the young couple left for a short honeymoon. They are now residing in Davis where Mr. Combs is engaged in the plumbing business with his father in Parsons.

Fire Damages Home

The second 1947 fire in Parsons occurred Wednesday afternoon when the Parsons Volunteer Fire Department was called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Phillips to extinguish a fire which had gained considerable headway from a defective flue.

The two story five room frame house in Parsons was damaged to the extent of between $300 and $400, which is partially covered by insurance. Most of the furniture of the downstairs rooms was removed but was damaged by water and smoke. The house was owned by C. R. "Dickie" Currance, Parsons.

Plan Study Course

Mrs. Harold D. Shiflet stated today that tentative plans have been made by the members of the Woman's Auxiliary of Parsons Presbyterian Church to observe the World Missions period with special study course to be started February 5 at the church. Leaders will hold the discussions on the study book for that period. Members of the Hambleton-Hendricks church and other interested persons will be invited to attend the discussions.

By MARIE MERRBAUGH

LONACONING, Jan. 24—A "Boys Service Club" has been organized in Lonaconing, with the first official meeting being held tonight in James P. Love Post No. 92, American Legion, headquarters. Miss Anne Sloan is in charge.

Eldon Lee Nicol is president of the club, Billy Nicol is secretary and treasurer and Eddie Getson is sergeant-at-arms.

Wills Rites Sunday

Funeral services for Kenneth Elisworth Wills, 10, son of John E. and Mary Catherine Berry Wills, Bridge street, who died Thursday, will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church.

Rev. C. H. Goshorn, pastor, will be assisted by Rev. John E. Stacks, pastor of First Methodist church. Interment will be in Mount Savage Methodist Church Cemetery.

Plan Polio Drive

The third of a series of "March of Dimes" campaign rally meetings for committees and volunteers will be held Sunday at 6:30 p. m. in James P. Love Post No. 92, American Legion headquarters, on Jackson street.

Miss Anne Sloan, chairman of the Georges Creek region, said the campaign in the communities of Midland, Barton and Lonaconing is progressing "satisfactory."

Plans are being made for a semi-formal dance Wednesday, February 5, in the auditorium of Central High School. The Aristocrats will play.

The movie committee will also report Sunday evening, and "The Sunshine Girls" will help in the campaign next week when they pass the coin containers through the theatres.

The Lonaconing City Band is expected to give a concert one night to raise funds for the benefit also.

Twenty-five dollars was contributed to the "March of Dimes" campaign by Local Union No. 7768, United Mine Workers of America, Thursday night in the Odd Fellows hall.

Brief Mention

In response to the "March of Dimes" call for funds, Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280 plan their first dance with proceeds to go to the "March of Dimes" fund.

A "March of Dimes" benefit dance will be held Thursday, February 6, at the Veterans of Foreign Wars home in Lonaconing, with the Vets-Own-Four providing music for the entertainment.

Alex Gardner, post commander, represented the Lonaconing VFW post at the public health meeting in the City hall, Cumberland, tonight. Water and sewage disposal were discussed.

The Parent-Teacher Association of Jackson Elementary School, was given permission to use the top floor of the VFW building for their silver tea in February for the benefit of the Red Cross.

Mrs. Molly Boston Richmond fell Wednesday at her home and suffered bruises about her face.

Through the co-operation of the superintendent of schools, Board of Education, Allegany county, a new cold-wall frigidaire has been installed in the Home Economics department at Central High School. The frigidaire is nine cubic foot space.

A street light is being placed at the corner of Hanekamp and High streets near the residence of John R. Merrbaugh. Permission was granted by the Mayor and Council to have the light placed at this turn as soon as the Potomac Edison Company had the materials.

Morning Star Temple No. 1, Pythian Sisters, will hold a party Wednesday, January 29, at 8 o'clock. Games will be played and prizes awarded. Their regular meeting will be held on Monday evening. The Past Chiefs will hold a dinner in honor of the newly-installed officers of the lodge in February.

A fire drill was held at Central High School at 1:31 p. m. for practice. Two minutes was required for 600 students to leave the school building. Practice from emergency exits were used in case of fire.

Mrs. Josephine Craze left Friday to spend the weekend with her brother and sister in Washington, D. C.

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., Jan. 24 — Alvin Fazenbaker and Russell Michael were released from the Mineral county jail today, having completed their one-year jail sentence imposed at the January, 1946 term of court, on a misdemeanor verdict in connection with the death of Charles Dornon, chief of police of Piedmont.

In addition to the jail sentence Fazenbaker and Michael were each assessed a fine of $500, to which was added the court costs of prosecution the sum of $704.27.

In the indictment under which the men were tried they were charged with murder which is a felony. The jury verdict reduced the crime to involuntary manslaughter which is a misdemeanor. The costs assessed were computed for the greater crime of felony under which the suit was prosecuted.

Since, by verdict, the crime was reduced to a misdemeanor, Fazenbaker and Michael in person and by their attorney E. L. Tyler, came into court, Tuesday of this week, and by petition, asked that the costs assessed against them be reduced to the costs for a misdemeanor, a reduction of approximately $400.

In his ruling today Judge Ernest A. See held that the costs as assessed amounting to $704.27 should be paid. The court also ordered that on condition of their good behavior and their strict obedience to law for a period of 90 days, and in further consideration of their conduct as model prisoners during their confinement that the fine of $500 be reduced to $250 each, however, the order provides that should the 90-day parole be violated the remitted $250 of the fine would have to be paid by the violator or violators.

The payment of the $704.27 costs was made, also Michael's fine of $250 was paid and Fazenbaker was given six months time in which to pay his fine of $250.

After the departure of Fazenbaker and Michael, Oscar Cosner remained the lone occupant of the jail. Cosner is being held for the slaying of his wife, Evelyn Cosner, on September 3, 1946.

Two divorce orders were entered today:

Blache I. Baker from Paule E. Baker. The custody of their 3-year-old daughter, Evelyn Paulette Baker given to the mother.

Permit Is Granted For Public Garage

An application for a building permit, made last April 20, was granted yesterday, nine months later, in the city engineer's office. Chester L. Collins, 804 Kentucky avenue, secured the permit to build a one-story public garage for sale, repair and servicing of cars, as well as a service station with parking space for cars on the roof.

The delay in taking out the permit was caused by shortage of materials, according to Collins, who conferred with Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, yesterday regarding plans for the structure, estimated to cost $12,000. It will be located at 69-75 Henderson avenue, at the northeast corner of Henderson avenue and Charles street.

The garage will measure 100 by 100 feet, with an 18-inch concrete footer foundation, walls of concrete block and brick 13 inches in front and back and 8 inches on the sides, and a concrete roof reinforced on bar joists. The capacity of the roof will be 175 pounds per square foot.

Plans are furnished by William M. Rowley, and the work will be done by sub-contracts.

Philip W. Walker, Route 2, Williams road, secured a permit to build a two-room addition to a building at 8 Roberts street. The two-story addition will measure 14 by 16 feet, with a concrete block foundation, frame walls and a slate surface composition roof. P. L. Walker will do the work, estimated to cost $350.

Go to Church this Sunday . . . . your Church . . . . any Church . . . . but go!

Thanks, Boss...

"Thanks for the promotion and the pay raise, Boss. It comes at just the right time. My wife and I have been worrying about how we were going to meet expenses, pay for our home and save a little something for the future. This will help a lot."

"That's fine, Jim. But don't forget you earned it. We've had our eyes on you for some time, Jim. You're the kind of employee we need and want to keep in this business —steady, reliable, conscientious and loyal."

"Well, I just try to do what's right, Boss. I figure if people can't depend on you, you're not apt to get very far in work or business or anywhere else."

"Right, Jim. I wish everybody felt that way."

"Oh, I'm not taking any credit, Boss. We were just brought up that way—my wife and I. I guess it's part of our religion. You see, we are church people, and we believe that a good conscience and a right mind are more important than anything else."

"That's true, Jim. If everybody took his church and his religion more seriously, we could solve most of the problems we face in our human relations."

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every persons should attend and support the church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to Church on Sunday and read your Bible daily.

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON

Paced by the sterling performances of Guards Gene Shaw and "Sonny" Lease and tall, lanky pivot man, Russell "Stilts" Hilleary, an underrated Allegany High School team of ball hawks completely outclassed and outplayed a favored Fort Hill quint to hand them a stunning 41-21 defeat last night at Campobello before a packed house of 1,200 fans.

The trio of Campers cagers dominated play from the start. They scored 37 of their team's total points, played spectacular defensive ball, stealing the mellon from the Scarlett and White outfit on innumerable occasions, blocking shots, controlling rebounds and generally wrecking any plans the visiting Sentinels may have had toward dethroning the City and WMI League champions. Lease and Hilleary were outstanding, seeming to be everywhere at once on the court and coming through with baskets in the pinches to break the spirit of a fighting opponent.

Fort Hill Leads Once

Milford Dean started things rolling with a pretty one-hander from the side, seconds after the opening jump, for the only time in the contest the Hilltoppers led. Tommy Powers and Lease converted at the foul stripe to knot the count at 2-2. Hilleary dumped in a long set shot and Dean came back to tally on a lay-up to tie the figures for the second and last time. Lease and Shaw banged in twin-pointers in quick succession to put the Blue and White ahead where they stayed the remainder of the game. Maintaining this four-point advantage Allegany led 10-6 at the quarter.

Shaw scored from the corner and Hilleary added a point at the charity stripe for Coach Walter L. "Bill" Bowers quint as the second stanza opened. Elmer Freeland, the Sentinels sharpshooting southpaw and leading scorer, then dropped the ball through for two points to make the scoreboard read 13-8, Alleany. This basket, incidentally, was the only score from the field by Freeland, who was completely bottled up and stopped by the stellar defensive work of "Sonny" Lease. The Bowersmen continued to pound the hoops and build their lead to walk off the floor on the long end of a 20-12 count at halftime.

Fort Hill, noted for their ability to stage stirring rallies in the late periods started off in the third conto as if they meant to repeat again. Dean converted at the 15-foot line and Captain "Bub" Frye made it 20-15 with a lay-up seconds after the first half began. But Hilleary, Shaw and Lease connected for fielders and Shaw dropped in a singleton to make it 27-15 as the third quarter gun went off.

Win 35th In Row

There seemed little doubt at this time that the Campers were going to win their 35th consecutive WMI League game and their seventh in a row over a "Bobby" Cavanaugh-coached team. Hilleary, Lease and Shaw continued to bang away and bottle up the favored Sentinelmen. Building their lead quickly to 32-19 AHS began to substitute and after the automatic time out both coaches sent in their second stringers to finish out the fray. Frye's fielder and Tom Jamison's one-pointer ended the scoring and the Campobello quint walked off the court victorious in their only City contest and leading the first half of the WMIL with five victories without a defeat.

The Bowersmen haven't lost a WMI game since Fort Hill defeated them in 1944. It also was the 33rd victory in 44 games for the Blue and White in their rivalry with the combined Penn Avenue and Fort Hill teams since they began playing home and home series in 1927.

30 Personals Called

The game was fast and hard-fought, getting a little rough in spots as the officials called 30 personals on the two outfits, 17 on Fort Hill and 13 on Allegany. However Jim Mangus was the only player ejected on personals, leaving the game midway in the final canto. Several other players had four personals listed behind their names in the scorebook.

Dean and Frye topped the scorers for the vanquished Hilltoppers tallying eight and five points respectively. Lease, starting only his second game as a regular for Allegany, paced his mates with 13 markers, followed closely by Shaw and Hilleary each with 12 counters. Allegany now leads in the City race with one victory and no defeats and will get their second test when they play hosts to LaSalle High at Campobello next Friday.

The AHS Reserves made it a clean sweep for the evening by trouncing the Fort Hill "Bees" in the preliminary affair by a 27 to 17 count. The lineups:

Frostburg's Teachers Suffer 118-36 Defeat

CALIFORNIA, Pa., Jan. 24 (AP)—Coach Ed Cubbon's California State Teachers five went on a scoring spree tonight, setting a school record by flogging the Frostburg (Md.) Teachers College, 118 to 36.

Seven of California's 10 players made 10 points or more. Forward Chuck Hummel of Harrisburg, Pa., led the parade with 19, including nine field goals.

California led 48-13 at the half and poured through a total of 70 points in the final stanzas.

Catamounts Rout West Liberty Five At Keyser, 61-36

Potomac State Bags 5th Win Of Season

By JOHN L. BORCHERT

The Potomac State Catamounts came to life in the second half to rout the West Liberty Hilltoppers 61-36 before 350 spectators last night in the Potomac State gymnasium. The victory moves the Cats into possession of ninth place in the W. Va. State Basketball Conference.

West Liberty started fast, running up a 4-0 lead in the first ninty seconds of play. Potomac State struck back and took the lead at 5-4 on Ed Burns basket with five minutes remaining. West Liberty fought back but the Loughmen held a 13-8 quartertime lead.

With Bob Lefever, Kenny Simms and Jack Thomas leading the attack, the Cats rolled up a 22-13 lead with 1:30 to go in the first half. Bernie Harris scored a fielder on a lay-up for the Hilltoppers and converted a foul to make the halftime count 22-16, Potomac State.

Potomac State began to move as the third period began. Simms scored on a lay-up shot, Thomas and Lefever hit the hoop on one-handed shots after Jim Allen's charity toss for West Liberty and Lefever sank another one-handed goal before Simms added a free toss to boost the Cats' margin to 31-17. West Liberty calmed down and with Jack Robinson leading the way, they traded Potomac State point for point the remainder of the period to make the count 39-25, Potomac State as the final period opened.

The Loughmen got "hot" in the final period. They scored 22-markers as almost everything they threw at the basket went in. Kenny Simms got four and Mike Yewcic three points in this period to bring their seasons' total to 100-points each.

A total of thirteen players paraded into the game for Potomac State. Nine of these players broke into the scoring column with Kenny Simms leading the lot with 18 points and Lefever close behind with 12. Jim Allen topped West Liberty scorers with 15-points although Jack Robinson played the most outstanding floor game of the night.

Catanese Seeks Fifth Straight Win Monday

Jimmie Meets Porter In Return Go Here

Jimmie Catanese, the busy lightweight of the South Cumberland Athletic Club, will be seeking his fifth straight victory of the 1946-47 season when he tangles with Bobby Porter in one of the top matches in Monday night's amateur fistic show at the state armory.

It will be Catanese's 14th match since his discharge from the army. Jimmie's record is five wins and eight losses. He started his present winning streak on October 21 when he whipped Arky Klinger, of Lewistown, Pa. Two weeks later he won on a technical knockout over Jack Santley, Johnstown, Pa. He flattened Mike Kowatch in 1:16 on December 16 and won a hard fight from Porter on January 6.

First Bout Was Thriller

Catanese tried to finish Porter in a hurry in their first match. Bobby, however, slugged it out with Jimmie for two rounds then weakened in the final heat to lose the decision. It was a fight that really had the fans on their toes.

Monday's scrap will be Porter's 15th since boxing was revived here in October 1945. The trial horse of the 135-pounders has won three and lost seven.

Promoter Presley "Red" Mauk last night reported that Billy Dircks and Frank Metz, local heavies, who will meet in the five-round main go, have been training, and added that Dircks, former ETO heavyweight, has taken off poundage in recent days. Metz scored two kayoes in as many bouts last season while Dircks flattened Dave Kidsy, of Pennsylvania, in his first postwar engagement here before a record crowd at SS. Peter and Paul gym.

In one of the prelims, Eugene Mann, Rocket A.C. bantam, who made his debut by gaining a decision over Al Hunt in the recent PBC show, has been paired with Lester Lee.

Klosterman To Fight

Jackie Klosterman, local 140 pound flash, who has won six fights in eight starts in the past year, will be matched in one of the top bouts as will Bobby Goss, the SCAC flyweight star, who has won 8 out of 11 matches.

Other scrappers who will likely get spots on the card are Tommy Dunn, Bill Jones, Medford Nicholson, Mike Leslie, Bobby Meyers and Paul Lepley.

Matchmaker Mauk has been unable to land an opponent for his new heavyweight, Ressley Tressler, formerly of Meyersdale, Pa., whom he hoped to place on the card.

Monday's show will get under way at 8 o'clock. It will be the ninth amateur fistic carnival of the season here and the first SCAC program at the state armory.

Beall Runs Wild, Barton Bows 61-31

Frostburg High Five Gets 28 Field Goals

FROSTBURG, Jan. 24 — Beall High School moved into undisputed possession of third place in the W.M.I. League by trouncing Barton High School tonight under an avalanche of 28 field goals. The score was 61 to 31.

Bill Farrady and "Ozzie" Nelson collected 14 points each to lead the Beall attack. Bill Warnick, of Barton, however, was the game's high scorer with 16 tallies.

Beall lead throughout, the quarter scores being 11-4, 25-8 and 44-16.

NATIONAL GRID LOOP TO RETAIN 10 TEAMS

CHICAGO, Jan 24—(AP)—The National Football League, despite a franchise bid by the San Francisco Clippers of the Pacific Coast League, will retain its present 10-club membership for "three or four years," Commissioner Bert Bell said today.

As the league revised its playing code with 20 changes, including approval of a fifth official, Bell made it clear his 27-year-old circuit would continue to slug it out with the one-season-old All-America Conference for major league patronage without trying to lure away any A.A. clubs.

In an interview, Bell declared his league "was really beginning to roll" and had perhaps its best balance in years.

"We had our greatest attendance in history last year and every club except Detroit and Boston was dangerously strong," he said.

"Our aim is to get Detroit and Boston bolstered, not to go shopping around for new members."

The fifth league official will be identified as an assistant headlinesman whose job chiefly will be to watch the man-in-motion and "dead spots" on the field.

Terps Top Tar Heels, Mont Gets 18 Points

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Jan. 24 (AP)—Breaking quickly to the front, Maryland's basketball team bounced back into the victory column tonight, upsetting North Carolina, 61-51, to avenge an earlier defeat at the hands of the Tar Heels.

Maryland led throughout the fiercely contested game with the exception of one brief moment in the first period when Carolina took a 12-11 edge. Tommy Mont, who matched the Tar Heels' John Dillon's scoring efforts with 18 points, shot Maryland back into the lead with a layup, and Maryland was away for keeps.

It was Carolina's first Southern Conference defeat, and was Maryland's fifth straight loop victory.

LaSalle Passers Invade Johnstown For Sunday Tilt

Keyser And Fort Hill Clash Here Thursday

LaSalle will open next week's scholastic schedule for tri-state basketball teams by playing Johnstown Catholic High School in Johnstown, Pa., tomorrow at 2:30 p. m.

It will be the first of four games on the Explorers' schedule. Coach John J. Long's floormen play a return game in Bedford, Pa., Monday night, meet the Paw Paw Mountaineers at Paw Paw on Tuesday, and tangle with Allegany in an intra-city tilt at Campobello on Friday.

LaSalle has won five games and lost seven.

Keyser Plays Sentinels

Keyser's undefeated team will make its first appearance of the season in Cumberland on Thursday when it does battle with Fort Hill's Sentinels in a return game. Keyser snared the opener on its home court January 16 by the score of 36-32.

Moorefield High School's Yellow Jackets face two important games away from home next week, clashing with Jesse Riggleman's Ridgeley Blackhawks on the Ridgeley floor on Tuesday and battling Emil Suder's classy Thomas High quint at Thomas on Friday.

Ferndale Faces Campers

Another of the week's scholastic highlights is the return of Ferndale high's (Johnstown) Yellow Jackets to Allegany High's schedule. The series will be renewed at Campobello a week from tonight with the return game set for Johnstown on March 8.

No games are scheduled in the W. M. I. League next week. The teams of the county circuit will resume action on Tuesday, February 4.

Here's the scholastic and collegiate schedule for next week:

Sunday—LaSalle at Johnstown.
Monday—LaSalle at Bedford.
Tuesday—Port Ashby at Elk Garden, Thomas at Circleville, Bedford at Saxton, Parsons at Oakland, Moorefield at Ridgeley, LaSalle at Paw Paw, Piedmont at Romney, Weirton at Howard (Piedmont); Beall at Keyser.
Wednesday—Kingwood at Davis; Shepherd College at Potomac State.
Thursday—Beverly at Parsons, Barton at Piedmont, Keyser at Fort Hill, Davis at Tygarts Valley (Mill Creek).
Friday—LaSalle at Allegany, Moorefield at Thomas, Everett at Bedford, Romney at Ridgeley, Elk Garden at Petersburg, Piedmont at Port Ashby, Paw Paw at Berkeley Springs, Howard at Frederick, Port Hill at Hagerstown.

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON

Paced by the sterling performances of Guards Gene Shaw and "Sonny" Lease and tall, lanky pivot man, Russell "Stilts" Hilleary, an underrated Allegany High School team of ball hawks completely outclassed and outplayed a favored Fort Hill quint to hand them a stunning 41-21 defeat last night at Campobello before a packed house of 1,200 fans.

The trio of Campers cagers dominated play from the start. They scored 37 of their team's total points, played spectacular defensive ball, stealing the mellon from the Scarlett and White outfit on innumerable occasions, blocking shots, controlling rebounds and generally wrecking any plans the visiting Sentinels may have had toward dethroning the City and WMI League champions. Lease and Hilleary were outstanding, seeming to be everywhere at once on the court and coming through with baskets in the pinches to break the spirit of a fighting opponent.

Fort Hill Leads Once

Milford Dean started things rolling with a pretty one-hander from the side, seconds after the opening jump, for the only time in the contest the Hilltoppers led. Tommy Powers and Lease converted at the foul stripe to knot the count at 2-2. Hilleary dumped in a long set shot and Dean came back to tally on a lay-up to tie the figures for the second and last time. Lease and Shaw banged in twin-pointers in quick succession to put the Blue and White ahead where they stayed the remainder of the game. Maintaining this four-point advantage Allegany led 10-6 at the quarter.

Shaw scored from the corner and Hilleary added a point at the charity stripe for Coach Walter L. "Bill" Bowers quint as the second stanza opened. Elmer Freeland, the Sentinels sharpshooting southpaw and leading scorer, then dropped the ball through for two points to make the scoreboard read 13-8, Alleany. This basket, incidentally, was the only score from the field by Freeland, who was completely bottled up and stopped by the stellar defensive work of "Sonny" Lease. The Bowersmen continued to pound the hoops and build their lead to walk off the floor on the long end of a 20-12 count at halftime.

Fort Hill, noted for their ability to stage stirring rallies in the late periods started off in the third contest as if they meant to repeat again. Dean converted at the 15-foot line and Captain "Bub" Frye made it 20-15 with a lay-up seconds after the first half began. But Hilleary, Shaw and Lease connected for fielders and Shaw dropped in a singleton to make it 27-15 as the third quarter gun went off.

Win 35th In Row

There seemed little doubt at this time that the Campers were going to win their 35th consecutive WMI League game and their seventh in a row over a "Bobby" Cavanaugh-coached team. Hilleary, Lease and Shaw continued to bang away and bottle up the favored Sentinelmen. Building their lead quickly to 32-19 AHS began to substitute and after the automatic time out both coaches sent in their second stringers to finish out the fray. Frye's fielder and Tom Jamison's one-pointer ended the scoring and the Campobello quint walked off the court victorious in their only City contest and leading the first half of the WMIL with five victories without a defeat.

The Bowersmen haven't lost a WMI game since Fort Hill defeated them in 1944. It also was the 33rd victory in 44 games for the Blue and White in their rivalry with the combined Penn Avenue and Fort Hill teams since they began playing home and home series in 1927.

30 Personals Called

The game was fast and hard-fought, getting a little rough in spots as the officials called 30 personals on the two outfits, 17 on Fort Hill and 13 on Allegany. However Jim Mangus was the only player ejected on personals, leaving the game midway in the final canto. Several other players had four personals listed behind their names in the scorebook.

Dean and Frye topped the scorers for the vanquished Hilltoppers tallying eight and five points respectively. Lease, starting only his second game as a regular for Allegany, paced his mates with 13 markers, followed closely by Shaw and Hilleary each with 12 counters. Allegany now leads in the City race with one victory and no defeats and will get their second test when they play hosts to LaSalle High at Campobello next Friday.

The AHS Reserves made it a clean sweep for the evening by trouncing the Fort Hill "Bees" in the preliminary affair by a 27 to 17 count. The lineups:

CALIFORNIA, Pa., Jan. 24 (AP)—Coach Ed Cubbon's California State Teachers five went on a scoring spree tonight, setting a school record by flogging the Frostburg (Md.) Teachers College, 118 to 36.

Seven of California's 10 players made 10 points or more. Forward Chuck Hummel of Harrisburg, Pa., led the parade with 19, including nine field goals.

Catamounts Rout West Liberty Five At Keyser, 61-36

Potomac State Bags 5th Win Of Season

By JOHN L. BORCHERT

The Potomac State Catamounts came to life in the second half to rout the West Liberty Hilltoppers 61-36 before 350 spectators last night in the Potomac State gymnasium. The victory moves the Cats into possession of ninth place in the W. Va. State Basketball Conference.

West Liberty started fast, running up a 4-0 lead in the first ninty seconds of play. Potomac State struck back and took the lead at 5-4 on Ed Burns basket with five minutes remaining. West Liberty fought back but the Loughmen held a 13-8 quartertime lead.

With Bob Lefever, Kenny Simms and Jack Thomas leading the attack, the Cats rolled up a 22-13 lead with 1:30 to go in the first half. Bernie Harris scored a fielder on a lay-up for the Hilltoppers and converted a foul to make the halftime count 22-16, Potomac State.

Potomac State began to move as the third period began. Simms scored on a lay-up shot, Thomas and Lefever hit the hoop on one-handed shots after Jim Allen's charity toss for West Liberty and Lefever sank another one-handed goal before Simms added a free toss to boost the Cats' margin to 31-17. West Liberty calmed down and with Jack Robinson leading the way, they traded Potomac State point for point the remainder of the period to make the count 39-25, Potomac State as the final period opened.

The Loughmen got "hot" in the final period. They scored 22-markers as almost everything they threw at the basket went in. Kenny Simms got four and Mike Yewcie three points in this period to bring their seasons' total to 100-points each.

A total of thirteen players paraded into the game for Potomac State. Nine of these players broke into the scoring column with Kenny Simms leading the lot with 18 points and Lefever close behind with 12. Jim Allen topped West Liberty scorers with 15-points although Jack Robinson played the most outstanding floor game of the night.

Jimmie Meets Porter In Return Go Here

Jimmie Catanese, the busy lightweight of the South Cumberland Athletic Club, will be seeking his fifth straight victory of the 1946-47 season when he tangles with Bobby Porter in one of the top matches in Monday night's amateur fistic show at the state armory.

It will be Catanese's 14th match since his discharge from the army. Jimmie's record is five wins and eight losses. He started his present winning streak on October 21 when he whipped Arky Klinger, of Lewistown, Pa. Two weeks later he won on a technical knockout over Jack Santley, Johnstown, Pa. He flattened Mike Kowatch in 1:16 on December 16 and won a hard fight from Porter on January 6.

First Bout Was Thriller

Catanese tried to finish Porter in a hurry in their first match. Bobby, however, slugged it out with Jimmie for two rounds then weakened in the final heat to lose the decision. It was a fight that really had the fans on their toes.

Monday's scrap will be Porter's 15th since boxing was revived here in October 1945. The trial horse of the 135-pounders has won three and lost seven.

Promoter Presley "Red" Mauk last night reported that Billy Dircks and Frank Metz, local heavies, who will meet in the five-round main go, have been training, and added that Dircks, former ETO heavyweight, has taken off poundage in recent days. Metz scored two kayoes in as many bouts last season while Dircks flattened Dave Kidsy, of Pennsylvania, in his first postwar engagement here before a record crowd at SS. Peter and Paul gym.

In one of the prelims, Eugene Mann, Rocket A.C. bantam, who made his debut by gaining a decision over Al Hunt in the recent PBC show, has been paired with Lester Lee.

Klosterman To Fight

Jackie Klosterman, local 140 pound flash, who has won six fights in eight starts in the past year, will be matched in one of the top bouts as will Bobby Goss, the SCAC flyweight star, who has won 8 out of 11 matches.

Other scrappers who will likely get spots on the card are Tommy Dunn, Bill Jones, Medford Nicholson, Mike Leslie, Bobby Meyers and Paul Lepley.

Matchmaker Mauk has been unable to land an opponent for his new heavyweight, Ressley Tressler, formerly of Meyersdale, Pa., whom he hoped to place on the card.

Monday's show will get under way at 8 o'clock. It will be the ninth amateur fistic carnival of the season here and the first SCAC program at the state armory.

Beall Runs Wild, Barton Bows 61-31

Frostburg High Five Gets 28 Field Goals

FROSTBURG, Jan. 24 — Beall High School moved into undisputed possession of third place in the W.M.I. League by trouncing Barton High School tonight under an avalanche of 28 field goals. The score was 61 to 31.

NATIONAL GRID LOOP TO RETAIN 10 TEAMS

CHICAGO, Jan 24—(AP)—The National Football League, despite a franchise bid by the San Francisco Clippers of the Pacific Coast League, will retain its present 10-club membership for "three or four years," Commissioner Bert Bell said today.

As the league revised its playing code with 20 changes, including approval of a fifth official, Bell made it clear his 27-year-old circuit would continue to slug it out with the one-season-old All-America Conference for major league patronage without trying to lure away any A.A. clubs.

In an interview, Bell declared his league "was really beginning to roll" and had perhaps its best balance in years.

"We had our greatest attendance in history last year and every club except Detroit and Boston was dangerously strong," he said.

"Our aim is to get Detroit and Boston bolstered, not to go shopping around for new members."

The fifth league official will be identified as an assistant headlinesman whose job chiefly will be to watch the man-in-motion and "dead spots" on the field.

Terps Top Tar Heels, Mont Gets 18 Points

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Jan. 24 (AP)—Breaking quickly to the front, Maryland's basketball team bounced back into the victory column tonight, upsetting North Carolina, 61-51, to avenge an earlier defeat at the hands of the Tar Heels.

Maryland led throughout the fiercely contested game with the exception of one brief moment in the first period when Carolina took a 12-11 edge. Tommy Mont, who matched the Tar Heels' John Dillon's scoring efforts with 18 points, shot Maryland back into the lead with a layup, and Maryland was away for keeps.

It was Carolina's first Southern Conference defeat, and was Maryland's fifth straight loop victory.

Keyser And Fort Hill Clash Here Thursday

LaSalle will open next week's scholastic schedule for tri-state basketball teams by playing Johnstown Catholic High School in Johnstown, Pa., tomorrow at 2:30 p. m.

It will be the first of four games on the Explorers' schedule. Coach John J. Long's floormen play a return game in Bedford, Pa., Monday night, meet the Paw Paw Mountaineers at Paw Paw on Tuesday, and tangle with Allegany in an intra-city tilt at Campobello on Friday.

LaSalle has won five games and lost seven.

Keyser Plays Sentinels

Keyser's undefeated team will make its first appearance of the season in Cumberland on Thursday when it does battle with Fort Hill's Sentinels in a return game. Keyser snared the opener on its home court January 16 by the score of 36-32.

Moorefield High School's Yellow Jackets face two important games away from home next week, clashing with Jesse Riggleman's Ridgeley Blackhawks on the Ridgeley floor on Tuesday and battling Emil Suder's classy Thomas High quint at Thomas on Friday.

Ferndale Faces Campers

Another of the week's scholastic highlights is the return of Ferndale high's (Johnstown) Yellow Jackets to Allegany High's schedule. The series will be renewed at Campobello a week from tonight with the return game set for Johnstown on March 8.

No games are scheduled in the W. M. I. League next week. The teams of the county circuit will resume action on Tuesday, February 4.

Here's the scholastic and collegiate schedule for next week:

Monday—LaSalle at Bedford.
Tuesday—Fort Ashby at Elk Garden, Thomas at Circleville, Bedford at Saxton, Parsons at Oakland, Moorefield at Ridgeley, LaSalle at Paw Paw, Piedmont at Romney, Weirton at Howard (Piedmont); Beall at Keyser.
Wednesday—Kingwood at Davis; Shepherd College at Potomac State.
Thursday—Beverly at Parsons, Barton at Piedmont, Keyser at Fort Hill, Davis at Tygarts Valley (Mill Creek).
Friday—LaSalle at Allegany, Moorefield at Thomas, Everett at Bedford, Romney at Ridgeley, El. Garden at Petersburg, Piedmont at Fort Ashby, Paw Paw at Berkeley Springs, Howard at Frederick, Fort Hill at Hagerstown.

LASALLE TEAM LOSES JIM COLLINS; SUNDAY GAME WILL BE AIRED

LaSalle High School's basketball team lost the services of a regular forward for at least two weeks when Jimmie Collins developed an infected left foot yesterday and is under a doctor's care at home.

Collins has played as a regular in the first 12 games on the Explorer's schedule.

Brother Gregory, athletic director, last night announced that the LaSalle-Johnstown Catholic game will be broadcast from Radio Station WJAC Johnstown, which has a frequency of 1,400 kilocycles at 4:30 p. m. tomorrow. The game, set for 2:30 p. m., will be recorded and then broadcast.

SOMERSET HIGH STOPS BEDFORD TEAM, 30-21

BEDFORD, Pa., Jan. 24 — Bedford High School's Bisons battled the Somerset High Eagles on even terms to the halfway mark tonight then weakened in the third period and lost 30 to 21.

After being held to a 13-13 score at the halfway mark, Somerset racked up 10 points to the Bison's single tally to sew up the game in the third stanza. Each team scored seven points in the first and fourth periods.

Emert hit the hoops for 16 points to head the Somerset assault while "Bud" Fisher accounted for 10 Bedford markers. Lineups:

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 24—I suppose everybody read the story of Tillie Majczek, the scrub woman in Chicago who saved $5,000 over a period of ten years to free her son, Joe, from the charge of murder. Joe was in Joliet serving a 99-year prison sentence on the charge of having murdered Policeman William D. Lundy.

Ruth Etting

Mrs. Majczek was sure her boy was innocent, but she had no one to help her. So she put an advertisement in the paper, "Call Northside 777." Some newspapermen answered the ad, went to work on the case and uncovered evidence that freed Joe.

Now that I've recalled the story to you, I want to say that Darryl Zanuck has sent Otto Lang and Leonard Hoffman, brother of Irving Hoffman, to Chicago to make arrangements to film Joe's story there.

The picture will be called "Call Northside 777," and it will be made as a factual life story just as "Boomerang" was done.

When the roll was called this morning on Michael Curtiz's set "Unsuspected," Marguerite Chapman was among the missing. She was supposed to have played Althea. Seems Marguerite won't be through at her own studio, Columbia, until February 1, and Mike can't wait for her.

So Audrey Totter was borrowed. Audrey is the gal who starred in "The Lady Of The Lake" with Robert Montgomery, and the one whom I prophesied would go far as an actress. Good break for her with Curtiz.

Bill Pine and Bill Thomas read the newspapers, principally the Los Angeles Examiner. They read about an expose of gambling parlors in two small towns. Hawthorne and Gardena, and took themselves to both places to see if they could get a basic story. They came back with an idea which they are calling "Bigtime After Dark," with Phil Reed and Hillarly Brooke in the co-starring roles. The two Bills lost $12 between them during their evening out, but they figured they were still money ahead. Hey, how about paying the Examiner for a few of the ideas they regularly discover in the paper.

Chatter in Hollywood: Laraine Day was to have started "Tycoon" today at RKO, but it has been moved up to Monday to give her a chance to iron out her matrimonial tangles with Leo Durocher.

Those who know and love Laraine are heartsick that she got herself in such a mess. To me, it's one of the great tragedies of Hollywood for a girl who has always carried herself so decently to get all this unfortunate publicity.

I am so happy to report that after several years of hard work, Father Patrick Leyton has succeeded in bringing his idea of "The Family Theatre" to the radio, a non-commercial program. On Thursday evenings, starting February 13 at 7 p. m. Pacific time, he will inaugurate his Hour of Prayer.

He hopes to bring back the daily family prayer into American home life. Father Leyton is such a brilliant spiritual man that I am convinced he will be a helpful influence in the present chaotic conditions which seem to exist all over the world. He feels the lack of family life and especially prayer is largely responsible for many shocking crimes.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Mrs. Jesse Lasky, who has been living in New York, arrives here Thursday. Friends are hopeful that Bessie and Jesse can work out their problems. . . . Thanks bo to Charles Brown who telephoned me from the Casita Del Monte that Virginia Mayo was a guest there. He tracked me down at Santa Anita where I was A.W.O.L. with Fred Sammis and his wife. . . . At Santa Anita I saw June Haver with Dave Rose as happy as happy can be. Another pair of love birds betting on the nags was Ann Miller and Phil Reed. That's a very hot romance. . . . Gloria Schnitzer, daughter of the late Joseph Schnitzer, president of Western Costume Company, is marrying Fred Schimmel of New York. Mrs. Schnitzer is announcing the engagement today. . . . Tamara Toumanova left Hollywood with 33 pieces of luggage bound for France and the Paris ballet. . . . Justin Dart, the drug magnate, and his wife, the former Jane Bryan, are in Hololulu on a vacation. . . . Seems Ellen Ross, who got herself in the columns by dining with Jimmie Stewart, is smitten with Bobby Anderson, who was once Faye Emerson Roosevelt's constant companion. Jimmie, by the way, planed east to take a look at the shows and to visit his family. On the same plane was Jacqueline Dalya traveling to New York to do a show. . . . The world's largest theatre will be built by M-G-M on the site of the Astor Hotel block, just bought by this company. What memories that hotel brings to many of us who used to cover movie events there long before the talkies—am I giving my age away? . . . Ruth Etting, back as an entertainer after a long absence, was so good on the Rudy Vallee show, she may be a permanent fixture. . . . Dennis Day is being paged for the romantic lead in "One Touch Of Venus." He would be good, too . . . If Dana Clark's wife, Margo, doesn't return to Hollywood when he finishes his picture in three weeks, he will go east to talk over their troubles. . . . Poor Charles Boyer is in constant pain from neuritis in his right shoulder.

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 24—I suppose everybody read the story of Tillie Majczek, the scrub woman in Chicago who saved $5,000 over a period of ten years to free her son, Joe, from the charge of murder. Joe was in Joliet serving a 99-year prison sentence on the charge of having murdered Policeman William D. Lundy.

Ruth Etting

Mrs. Majczek was sure her boy was innocent, but she had no one to help her. So she put an advertisement in the paper, "Call Northside 777." Some newspapermen answered the ad, went to work on the case and uncovered evidence that freed Joe.

Now that I've recalled the story to you, I want to say that Darryl Zanuck has sent Otto Lang and Leonard Hoffman, brother of Irving Hoffman, to Chicago to make arrangements to film Joe's story there.

The picture will be called "Call Northside 777," and it will be made as a factual life story just as "Boomerang" was done.

When the roll was called this morning on Michael Curtiz's set "Unsuspected," Marguerite Chapman was among the missing. She was supposed to have played Althea. Seems Marguerite won't be through at her own studio, Columbia, until February 1, and Mike can't wait for her.

So Audrey Totter was borrowed. Audrey is the gal who starred in "The Lady Of The Lake" with Robert Montgomery, and the one whom I prophesied would go far as an actress. Good break for her with Curtiz.

Bill Pine and Bill Thomas read the newspapers, principally the Los Angeles Examiner. They read about an expose of gambling parlors in two small towns, Hawthorne and Gardena, and took themselves to both places to see if they could get a basic story. They came back with an idea which they are calling "Bigtime After Dark," with Phil Reed and Hillarly Brooke in the co-starring roles. The two Bills lost $12 between them during their evening out, but they figured they were still money ahead. Hey, how about paying the Examiner for a few of the ideas they regularly discover in the paper.

Chatter in Hollywood: Laraine Day was to have started "Tycoon" today at RKO, but it has been moved up to Monday to give her a chance to iron out her matrimonial tangles with Leo Durocher.

Those who know and love Laraine are heartsick that she got herself in such a mess. To me, it's one of the great tragedies of Hollywood for a girl who has always carried herself so decently to get all this unfortunate publicity.

I am so happy to report that after several years of hard work, Father Patrick Leyton has succeeded in bringing his idea of "The Family Theatre" to the radio, a non-commercial program. On Thursday evenings, starting February 13 at 7 p. m. Pacific time, he will inaugurate his Hour of Prayer.

He hopes to bring back the daily family prayer into American home life. Father Leyton is such a brilliant spiritual man that I am concinced he will be a helpful influence in the present chaotic conditions which seem to exist all over the world. He feels the lack of family life and especially prayer is largely responsible for many shocking crimes.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Mrs. Jesse Lasky, who has been living in New York, arrives here Thursday. Friends are hopeful that Bessie and Jesse can work out their problems. . . . Thanks bo to Charles Brown who telephoned me from the Casita Del Monte that Virginia Mayo was a guest there. He tracked me down at Santa Anita where I was A.W.O.L. with Fred Sammis and his wife. . . . At Santa Anita I saw June Haver with Dave Rose as happy as happy can be. Another pair of love birds betting on the nags was Ann Miller and Phil Reed. That's a very hot romance. . . . Gloria Schnitzer, daughter of the late Joseph Schnitzer, president of Western Costume Company, is marrying Fred Schimmel of New York. Mrs. Schnitzer is announcing the engagement today. . . . Tamara Toumanova left Hollywood with 33 pieces of luggage bound for France and the Paris ballet. . . . Justin Dart, the drug magnate, and his wife, the former Jane Bryan, are in Hololulu on a vacation. . . . Seems Ellen Ross, who got herself in the columns by dining with Jimmie Stewart, is smitten with Bobby Anderson, who was once Faye Emerson Roosevelt's constant companion. Jimmie, by the way, planed east to take a look at the shows and to visit his family. On the same piane was Jacqueline Dalya traveling to New York to do a show. . . . The world's largest theatre will be built by M-G-M on the site of the Astor Hotel block, just bought by this company. What memories that hotel brings to many of us who used to cover movie events there long before the talkies—am I giving my age away? . . . Ruth Etting, back as an entertainer after a long absence, was so good on the Rudy Vallee show, she may be a permanent fixture. . . . Dennis Day is being paged for the romantic lead in "One Touch Of Venus." He would be good, too . . . If Dana Clark's wife, Margo, doesn't return to Hollywood when he finishes his picture in three weeks, he will go east to talk over their troubles. . . . Poor Charles Boyer is in constant pain from neuritis in his right shoulder.

That's all today.

BINGHAMTON, NEW YORK

QUALIFIED MEN WANTED

FOR INTERESTING WORK IN JAPAN

ALL EXPENSES PAID AND $90 PER MONTH

Choice of jobs in more than 100 specialties in the U. S. 24th Infantry Division in Japan. Known as the "Victory Division," the 24th stands on a glorious combat record in New Guinea, Leyte, Mindoro and the Marinduque Islands. Awarded Distinguished Unit citations for capturing Corregidor Fortress.

Sports, entertainment and travel opportunities are highly developed in this division's area. Luxurious hotels, theaters, swimming pools, tennis clubs, golf courses and ball parks provide more choice of pastime than is enjoyed by the average civilian at home.

High overseas pay (20% above domestic base pay), excellent medical and dental care, good food and lodging and a generous retirement plan make this opportunity too good to miss.

Young men who can meet prescribed standards, and who enlist for 3 years, are entitled to designate the 24th "Victory Division" at time of enlisment. Initial training given before departure from U. S. Get full details at U. S. Army Recruiting Station, 111 Union St., Cumberland, Md.

FOR INTERESTING WORK IN JAPAN

ALL EXPENSES PAID AND $90 PER MONTH

Choice of jobs in more than 100 specialties in the U. S. 24th Infantry Division in Japan. Known as the "Victory Division," the 24th stands on a glorious combat record in New Guinea, Leyte, Mindoro and the Marinduque Islands. Awarded Distinguished Unit citations for capturing Corregidor Fortress.

Sports, entertainment and travel opportunities are highly developed in this division's area. Luxurious hotels, theaters, swimming pools, tennis clubs, golf courses and ball parks provide more choice of pastime than is enjoyed by the average civilian at home.

High overseas pay (20% above domestic base pay), excellent medical and dental care, good food and lodging and a generous retirement plan make this opportunity too good to miss.

Young men who can meet prescribed standards, and who enlist for 3 years, are entitled to designate the 24th "Victory Division" at time of enlistment. Initial training given before departure from U. S. Get full details at U. S. Army Recruiting Station, 111 Union St., Cumberland, Md.

Grace M. Weaver vs. William C. Weaver. No. 19780 Equity in the Circuit Court for Allegany County.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a Decree divorcing the Plaintiff from the Defendant A VINCULO MATRIMONII. The Bill states that on November 3, 1934, the parties were married and lived together until May 11, 1945 when the Defendant abandoned the Plaintiff, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly down to the present time and is for more than eighteen (18) months, is deliberate and final, and the separation is beyond hope of reconciliation; that three (3) children were born of this marriage, to-wit; William L. Weaver, aged 10 years, Robert A. Weaver, aged 7 years and Janet Lee Weaver, aged 5 years and are in the custody of the Plaintiff, and she desires that the custody of same be decreed to her. That the Plaintiff has been a resident of Allegany County, Maryland, all of her life, the Defendant is a resident of Baltimore City and has kept out of the way or secreted himself to avoid service of the subpoena issued in this cause; that the Defendant to decreed to pay the costs of this proceeding and support of the infants mentioned.

IT IS, Therefore, this 10th day of January, 1947, ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County that the Plaintiff, by causing this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for 4 successive weeks before the 12th day of February, 1947, giving notice to the Defendant of the object and substance of this Bill and warning him to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the 28th day of February, 1947 to show cause, if any he has, why a Decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

PUBLIC SALE

Valuable asbestos shingle residence dwelling located at 721 Greene Street, Cumberland, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of the authority granted the undersigned by the last will and testament of Catherine Kaefer, probated May 7, 1946, which is recorded in Liber V, Folio 209 of the Wills Records of Allegany County, Maryland, the undersigned will offer at public sale, to the highest bidder.

AT 10 A. M. ON SATURDAY
FEBRUARY 15, 1947

Alongside the Second National Bank, situated at the corner of Baltimore and Liberty Streets, Cumberland, Maryland, the following described piece or parcel of land known at 721 Greene Street, namely:

All that certain lot or parcel of ground lying on the northerly side of Greene Street, in the City of Cumberland, Allegany County, Maryland, it being a part of the same land which was conveyed by David P. Miller et ux to DeWarren H. Reynolds, by deed dated October 30, 1894, which is recorded in Liber No. 76, Folio 213, one of the Land Records of Allegany County, Maryland, which said parcel is more particularly described as follows, to wit:

BEGINNING for the same at a stake standing on the northerly side of Greene Street, said beginning being also the beginning of said deed from David P. Miller et ux to the said DeWarren H. Reynolds, and running then with the first line of said deed North 10 degrees East 120 feet to a stake, then South 48 degrees West 144 feet to a stake, then South 21 degrees East 76 feet to the northerly side of said Greene Street, and then with said Street North 52¾ degrees East 76 feet to the place of beginning, according to a survey and description thereof made by Preston E. Miller, Surveyor, on November 12, 1903.

Being the same property which was conveyed to M. Catherine Keifer by deed of Frederick Laing et ux dated November 13, 1903, which is recorded in Liber 99, Folio 336, one of the Land Records of Allegany County, Maryland, excepting, however, therefrom a small parcel which was conveyed by M. Catherine Keifer to Catherine A. Will by deed dated November 2, 1925, which is recorded in Liber 153, Folio 599, one of the Land Records of Allegany County, Maryland.

Said piece or parcel of land is improved by a substantial ASBESTOS SHINGLE RESIDENCE DWELLING KNOWN AS NO. 721 GREENE STREET, CONTAINING FIVE ROOMS, TOILET, FRONT PORCH, CELLAR AND COMPOSITION ROOF, ALL OF WHICH IS IN A GOOD STATE OF REPAIR.

The undersigned reserves the right to reject any and all bidders.

Terms of Sale: One-third cash on the day of sale, and the balance within ten days thereafter on delivery of a good and sufficient deed for said property.

THE SECOND NATIONAL BANK OF CUMBERLAND, TRUSTEE UNDER THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF CATHERINE KAEFER, DECEASED.

Hit Parade Will Change Format Starting Tonight

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Jan. 25—Hit Parade of CBS is changing its format somewhat starting with Saturday night's CBS at 9. Instead of the regular singing of Joan Edwards, it will have guests, Dinah Shore to be on hand for four weeks. Andy Russell continues as vocalist as does Mark Warnow as conductor.

John Foster Dulles, scheduled for a CBS talk at 3:45, is to have as his theme: "American Leadership In Peace." He is alternate U. S. delegate to the UN General assembly. Other talks: Maj. Gen. P. B. Fleming and others at Women's Patriotic conference on National Defense, ABC at 10 a. m.; Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt guest of The Baxters on NBC at 2:30 p. m. talking about human rights.

MBS says hereafter Kom's a Krackin's at 11 will be half-hour instead of an hour. . .An MBS special at 1:30 a. m. is to be a description of the departure from Port Arthur, Tex., of another unit of the Byrd antarctic expedition.

Opera on the Metropolitan stage as broadcast by ABC at 2 p. m. is to be Wagner's "Lohengrin." . . . The Baltimore symphony, directed by Reginald Stewart, is to play Orchestras of the Nation for NBC at 3 . . . Allan Jones of the Screen and Sinatra of the orchestra are to be guests of the Los Angeles Symphonic band over MBS at 4 . . . Again Eugene Ormandy conducts the Philadelphia orchestra at 5 on CBS . . . When the Chicago Theater of MBS at 10 puts on Victor Herbert's "Sweethearts" Virginia Parker and Morton Bowe will be at the microphone.

Grace M. Weaver vs. William C. Weaver. No. 19780 Equity in the Circuit Court for Allegany County.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a Decree divorcing the Plaintiff from the Defendant A VINCULO MATRIMONII. The Bill states that on November 3, 1934, the parties were married and lived together until May 11, 1945 when the Defendant abandoned the Plaintiff, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly down to the present time and is for more than eighteen (18) months, is deliberate and final, and the separation is beyond hope of reconciliation; that three (3) children were born of this marriage, to-wit; William L. Weaver, aged 10 years, Robert A. Weaver, aged 7 years and Janet Lee Weaver, aged 5 years and are in the custody of the Plaintiff, and she desires that the custody of same be decreed to her. That the Plaintiff has been a resident of Allegany County, Maryland, all of her life, the Defendant is a resident of Baltimore City and has kept out of the way or secreted himself to avoid service of the subpoena issued in this cause; that the Defendant to decreed to pay the costs of this proceeding and support of the infants mentioned.

IT IS, Therefore, this 10th day of January, 1947, ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County that the Plaintiff, by causing this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for 4 successive weeks before the 12th day of February, 1947, giving notice to the Defendant of the object and substance of this Bill and warning him to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the 28th day of February, 1947 to show cause, if any he has, why a Decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

Hit Parade Will Change Format Starting Tonight

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Jan. 25—Hit Parade of CBS is changing its format somewhat starting with Saturday night's CBS at 9. Instead of the regular singing of Joan Edwards, it will have guests, Dinah Shore to be on hand for four weeks. Andy Russell continues as vocalist as does Mark Warnow as conductor.

John Foster Dulles, scheduled for a CBS talk at 3:45, is to have as his theme: "American Leadership In Peace." He is alternate U. S. delegate to the UN General assembly. Other talks: Maj. Gen. P. B. Fleming and others at Women's Patriotic conference on National Defense, ABC at 10 a. m.; Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt guest of The Baxters on NBC at 2:30 p. m. talking about human rights.

MBS says hereafter Kom's a Krackin's at 11 will be half-hour instead of an hour. . .An MBS special at 1:30 a. m. is to be a description of the departure from Port Arthur, Tex., of another unit of the Byrd antarctic expedition.

Opera on the Metropolitan stage as broadcast by ABC at 2 p. m. is to be Wagner's "Lohengrin." . . . The Baltimore symphony, directed by Reginald Stewart, is to play Orchestras of the Nation for NBC at 3 . . . Allan Jones of the Screen and Sinatra of the orchestra are to be guests of the Los Angeles Symphonic band over MBS at 4 . . . Again Eugene Ormandy conducts the Philadelphia orchestra at 5 on CBS . . . When the Chicago Theater of MBS at 10 puts on Victor Herbert's "Sweethearts" Virginia Parker and Morton Bowe will be at the microphone.

Three Children, Hungry And Cold, Found Alone In An Apartment Here

Police Find Father In Nearby Beer Hall

By JOHN P. MOODY
News Staff Writer

In a filthy, bug-infested one room apartment, where it was too cold to sleep on the hardwood benches which they are forced to use for beds, two members of the Cumberland Police Department last night found three small children crying because they were hungry and cold.

"It's nothing new," Mrs. Ruthie M. Ritz, next apartment neighbor, told Lt. Detective R. Emmet Flynn, "they are alone most of the time, while the father is out drinking. They're good children, but just too small to care for themselves."

The children, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Collins, are Carolyn, 12, Edward Raymond, 10, and Roy 3, were dumbfounded when Lt. Flynn and Officer James W. Brown walked into the second floor apartment at 201 Thomas Street, at 8:45 p. m. and wanted to know why they were alone.

Quick to sense that her father was in trouble, Carolyn, became spokesman for the trio while Edward Raymond looked on and the baby lay on the bench. "Yes, sir, we had dinner," she answered to Lt. Flynn's question. "Yes, sir, we had breakfast."

Noodles, Noodles, Noodles

For dinner the three children had "noodles." For breakfast the three children had "noodles." Last night they had "noodles." "Yes sir, I'm hungry," Carolyn replied to the last question and she sobbed a bit.

"Mother left Sunday after Daddy hit her and knocked her off a chair," the little girl with the big bright eyes, (but oh, such a dirty face) informed Lt. Flynn. "Mother said she was going away and not coming back."

Lt. Flynn and Officer Brown had their own interpretation of the affair. They were called after neighbors in the downstairs apartment heard Carolyn trying to cut wood on the (black with dirt), bare floor. She was trying to cut wood to start a fire, the lieutenant said, and Mrs. Ritz, who has tried to look after them, said she was afraid the child would set the building on fire if she succeeded in getting the big blocks of wood chopped up.

Father In Beer Hall

Police lost no time in locating the father. "He was at a nearby beer hall," the policemen declared. Officer Brown went for food for the children, who actually hadn't had anything to eat yesterday, but some dry noodles, while Lt. Flynn went after the father. The mother couldn't be located.

"A box of corn flakes, two quarts of milk (the new kind, homogenized), and a dozen apple pies, for some hungry kids," Officer Brown told the groceryman. "I guess they should have some sugar too, but I don't have any stamps." You should see the conditions these kids are living under," he told the groceryman.

"You don't need any stamps," Roy L. Merritt, the groceryman declared as he pushed a pound of sugar on the counter, "that will be my contribution."

Edward Raymond looked at the policemen when they brought his father in and then he looked at the food. "Look what they brought us, Carolyn," he muttered as he picked up the corn flakes and eyed the pies.

Frank McMullen, a local contractor, informed police that Collins, who had been out of work for months, started to work for him in December mixing plaster for some interior house work that he was doing. According to McMullen, the father worked one week, drew his pay and then didn't show up for another week.

He came back the day before New Year's eve and wanted his job, McMullen declared, but worked only one more day. After he was through work he borrowed some money and that was the last I saw of him, he told Lt. Flynn.

McMullen declared that Collins

Louis Bromfield, Noted Author, Will Speak Here

Plans To Visit City On May 6

Louis Bromfield, renowned author, newspaper man, and more recently an authority on agriculture, has accepted an invitation to speak in Cumberland in May, John D. Liebau, chairman of the agriculture committee of the Chamber of Commerce, said yesterday.

A tentative date of May 6 has been set for the author of many best selling novels, as well as "Pleasant Valley" a book on farming and soil conservation, to come here, but plans for the type of presentation have not been completed, Liebau declared.

Native of Ohio

A native of Mansfield, Ohio, Bromfieeld was born the son of a farmer, and attended Cornell University's Agricultural College for one year, planning to follow his father's occupation.

After a year of college, however, the youthful Bromfield abandoned his plans and transferred to Columbia University where he attended until World War I broke out. He served as an ambulance driver and after the war returned to this country to accept a position with City News Association in New York.

Later he worked for the Associated Press, served as a correspondent for the "Musical American," and was one of the original staff members of Time Magazine. He also became well known as a theater, music and art critic while writing for the "Bookman."

In 1926, Bromfield won the Pulitzer prize for a novel "Early Autumn." Between books, many of which have been widely read in foreign countries as well as the United States, Bromfield wrote several plays, and saw many of his novels made into motion pictures.

Returned To Farming

In 1933 he again turned to farming, and bought 1,000 acres of farm land near his native home which he named Malabor Farm. After a few years of directing the activities of his farm, he wrote "Pleasant Valley," describing life on the farm, and presenting modern methods of working the land.

Today the author is as well known for his work in modern agriculture as he is for his books. In recent years he has conducted many tours throughout the United States speaking on up-to-date farming, and trying to interest urban dwellers in agricultural life.

The local Chamber of Commerce has been trying for the past two years to secure Bromfield as a speaker for the forum, but each attempt found the author with a previous engagement. He continued corresponding with local persons, however, and recently wrote that he would appear here in May.

Liebau, and his committee met yesterday afternoon to discuss initial plans for the lecture, but nothing definite has been arranged for the type of meeting to be held, he declared. A dinner-meeting, an open meeting and other ways of presenting Bromfield are being considered.

However, the Chamber of Commerce declared Bromfield's appearance here will not be a part of a tour, but rather one of the author-turned-farmer's many efforts to interest city people in his belief that agriculture is the keystone of the country's economic structure, and that the wealth, welfare, prosperity and even the future freedom of the nation is based on soil.

SPEAKER — George Woodson, Lansing, Mich., will be guest speaker at a meeting of Townsend Clubs of this area, tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. in the Queen City Hotel ballroom, it was announced last night by Mrs. Mary Ethel Rose, state representative of Maryland and West Virginia. Woodson is one of the Townsend Plan registered lobbyists in Washington. His subject will be "Social Security and Mass Production In This Machine Age." He has been lecturing for the organization for the past 10 years, and following his talk an open forum and question period will be held. Invitations are extended to all members of organized labor groups and other interested individuals, Mrs. Rose said.

Food Prices Here Continue To Show Downward Trend

Garlitz said there has been a 10 per cent drop since November and that the trend is "definitely down," with the decline since the Christmas holidays more pronounced than usual.

Garlitz cited a number of examples to illustrate the downward trend. He said that butter, which was once in the near $1 per pound class, is down to the 69-cent level. A 46-ounce can of orange juice, which sold for 57 cents not so long ago, is down to between 17 and 25 cents. Fifty-nine cent oranges at Christmas are down to 29 cents.

The price of cured meats is reported "steady" but under previous highs with bacon in the 50-72 class, down from 89 cents. Hams are down to 60 cents and 79 cents. Chickens are steady with a range from 50 to 65 cents, depending on type and quality.

The top grades of beef are reported down some but the lower grades remain steady. Lard is selling for 30 cents, just half the price of a few months ago.

Oleo remained around 42 cents with no prospects of a downward trend. Coffee has advanced four times in four months, but nearly all canned fruits and vegetables are reported dropping. Fresh vegetables are reported 25 to 30 per cent under a year ago.

The Garlitz claim that food costs have dropped is borne out by Chamber of Commerce records. The chamber makes a weekly check on 15 selected items. This market basket reached its all-time high point Friday, December 28, with a figure of $7.75. Last week it stood at $6.92, a drop of almost 11 per cent.

Police Release Men After Questioning

State police last night released two men arrested earlier in the afternoon, when they were reported to answer the description of a pair wanted in Hagerstown for an armed robbery Thursday night.

Trooper M. G. Rotruck, who aided in the apprehension of the men at 1:45 o'clock on the west side of Sideling Hill Mountain, said the men were able to give an accurate description of their movements from the time they left Washington where they are employed.

Sgt. W. E. O'Hara and Trooper William F. Baker, along with Rotruck went to Sideling Mountain after the men were reported hitchhiking along the stretch of road, and described as answering the description of the men wanted in Hagerstown.

The two men, according to Trooper Rotruck, were en route to Clarksburg, W. Va., from Washington. Both are veterans of World War II, the trooper said, and were permitted to continue their journey after being taken to Barracks, LaVale for questioning.

Juvenile Council To Be Instituted

A boys' juvenile council will be instituted, under the sponsorhip of the Queen City Council No. 49, Junior Order of Mechanics, January 30. The ceremony will be held at the Junior Order hall, beginning at 7:30.

The program will include vocal solos and instrumental duets, an invocation by Rev. J. F. Zimmerman and closing prayer by Rev. James Richards. There will be talks by representatives from the national council and presentation of the charter.

Purchase Of Radio Stations By Paper Receives Approval

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP)—Acquisition of radio stations WPAR, Parkersburg, W. Va., and WBLK, Clarksburg, W. Va., by the News Publishing Co. was approved by the Communications Commission today.

The approval was given with the reservation that the company, publisher of a number of West Virginia newspapers, surrender its construction permit for Station WOPK, Marietta, Ohio.

The surrender is necessary because of a Commission rule that one company may not own more than one standard station in the same service area.

The amounts involved in the acquisitions were listed by the commission as $307,500 for WPAR and $177,500 for WBLK.

Bill Is Introduced To Increase Salaries Of Deputy Sheriffs

Yearly Raise Of $240 Is Sought

Provisions of HB-166, introduced at Annapolis Wednesday by the Allegany County delegation, which would repeal and re-enact, with amendments, Section 623 of Article 1 of the Code of Public Laws of Maryland pertaining to Allegany County, were received here yesterday.

The bill provides that the County Commissioners of Allegany County shall allow the Sheriff of the county $9,780 for four deputies, to be appointed by the Sheriff, at an annual salary of $2,400 each. Under the present law the Sheriff is allowed $8,640 annually and the salary of deputies is $2,160 per year.

Under the terms of the bill the Sheriff shall designate one deputy to attend the magistrate for juvenile causes and execute his processes, orders and directions, and, when not so engaged, to perform such other duties as may be required of him by the Sheriff.

The bill further provides that one of the deputies shall be known as the chief deputy who shall, in addition to his regular and usual duties as a deputy sheriff, be charged with the duty of keeping accurate books and records of the sheriff's office and performing all clerical duties incident thereto. The chief deputy shall receive in addition to his regular salary as deputy sheriff, the sum of $180 per year, as extra compensation for his additional duties as chief deputy.

The present law provides that one of the deputies shall in addition to his regular and usual duties as a deputy, be charged with the duty of keeping accurate books and records of the sheriff's office and performing all clerical duties incident thereto, but does not provide any additional salary for that work.

In the event the bill is enacted into law and signed by the governor it will become effective June 1, 1947.

Bar Association Pays Tribute To Four Lawyers

Sloan, Doub, Watson, McCleave Eulogized

"All through the history of this country, members of the legal profession have played an important part in the affairs of the nation, and have helped make and interpret the laws of the land," W. Earle Cobey, president of Allegany County Bar Association said yesterday, as he opened the Memorial Service paying tribute to four deceased members.

"Whenever and wherever the country is attacked, from within or without, the legal profession has always led the way in preserving our way of life," Cobey continued. "Even today, in these perilous times, men of this profession still lead the attack in the preservation of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness as we know and understand them. We pause today, and it is fitting that we assemble before this Court, to pay tribute to those members of this Association who have ended their time on this stage . . . " Cobey continued.

Resolutions were read in memory of Charles Grant Watson, David W. Sloan, Jr., Robert Hugh McCleave and Judge Albert A. Doub, Sr. The part each played in the affairs of the community and in their chosen profession were outlined and the resolutions were made a part of the minutes of Allegany County Circuit Court, for preservation and as a tribute to the deceased.

Earl E. Manges was the first speaker. He read a resolution in honor of Watson, who died November 6, 1945. He was a member of the bar about 50 years. The resolution was signed by Manges and Morris Baron.

Tribute To Dave Sloan

William M. Somerville spoke at length on the career and activities of David W. Sloan, Jr. Somerville said "he was the first man from this county to enlist for service in World War I," and recalled that he served with the American-French Ambulance Corps in France before the United States entered the conflict. When this country declared war, Sloan returned and enlisted in the Sixth Infantry Division.

Somerville declared, "Dave Sloan was gassed in the war, and it took him 25 years to die. He suffered from this condition all his life, and despite his ever-failing physical condition, took an active interest in his work, in the community and particularly in the affairs of veterans." The speaker reminded his listeners that "he not only gave his own life to his country, but gave the life of his son, David W. Sloan, III, who was killed in World War II."

Sloan died March 13, 1946. He was admitted to practice at the bar here in April 1922 after attending Princeton. The resolution for Sloan was signed by Somerville, C. William Gilchrist and William R. Carscaden.

Gunter Lauds McCleave

William A. Gunter, in eulogizing Robert Hugh McCleave, who died May 8, 1946, declared, "when Mr. McCleave died, the almanac of Allegany county went out the window." Gunter was referring to McCleave's remarkable memory for dates, incidents and details in the life of the community and county. The speaker described him as "the best

Kelly Worker Held For Further Quiz In Alleged Theft

Elmer R. Dixon, 42, 408 Central avenue, a Kelly-Springfield Tire Company worker, was ordered held for "further investigation" after being questioned in the office of the State's Attorney yesterday in connection with an alleged theft in a Front Street tavern.

Dixon was accused by Charles Swearman, Mt. Savage miner, of taking a wallet containing $80 from his pocket while the latter was asleep Wednesday afternoon in the Mayflower Tavern, police said. Dixon denied the accusation, but was held for investigation.

Workers Support Character

T. J. Boyle, county investigator, who questioned Dixon, said a group of employes, with whom Dixon works, telephoned yesterday, and asserted they have known the accused man for many years and that he has never been known to take anything that does not belong to him.

Police said a bartender declared he saw Dixon going through Swearman's pockets, but yesterday Boyle asserted the bartender modified his statement to the fact that he saw Dixon reaching under the stool on which Swearman was sitting.

Both men were held in the City jail, Dixon for investigation and Swearman as a witness, but Swearman was released yesterday, and Dixon was trnsferred to the County Jail.

A woman, docketed as Ketty Yates, Maryland hotel, is also being held by police as a witness in the case after being arrested Tuesday afternoon, but police said she was unable to give any new evidence.

Transferred To County Jail

Another City Jail prisoner, Tony Mazooka, Baltimore, was also transferred to the county jail yesterday. Police said he spent a night in the city jail, but gave conflicting names and was ordered held for investigation. Later it was learned he was without funds and had no place to go, police asserted, and explained he will be charged with vagrancy.

John Grady, 30, 145 North Centre street, a veteran of World War II, who was overcome with gas fumes at his residence a week ago, was also taken to the county jail. Authorities said plans are being made to have him taken to a Veteran's Hospital.

Is Visiting Here

Mayor Arthur J. Law of Pontiac, Mich., a son of Thomas J. Law, a former Cumberlander, who has been attending the conference of Mayors in Washington is here visiting his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Heller, 115 Tilghman Street, and other relatives. Mayor Law, who is only 41 years of age, is serving his second term as mayor of Pontiac.

Court Sentences Six Prisoners One To Five Years

Robbery Charges Get Heavy Terms

Six prisoners were taken before Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson yesterday afternoon and sentenced to terms from one to five years for crimes of which they were convicted or admitted, during the January term.

Albert Schimminger was sentenced to serve five years in the Maryland penitentiary, for robbing the Norris Grocery on Pennsylvania Avenue here of $250, a woman customer of $57 and Howard Kerns Grocery of $20 in armed hold-ups. Authorities said he faces a long term in West Virginia for violation of parole, after he serves his term in this state.

His accomplice, Robert Logue, who participated in the same holdups, was acquitted when a jury found him insane. The Court yesterday committed him to the Spring Grove State Hospital, as provided in the code, "until such time as released by proper authorities."

Thos. H. Morgan, 23, convicted of robbing the L. Bernstein Furniture Store of $2,921.32 of watches, jewelry, etc., was sentenced to two years in the Maryland House of Correction. Only a small portion of the jewelry has been recovered, authorities said.

Roscoe Dewey Leslie, who was charged with burglarizing the store of Elmer Beck, Virginia Avenue on Christmas Day, was sentenced to one year in the House of Correction. Leslie, through his attorney Harold Naughtn told the Court he was charged with taking $1,200 but can account for only about $250. He said he was drinking at the time and doesn't know what happened to all the money.

Richard Wilson, 19, who appeared in Court in his Army uniform, was sentenced to the Maryland Reformatory for Males for one year. He was charged with passing bad checks here and the Court questioned him at length about his activities.

The young man said he is still in the Army and when asked how many bad checks he passed in North Carolina, he said he didn't know. Judge Henderson admonished him to profit by this experience and not follow a life of crime. He declared "you are starting out very young, and if you will look at some of the other prisoners and talk to them, I'm sure they will tell you that a man with a record has a tough time. The Court hopes you watch your step after you serve your time."

Festus Albert Jenkins was given a year in the House of Correction on a charge of stealing an evening dress worth $42 from a local cleaning establishment. Jenkins, a former Memorial Hospital employe has a past record, authorities said. He tried his own case in Court, refusing an offer of the Court to appoint an attorney for him, saying "I just want to tell the truth." Before sentence was passed, he asked for the mercy of the Court.

Court adjourned after dismissing the jury until 9:15 a. m. Monday when a number of other cases are to be completed.

County Board Views Change In Auto Taxes

A legislative proposal to set a flat fee for motor vehicle taxes, could result in a loss of $26,000 in 1947 county taxes unless the Board of County Commissioners takes action to avert it, county officials said yesterday.

Commissioners are reported considering plans to take action to prevent the loss if the Legislature passes a proposed law to tax cars $5 a year in the state and $10 a year in Baltimore.

Prior to 1946 when the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles took over automobile tax collections and the tax for autos was added to the car license tax, the tax schedules for cars were sent out by the county as a part of the personal property tax levied.

Owners "Get Break"

Due to the fact that the Allegany county levy is not set until April, the automobile tax cards were perforated for 1946 providing 1945 taxes on cars were paid up. This was done with the commissioner of motor vehicles concurring, according to Assistant Tax Collector Alban C. Thompson.

Due to the fact that the county levy is made up in April and the car tax year is from January 1 to December 31, this meant that persons who purchased cars did not pay taxes for any part of the first year of ownership—whether the car was purchased in February or in December.

The prospect of a new flat fee law that would go into effect in 1948 if passed, could mean that the county would sustain a tax loss unless the collections were up to date prior to that time.

Wilson Gives Views

While previous boards have always interpreted the present law as meaning that car taxes could not be collected until the April levy is set for any given year, Board Attorney Lewis M. Wilson is inclined to believe that all taxes should be collected as of January 1, which would mean that 1947 taxes are due now based on the 1946 rate, an office attache said today.

While no action has been taken as yet in regard to the proposed collection of these taxes on an estimated 6,000 cars that have changed hands, it was reported that the board will probably consider the proposal soon and fully intends to avert any loss to the county in the event the new law is passed.

Members of the assessing staff are now engaged in sorting tax cards with a view to having the 1947 taxes collected based on the 1946 rate. If the proposal is approved it would mean additional work in the office of the tax collector

Man Is Injured When Jack Slips

B. And O. Workers Treated In Hospital

George Drew, 34, Locust Grove, was treated in Allegany Hospital last night for severe lacerations of the forefinger and palm of the left hand. He told attaches he was injured when a jack slipped as he was repairing an automobile. Attaches said nine stitches were used in closing the cuts.

Paul Shook, 21, 15 Laing avenue was treated in Memorial Hospital yesterday morning for an injury to the third finger of the right hand. The B. and O. worker told attaches his finger was mashed between a wrench and a bench while at work.

Both William Webster, 57, 945 Greene street, and John Cupler, 13-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Cupler, II, Park Heights, had splinters removed from under their fingernails yesterday at Allegany Hospital.

Hugh Hopwood, 19, 456 North Centre street, was treated in Memorial last night for an injury to one of the toes of his left foot. He told attaches a hand truck ran over his foot at the Hiser Supply Company.

Jury Upholds Juvenile Court In Appeal Case

A jury returned a verdict of guilty yesterday afternoon on a charge of non-support in the case of Richard E. Boyden, an official of Local 1874 Textile Workers of America, appealed from Juvenile Court.

Boyden had been found guilty of non-support in Juvenile Court after his wife Mrs. Margaret Boyden had brought the charge against him. Juvenile Court ordered him to pay his wife $15 per week.

Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson presided when the appeal was called for trial yesterday. After the case was heard, Judge Henderson told the jury to return a verdict of guilty or not guilty and if the verdict was guilty the Court would fix the amount of payments to the wife. After deliberating the case about a half-hour, the verdict upheld the decision of the lower court with a verdict of guilty. The Court ruled that Boyden must pay his wife $20 per week temporarily, due to her present physical condition.

Mrs. Boyden testified that she operates a grocery store and beer parlor in Homewood Addition near the Mt. Savage road, and did not make more than $20 a week from the enterprise. Boyden, a disabled veteran, said that she cleared at least $100 a week at the place.

William L. Wilson, Jr. counsel for Boyden quizzed Mrs. Boyden regarding the profits from "Pinball" machines in the place and she maintained that this profit is included in the $20 a week she says the place earns.

Boyden testified that he was "locked out" of the beer parlor and living quarters last September, and he denied her charge that "he beat me up." He admitted that he "shook her" because of her "nagging" but denied ever striking her.

Cite "Take Home Pay"

Assistant State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher, after some figuring, declared that Boyden earned more than $50 a week at the Celanese plant, but Judge Henderson interrupted to cite that "take home pay" was the only matter to be presented, and that deductions are made from all wage checks for income tax, insurance, Social Security and other items.

The State today dismissed an appeal by Daniel Thomas Leatherman, fined $50 by Magistrate Roy S. Bowman at Cresaptown on a charge of failing to stop after an accident on the McMullen Highway, one mile south of Cresaptown. He was arrested by State Trooper William McElfish.

The State also withdrew the appeal of Hollie H. Wolford, arrested in the same case and find the same amount by Magistrate Bowman. Edward J. Ryan was counsel for the two drivers.

Oren Welsh, who took an appeal from Juvenile Court, where he was convicted of contributing to the delinquency of his minor son, entered a plea of guilty and was paroled for two years. He was defended by Estel C. Kelley.

Chamber Of Commerce Teams Seek New Members In Campaign Here

Plans Are Announced For Extensive Drive

The Public Relations Committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce yesterday inaugurated a two-fold campaign, designed to secure new members, and to acquaint the general public with the purposes and activities of the organization.

Plans for the campaign, the first period of which will run until April 30, were announced by O. J. Hale, chairman of the Public Relations Committee, at a meeting in Central YMCA, of the two teams of six members each, chosen to solicit new members.

Members of the teams will meet each Friday at 12 p. m. in the Y cafeteria at which time they will report on their work of the previous week.

Names chosen for the teams are the "Warps" and "Woofs" with the teams made up as follows:

Harold W. Smith, secretary of the chamber, pointed out that the organization is always working for the best interest of the entire community, and that is continually trying to secure new industries to bring to the Cumberland area. He said the membership of the organization at the present time is approximately 425. Smith told team members that Martinsburg, W. Va., recently added 200 new members and that a campaign in Winchester, Va., resulted in securing 150 new members.

A goal of 50 members has been set by the teams for the first period of the campaign.

Committee Is Named To Study Proposed Sanitary Districts In County

Proposed Bills Outlined By Commissioners

Wilkinson Explains New Legislation

Several important measures discussed with the Allegany county delegation to Annapolis by members of the Board of County Commissioners were outlined yesterday by Charles N. Wilkinson, Jr., president of the board.

Among the measures is a bill designed to tighten regulations on distribution of milk in this county. Wilkinson said the bill would protect local milk distributors by requiring those from other states who sell milk here to comply with all Maryland Health Department regulations regarding pasteurization and other safeguards.

Make Bid Mandatory

Another proposed measure would make it mandatory for the commissioners to advertise for bids on all purchases exceeding $500 and all other county work above that amount.

The county legislators were also asked to present a bill under which a $100,000 bond issue authorized some years ago for the erection of a County Juvenile Detention Home be used instead for building a new County Home and Infirmary. The January grand jury recommended extensive improvements or enlargement of the present buildings at the northern outskirts of Cumberland.

The fourth proposed measure under discussion, it was learned, would abolish the position of assistant state's attorney, created about six years ago and held since that time by Paul M. Fletcher, chairman of the Republican State Central Comittee.

Would Raise Salary

The bill would increase the annual salary of the state's attorney from $4,000 to $6,000 and would bar him from taking civil cases. The assistant state's attorney is paid $3,000 a year. Both officials are now permitted to engage in the practice of law, outside of criminal cases. It was pointed out that the state's attorney, with his salary increased, could retain an assistant whenever he felt the need of such aid in criminal trials.

It was explained yesterday the state-wide measure under consideration in Annapolis, which would abolish the Orphans Courts in Maryland, is the result of the Bond court reorganization report, submitted several years ago, and was not in the Sherbow Report, as stated last week. The act, known as House Bill 56, is opposed by the county board and other officials here.

The board also received a request from Charles L. Kopp, county superintendent of schools, to oppose a clause in Senate Bill 64, Page 3, Sectin 6, which would amend the State Constitution giving the Legislature power to cut the governor's budget in regard to funds allocated to public schools in the state. The board agreed to his request.

Army Wants More Room

Joseph C. Goldsborough, real estate agent for the Army Engineers, conferred with the board regarding his request to rent more rooms in the Union Street County Office Building. The Army recruiting service now has two rooms and requires more space. The matter was referred to County Engineer Albert S. Paye for investigation.

A petition signed by more than 100 citizens was presented to the board, asking that the section of road on Bear Hill, between Oldtown and Flintstone, be given a permanent surface. The road is heavily traveled by persons working in local plants, and was graded as a WPA project some years ago. The engineer was instructed to investigate.

Members of the Flintstone Church of the Brethren asked permission to widen Flintstone Creek near the town. It was reported the project would be in connection with summer recreation. The engineer will investigate the request.

County Delegation To Back Proposal

J. Milton Dick, former minority floor leader of the House of Delegates, was named temporary chairman last night of a representative county committee to study the proposed formation of a sanitary district in Allegany County.

Dick announced after the meeting that the committee will hold its first session Tuesday, February 4, at 7:30 p. m. at Frostburg City Hall.

The committee includes Harry Simpson, William Douglas, George A. Dressman and Miles G. Thompson, LaVale; Dr. W. E. Moseley and Rev. Lee H. Richcreek, Mt. Savage; Mayor Verl A. Ash, Midland; Mayor J. Milton McIntyre, Westernport; Mayor Marshall C. Skidmore and William Jenkins, Frostburg; French VanMeter, H. C. Heineman, and Chelsie Liller, Cresaptown; Mayor Fred Wiseman, Luke; Mrs. Elsie Roland, Flintstone, and Edward Shafer and John Cook, Potomac Park.

Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer, presided and welcomed the 60 persons attending the meeting, held in the City Hall auditorium, in the absence of Mayor Thomas S. Post. The mayor was in his office yesterday after undergoing a minor operation for nose trouble, but did not feel able to attend last night's meeting.

Hall Explains Purposes

George L. Hall, chief engineer of the State Department of Health, outlined the purpose of the meeting, called to discuss the possible enactment of legislation to authorize the county commissioners to set up sanitary districts in incorporated or unincorporated communities outside of Cumberland where there is need for improvement in water supplies and sewage disposal.

Hall explained that a sanitary district is a non-profit making agency, distinct from any municipal, county or state government, established by an act of the legislature for the purpose of permitting the construction, operation and administration of sanitary facilities, such as water supply and sewerage systems and the collection or disposal of garbage or trash, within its geographical limits.

A commission of three men is appointed to carry on the affairs of the district, and reasonable compensation for their services provided in the enabling bill setting up the district. Hall explained that the enabling bill would merely set up the necessary legislative machinery so that sanitary projects could be undertaken as the residents of any county community deemed necessary, without having to wait for the next session of the legislature.

Sub-districts may also be designated in the bill establishing the county sanitary district so that expansion will be possible without additional legislation.

Residents in any county area can petition the three-man commission to form a sanitary district in their community. Upon approval by the county commissioners, the commission then prepares plans and specifications to estimate preliminary expenses.

If any residents object to the formation of a district in that area, they may petition the commission, and if they are dissatisfied with the commission's ruling, they may appeal to the county, commissioners. The decision of the latter group is final.

Delegation Favors Bill

State Senator Robert B. Kimble, who called the meeting at the request of the Stae Deparment of Healh, said that the enabling bill would have to be submitted to the legislature by March 1 to be acted upon during the current session.

Five members of the Allegany county delegation, Lester Reed, Noel Speir Cook, John T. Fey, William H. Geppert and Charles See, expressed their interest in the proposal and said they will vote for the enabling bill authorizing the county commissioners to set up a sanitary district in the county if county residents so desire.

William H. Lemmert and C. N. Wilkinson represented the board of county commissioners.

Pointing out the need for a sanitary district, Paul C. Holland, chief engineer for the Public Service Commission, said that small, privately owned water companies have caused more complaints to the PSC than any other source. He explained that the cost of providing adequate water supplies is prohibitive for small companies, but that a sanitary district could operate on a larger basis.

Each speaker stressed the fact that public sentiment on the proposal must be expressed before further action can be taken.

Is Injured In Fall

Mrs. Nell P. Flick, 57, widow of Jacob Flick, 105 Valley street, was admitted to Allegany Hospital Thursday night for treatment of a fractured collarbone and bruises of the forehead suffered when she tripped and fell down several steps. Her condition is reported good.

Geraldine Peck, 22, 309 Central avenue, an employe of the Little Jewelry Company, was treated for a foot injury after she stepped on a nail.

DEATHS

RICHARD WILLISON, JR.

Richard Henry Willison, Jr., 65, former superintendent of the City Street department, died last night at 8 o'clock at his home, 209 Avirett avenue.

Mr. Willison, who had been in ill health for the past three years, retired about 8 years ago after 27 years of service with the city engineering corps.

He was a native of Hyndman, Pa., a son of the late Richard H. and Jenevie Kelso Willison. Mr. Willison was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Rowe Willison, he is survived by one son, Robert R. Willison, at home; a granddaughter, Roberta Joan; two sisters, Mrs. Edith M. Nicklin, this city, and Mrs. George B. Lynch, Bevard, N. C., and two brothers, Harry R., this city, and Edward B. Willison, Clarksburg, W. Va.

The body is at the George Funeral Home.

MRS. SHARON RITES

The funeral of Mrs. Nola C. Sharon, 38, wife of Edgar R. Sharon, 9 Offutt street, who died Tuesday, was conducted yesterday afternoon in Great Capon, W. Va. United Brethren Church.

Three Children, Hungry And Cold, Found Alone In An Apartment Here

Police Find Father In Nearby Beer Hall

News Staff Writer

In a filthy, bug-infested one room apartment, where it was too cold to sleep on the hardwood benches which they are forced to use for beds, two members of the Cumberland Police Department last night found three small children crying because they were hungry and cold.

"It's nothing new," Mrs. Ruthie M. Ritz, next apartment neighbor, told Lt. Detective R. Emmet Flynn, "they are alone most of the time, while the father is out drinking. They're good children, but just too small to care for themselves."

The children, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Collins, are Carolyn, 12, Edward Raymond, 10, and Roy 3, were dumbfounded when Lt. Flynn and Officer James W. Brown walked into the second floor apartment at 201 Thomas Street, at 6:45 p. m. and wanted to know why they were alone.

Quick to sense that her father was in trouble, Carolyn, became spokesman for the trio while Edward Raymond looked on and the baby lay on the bench. "Yes, sir, we had dinner," she answered to Lt. Flynn's question. "Yes, sir, we had breakfast."

Noodles, Noodles, Noodles

For dinner the three children had "noodles." For breakfast the three children had "noodles." Last night they had "noodles." "Yes sir, I'm hungry," Carolyn replied to the last question and she sobbed a bit.

"Mother left Sunday after Daddy hit her and knocked her off a chair," the little girl with the big bright eyes, (but oh, such a dirty face) informed Lt. Flynn. "Mother said she was going away and not coming back."

Lt. Flynn and Officer Brown had their own interpretation of the affair. They were called after neighbors in the downstairs apartment heard Carolyn trying to cut wood on the (black with dirt), bare floor. She was trying to cut wood to start a fire, the lieutenant said, and Mrs. Ritz, who has tried to look after them, said she was afraid the child would set the building on fire if she succeeded in getting the big blocks of wood chopped up.

Father In Beer Hall

Police lost no time in locating the father. "He was at a nearby beer hall," the policemen declared. Officer Brown went for food for the children, who actually hadn't had anything to eat yesterday, but some dry noodles, while Lt. Flynn went after the father. The mother couldn't be located.

"A box of corn flakes, two quarts of milk (the new kind, homogenized), and a dozen apple pies, for some hungry kids," Officer Brown told the groceryman. "I guess they should have some sugar too, but I don't have any stamps." You should see the conditions these kids are living under." he told the groceryman.

"You don't need any stamps," Roy L. Merritt, the groceryman declared as he pushed a pound of sugar on the counter, "that will be my contribution."

Edward Raymond looked at the policemen when they brought his father in and then he looked at the food. "Look what they brought us, Carolyn," he muttered as he picked up the corn flakes and eyed the pies.

Frank McMullen, a local contractor, informed police that Collins, who had been out of work for months, started to work for him in December mixing plaster for some interior house work that he was doing. According to McMullen, the father worked one week, drew his pay and then didn't show up for another week.

He came back the day before New Year's eve and wanted his job, McMullen declared, but worked only one more day. After he was through work he borrowed some money and that was the last I saw of him, he told Lt. Flynn.

McMullen declared that Collins

Purchase Of Radio Stations By Paper Receives Approval

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP)—Acquisition of radio stations WPAR, Parkersburg, W. Va., and WBLK, Clarksburg, W. Va., by the News Publishing Co. was approved by the Communications Commission today.

The approval was given with the reservation that the company, publisher of a number of West Virginia newspapers, surrender its construction permit for Station WOPK, Marietta, Ohio.

The surrender is necessary because of a Commission rule that one company may not own more than one standard station in the same service area.

The amounts involved in the acquisitions were listed by the commission as $307,500 for WPAR and $177,500 for WBLK.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiliam Chandlee, 407 Bedford Street, announce the birth of a daughter Friday morning in Memorial Hospital.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Brown, 313 Grand Avenue, Friday morning in Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ritchie, Spring Gap, announce the birth of a daughter Friday morning in Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Snyder, Jennings, announce the birth of a daughter in Memorial Hospital Friday night.

Louis Bromfield, Noted Author, Will Speak Here

Plans To Visit City On May 6

Louis Bromfield, renowned author, newspaper man, and more recently an authority on agriculture, has accepted an invitation to speak in Cumberland in May, John D. Liebau, chairman of the agriculture committee of the Chamber of Commerce, said yesterday.

A tentative date of May 6 has been set for the author of many best selling novels, as well as "Pleasant Valley" a book on farming and soil conservation, to come here, but plans for the type of presentation have not been completed, Liebau declared.

Native of Ohio

A native of Mansfield, Ohio, Bromfieeld was born the son of a farmer, and attended Cornell University's Agricultural College for one year, planning to follow his father's occupation.

After a year of college, however, the youthful Bromfield abandoned his plans and transferred to Columbia University where he attended until World War I broke out. He served as an ambulance driver and after the war returned to this country to accept a position with City News Association in New York.

Later he worked for the Associated Press, served as a correspondent for the "Musical American," and was one of the original staff members of Time Magazine. He also became well known as a theater, music and art critic while writing for the "Bookman."

In 1926, Bromfield won the Pulitzer prize for a novel "Early Autumn," Between books, many of which have been widely read in foreign countries as well as the United States, Bromfield wrote several plays, and saw many of his novels made into motion pictures.

Returned To Farming

In 1933 he again turned to farming, and bought 1,000 acres of farm land near his native home which he named Malabor Farm. After a few years of directing the activities of his farm, he wrote "Pleasant Valley," describing life on the farm, and presenting modern methods of working the land.

Today the author is as well known for his work in modern agriculture as he is for his books. In recent years he has conducted many tours throughout the United States speaking on up-to-date farming, and trying to interest urban dwellers in agricultural life.

The local Chamber of Commerce has been trying for the past two years to secure Bromfield as a speaker for the forum, but each attempt found the author with a previous engagement. He continued corresponding with local persons, however, and recently wrote that he would appear here in May.

Liebau, and his committee met yesterday afternoon to discuss initial plans for the lecture, but nothing definite has been arranged for the type of meeting to be held, he declared. A dinner-meeting, an open meeting and other ways of presenting Bromfield are being considered.

However, the Chamber of Commerce declared Bromfield's appearance here will not be a part of a tour, but rather one of the author-turned-farmer's many efforts to interest city people in his belief that agriculture is the keystone of the country's economic structure, and that the wealth, welfare, prosperity and even the future freedom of the nation is based on soil.

Juvenile Council To Be Instituted

A boys' juvenile council will be instituted, under the sponsorhip of the Queen City Council No. 49, Junior Order of Mechanics, January 30. The ceremony will be held at the Junior Order hall, beginning at 7:30.

The program will include vocal solos and instrumental duets, an invocation by Rev. J. P. Zimmerman and closing prayer by Rev. James Richards. There will be talks by representatives from the national council and presentation of the charter.

SPEAKER — George Woodson, Lansing, Mich., will be guest speaker at a meeting of Townsend Clubs of this area, tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. in the Queen City Hotel ballroom, it was announced last night by Mrs. Mary Ethel Rose, state representative of Maryland and West Virginia. Woodson is one of the Townsend Plan registered lobbyists in Washington. His subject will be "Social Security and Mass Production In This Machine Age." He has been lecturing for the organization for the past 10 years, and following his talk an open forum and question period will be held. Invitations are extended to all members of organized labor groups and other interested individuals, Mrs. Rose said.

Food Prices Here Continue To Show Downward Trend

Although most food prices are dropping in Cumberland, no stabilization is expected until next fall, according to George F. Garlitz, past president of the Independent Retail Food Dealers Association of Western Maryland.

Garlitz said there has been a 10 per cent drop since November and that the trend is "definitely down," with the decline since the Christmas holidays more pronounced than usual.

Garlitz cited a number of examples to illustrate the downward trend. He said that butter, which was once in the near $1 per pound class, is down to the 69-cent level. A 46-ounce can of orange juice, which sold for 57 cents not so long ago, is down to between 17 and 25 cents. Fifty-nine cent oranges at Christmas are down to 29 cents.

The price of cured meats is reported "steady" but under previous highs with bacon in the 50-72 class, down from 89 cents. Hams are down to 60 cents and 79 cents. Chickens are steady with a range from 50 to 65 cents, depending on type and quality.

The top grades of beef are reported down some but the lower grades remain steady. Lard is selling for 30 cents, just half the price of a few months ago.

Oleo remained around 42 cents with no prospects of a downward trend. Coffee has advanced four times in four months, but nearly all canned fruits and vegetables are reported dropping. Fresh vegetables are reported 25 to 30 per cent under a year ago.

The Garlits claim that food costs have dropped is borne out by Chamber of Commerce records. The chamber makes a weekly check on 15 selected items. This market basket reached its all-time high point Friday, December 28, with a figure of $7.75. Last week it stood at $6.92, a drop of almost 11 per cent.

Items in the basket include steak, bacon, lard, sugar, peas, corn, tomatoes, eggs, bread, cabbage, coffee, potatoes, oranges, butter, and milk.

Police Release Men After Questioning

State police last night released two men arrested earlier in the afternoon, when they were reported to answer the description of a pair wanted in Hagerstown for an armed robbery Thursday night.

Trooper M. G. Rotruck, who aided in the apprehension of the men at 1:45 o'clock on the west side of Sideling Hill Mountain, said the men were able to give an accurate description of their movements from the time they left Washington where they are employed.

Sgt. W. E. O'Hara and Trooper William F. Baker, along with Rotruck went to Sideling Mountain after the men were reported hitchhiking along the stretch of road, and described as answering the description of the men wanted in Hagerstown.

The two men, according to Trooper Rotruck, were en route to Clarksburg, W. Va., from Washington. Both are veterans of World War II, the trooper said, and were permitted to continue their journey after being taken to Barracks, LaVale for questioning.

Bill Is Introduced To Increase Salaries Of Deputy Sheriffs

Yearly Raise Of $240 Is Sought

Provisions of HB-166, introduced at Annapolis Wednesday by the Allegany County delegation, which would repeal and re-enact, with amendments, Section 623 of Article 1 of the Code of Public Laws of Maryland pertaining to Allegany County, were received here yesterday.

The bill provides that the County Commissioners of Allegany County shall allow the Sheriff of the county $9,780 for four deputies, to be appointed by the Sheriff, at an annual salary of $2,400 each. Under the present law the Sheriff is allowed $8,640 annually and the salary of deputies is $2,160 per year.

Under the terms of the bill the Sheriff shall designate one deputy to attend the magistrate for juvenile causes and execute his processes, orders and directions, and, when not so engaged, to perform such other duties as may be required of him by the Sheriff.

The bill further provides that one of the deputies shall be known as the chief deputy who shall, in addition to his regular and usual duties as a deputy sheriff, be charged with the duty of keeping accurate books and records of the sheriff's office and performing all clerical duties incident thereto. The chief deputy shall receive in addition to his regular salary as deputy sheriff, the sum of $180 per year, as extra compensation for his additional duties as chief deputy.

The present law provides that one of the deputies shall in addition to his regular and usual duties as a deputy, be charged with the duty of keeping accurate books and records of the sheriff's office and performing all clerical duties incident thereto, but does not provide any additional salary for that work.

In the event the bill is enacted into law and signed by the governor it will become effective June 1, 1947.

Bar Association Pays Tribute To Four Lawyers

Sloan, Doub, Watson, McCleave Eulogized

"All through the history of this country, members of the legal profession have played an important part in the affairs of the nation, and have helped make and interpret the laws of the land," W. Earle Cobey, president of Allegany County Bar Association said yesterday, as he opened the Memorial Service paying tribute to four deceased members.

"Whenever and wherever the country is attacked, from within or without, the legal profession has always led the way in preserving our way of life," Cobey continued. "Even today, in these perilous times, men of this profession still lead the attack in the preservation of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness as we know and understand them. We pause today, and it is fitting that we assemble before this Court, to pay tribute to those members of this Association who have ended their time on this stage . . . " Cobey continued.

Resolutions were read in memory of Charles Grant Watson, David W. Sloan, Jr., Robert Hugh McCleave and Judge Albert A. Doub, Sr. The part each played in the affairs of the community and in their chosen profession were outlined and the resolutions were made a part of the minutes of Allegany County Circuit Court, for preservation and as a tribute to the deceased.

Earl E. Manges was the first speaker. He read a resolution in honor of Watson, who died November 6, 1945. He was a member of the bar about 50 years. The resolution was signed by Manges and Morris Baron.

Tribute To Dave Sloan

William M. Somerville spoke at length on the career and activities of David W. Sloan, Jr. Somerville said "he was the first man from this county to enlist for service in World War I," and recalled that he served with the American-French Ambulance Corps in France before the United States entered the conflict. When this country declared war, Sloan returned and enlisted in the Sixth Infantry Division.

Somerville declared, "Dave Sloan was gassed in the war, and it took him 25 years to die. He suffered from this condition all his life, and despite his ever-failing physical condition, took an active interest in his work, in the community and particularly in the affairs of veterans." The speaker reminded his listeners that "he not only gave his own life to his country, but gave the life of his son, David W. Sloan, III, who was killed in World War II."

Sloan died March 13, 1946. He was admitted to practice at the bar here in April 1922 after attending Princeton. The resolution for Sloan was signed by Somerville, C. William Gilchrist and William R. Carscaden.

Gunter Lauds McCleave

William A. Gunter, in eulogizing Robert Hugh McCleave, who died May 8, 1946, declared, "when Mr. McCleave died, the almanac of Allegany county went out the window." Gunter was referring to McCleave's remarkable memory for dates, incidents and details in the life of the community and county. The speaker described him as "the best

Kelly Worker Held For Further Quiz In Alleged Theft

Elmer R. Dixon, 42, 408 Central avenue, a Kelly-Springfield Tire Company worker, was ordered held for "further investigation" after being questioned in the office of the State's Attorney yesterday in connection with an alleged theft in a Front Street tavern.

Dixon was accused by Charles Swearman, Mt. Savage miner, of taking a wallet containing $80 from his pocket while the latter was asleep Wednesday afternoon in the Mayflower Tavern, police said. Dixon denied the accusation, but was held for investigation.

Workers Support Character

T. J. Boyle, county investigator, who questioned Dixon, said a group of employes, with whom Dixon works, telephoned yesterday, and asserted they have known the accused man for many years and that he has never been known to take anything that does not belong to him.

Police said a bartender declared he saw Dixon going through Swearman's pockets, but yesterday Boyle asserted the bartender modified his statement to the fact that he saw Dixon reaching under the stool on which Swearman was sitting.

Both men were held in the City jail, Dixon for investigation and Swearman as a witness, but Swearman was released yesterday, and Dixon was transferred to the County Jail.

A woman, docketed as Ketty Yates, Maryland hotel, is also being held by police as a witness in the case after being arrested Tuesday afternoon, but police said she was unable to give any new evidence.

Transferred To County Jail

Another City Jail prisoner, Tony Mazooka, Baltimore, was also transferred to the county jail yesterday. Police said he spent a night in the city jail, but gave conflicting names and was ordered held for investigation. Later it was learned he was without funds and had no place to go, police asserted, and explained he will be charged with vagrancy.

John Grady, 30, 145 North Centre street, a veteran of World War II, who was overcome with gas fumes at his residence a week ago, was also taken to the county jail. Authorities said plans are being made to have him taken to a Veteran's Hospital.

Is Visiting Here

Mayor Arthur J. Law of Pontiac, Mich., a son of Thomas J. Law, a former Cumberlander, who has been attending the conference of Mayors in Washington is here visiting his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Heller, 115 Tilghman Street, and other relatives. Mayor Law, who is only 41 years of age, is serving his second term as mayor of Pontiac.

Court Sentences Six Prisoners One To Five Years

Robbery Charges Get Heavy Terms

Six prisoners were taken before Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson yesterday afternoon and sentenced to terms from one to five years for crimes of which they were convicted or admitted, during the January term.

Albert Schimminger was sentenced to serve five years in the Maryland penitentiary, for robbing the Norris Grocery on Pennsylvania Avenue here of $250, a woman customer of $57 and Howard Kerns Grocery of $20 in armed hold-ups. Authorities said he faces a long term in West Virginia for violation of parole, after he serves his term in this state.

His accomplice, Robert Logue, who participated in the same holdups, was acquitted when a jury found him insane. The Court yesterday committed him to the Spring Grove State Hospital, as provided in the code, "until such time as released by proper authorities."

Thos. H. Morgan, 23, convicted of robbing the L. Bernstein Furniture Store of $2,921.32 of watches, jewelry, etc., was sentenced to two years in the Maryland House of Correction. Only a small portion of the jewelry has been recovered, authorities said.

Roscoe Dewey Leslie, who was charged with burglarizing the store of Elmer Beck, Virginia Avenue on Christmas Day, was sentenced to one year in the House of Correction. Leslie, through his attorney Harold Naughtn told the Court he was charged with taking $1,200 but can account for only about $250. He said he was drinking at the time and doesn't know what happened to all the money.

Richard Wilson, 19, who appeared in Court in his Army uniform, was sentenced to the Maryland Reformatory for Males for one year. He was charged with passing bad checks here and the Court questioned him at length about his activities.

The young man said he is still in the Army and when asked how many bad checks he passed in North Carolina, he said he didn't know. Judge Henderson admonished him to profit by this experience and not follow a life of crime. He declared "you are starting out very young, and if you will look at some of the other prisoners and talk to them, I'm sure they will tell you that a man with a record has a tough time. The Court hopes you watch your step after you serve your time."

Festus Albert Jenkins was given a year in the House of Correction on a charge of stealing an evening dress worth $42 from a local cleaning establishment. Jenkins, a former Memorial Hospital employe has a past record, authorities said. He tried his own case in Court, refusing an offer of the Court to appoint an attorney for him, saying "I just want to tell the truth." Before sentence was passed, he asked for the mercy of the Court.

A half hour after sentences had been pronounced, sheriff's deputies started to Baltimore with the prisoners.

Court adjourned after dismissing the jury until 9:15 a. m. Monday when a number of other cases are to be completed.

County Board Views Change In Auto Taxes

A legislative proposal to set a flat fee for motor vehicle taxes, could result in a loss of $26,000 in 1947 county taxes unless the Board of County Commissioners takes action to avert it, county officials said yesterday.

Commissioners are reported considering plans to take action to prevent the loss if the Legislature passes a proposed law to tax cars $5 a year in the state and $10 a year in Baltimore.

Prior to 1946 when the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles took over automobile tax collections and the tax for autos was added to the car license tax, the tax schedules for cars were sent out by the county as a part of the personal property tax levied.

Owners "Get Break"

Due to the fact that the Allegany county levy is not set until April, the automobile tax cards were perforated for 1946 providing 1945 taxes on cars were paid up. This was done with the commissioner of motor vehicles concurring, according to Assistant Tax Collector Alban C. Thompson.

Due to the fact that the county levy is made up in April and the car tax year is from January 1 to December 31, this meant that persons who purchased cars did not pay taxes for any part of the first year of ownership—whether the car was purchased in February or in December.

The prospect of a new flat fee law that would go into effect in 1948 if passed, could mean that the county would sustain a tax loss unless the collections were up to date prior to that time.

Wilson Gives Views

While previous boards have always interpreted the present law as meaning that car taxes could not be collected until the April levy is set for any given year, Board Attorney Lewis M. Wilson is inclined to believe that all taxes should be collected as of January 1, which would mean that 1947 taxes are due now based on the 1946 rate, an office attache said today.

While no action has been taken as yet in regard to the proposed collection of these taxes on an estimated 6,000 cars that have changed hands, it was reported that the board will probably consider the proposal soon and fully intends to avert any loss to the county in the event the new law is passed.

Members of the assessing staff are now engaged in sorting tax cards with a view to having the 1947 taxes collected based on the 1946 rate. If the proposal is approved it would mean additional work in the office of the tax collector

B. And O. Workers Treated In Hospital

George Drew, 34, Locust Grove, was treated in Allegany Hospital last night for severe lacerations of the forefinger and palm of the left hand. He told attaches he was injured when a jack slipped as he was repairing an automobile. Attaches said nine stitches were used in closing the cuts.

Paul Shook, 21, 15 Laing avenue was treated in Memorial Hospital yesterday morning for an injury to the third finger of the right hand. The B. and O. worker told attaches his finger was mashed between a wrench and a bench while at work.

Lester Smith, 22, 227 Elder street, another B. and O. worker, was treated in the same hospital yesterday morning for a right foot injury. He told attaches a welder dropped on his foot at work.

Both William Webster, 57, 945 Greene street, and John Cupler, 13-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Cupler, II, Park Heights, had splinters removed from under their fingernails yesterday at Allegany Hospital.

Hugh Hopwood, 19, 456 North Centre street, was treated in Memorial last night for an injury to one of the toes of his left foot. He told attaches a hand truck ran over his foot at the Hiser Supply Company.

Jury Upholds Juvenile Court In Appeal Case

A jury returned a verdict of guilty yesterday afternoon on a charge of non-support in the case of Richard E. Boyden, an official of Local 1874 Textile Workers of America, appealed from Juvenile Court.

Boyden had been found guilty of non-support in Juvenile Court after his wife Mrs. Margaret Boyden had brought the charge against him. Juvenile Court ordered him to pay his wife $15 per week.

Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson presided when the appeal was called for trial yesterday. After the case was heard, Judge Henderson told the jury to return a verdict of guilty or not guilty and if the verdict was guilty the Court would fix the amount of payments to the wife. After deliberating the case about a half-hour, the verdict upheld the decision of the lower court with a verdict of guilty. The Court ruled that Boyden must pay his wife $20 per week temporarily, due to her present physical condition.

Mrs. Boyden testified that she operates a grocery store and beer parlor in Homewood Addition near the Mt. Savage road, and did not make more than $20 a week from the enterprise. Boyden, a disabled veteran, said that she cleared at least $100 a week at the place.

William L. Wilson, Jr. counsel for Boyden quizzed Mrs. Boyden regarding the profits from "Pinball" machines in the place and she maintained that this profit is included in the $20 a week she says the place earns.

Boyden testified that he was "locked out" of the beer parlor and living quarters last September, and he denied her charge that "he beat me up." He admitted that he "shook her" because of her "nagging" but denied ever striking her.

Cite "Take Home Pay"

Assistant State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher, after some figuring, declared that Boyden earned more than $50 a week at the Celanese plant, but Judge Henderson interrupted to cite that "take home pay" was the only matter to be presented, and that deductions are made from all wage checks for income tax, insurance, Social Security and other items.

The State today dismissed an appeal by Daniel Thomas Leatherman, fined $50 by Magistrate Roy S. Bowman at Cresaptown on a charge of failing to stop after an accident on the McMullen Highway, one mile south of Cresaptown. He was arrested by State Trooper William McElfish.

The State also withdrew the appeal of Hollie H. Wolford, arrested in the same case and find the same amount by Magistrate Bowman. Edward J. Ryan was counsel for the two drivers.

Oren Welsh, who took an appeal from Juvenile Court, where he was convicted of contributing to the delinquency of his minor son, entered a plea of guilty and was paroled for two years. He was defended by Estel C. Kelley.

Chamber Of Commerce Teams Seek New Members In Campaign Here

Plans Are Announced For Extensive Drive

The Public Relations Committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce yesterday inaugurated a two-fold campaign, designed to secure new members, and to acquaint the general public with the purposes and activities of the organization.

Plans for the campaign, the first period of which will run until April 30, were announced by O. J. Hale, chairman of the Public Relations Committee, at a meeting in Central YMCA, of the two teams of six members each, chosen to solicit new members.

Members of the teams will meet each Friday at 12 p. m. in the Y cafeteria at which time they will report on their work of the previous week.

Names chosen for the teams are the "Warps" and "Woofs" with the teams made up as follows:

Harold W. Smith, secretary of the chamber, pointed out that the organization is always working for the best interest of the entire community, and that is continually trying to secure new industries to bring to the Cumberland area. He said the membership of the organization at the present time is approximately 425. Smith told team members that Martinsburg, W. Va., recently added 200 new members and that a campaign in Winchester, Va., resulted in securing 150 new members.

A goal of 50 members has been set by the teams for the first period of the campaign.

Is Injured In Fall

Mrs. Nell P. Flick, 57, widow of Jacob Flick, 105 Valley street, was admitted to Allegany Hospital Thursday night for treatment of a fractured collarbone and bruises of the forehead suffered when she tripped and fell down several steps. Her condition is reported good.

Geraldine Peck, 22, 309 Central avenue, an employe of the Little Jewelry Company, was treated for a foot injury after she stepped on a nail.

Committee Is Named To Study Proposed Sanitary Districts In County

Wilkinson Explains New Legislation

Several important measures discussed with the Allegany county delegation to Annapolis by members of the Board of County Commissioners were outlined yesterday by Charles N. Wilkinson, Jr., president of the board.

Among the measures is a bill designed to tighten regulations on distribution of milk in this county. Wilkinson said the bill would protect local milk distributors by requiring those from other states who sell milk here to comply with all Maryland Health Department regulations regarding pasteurization and other safeguards.

Make Bid Mandatory

Another proposed measure would make it mandatory for the commissioners to advertise for bids on all purchases exceeding $500 and all other county work above that amount.

The county legislators were also asked to present a bill under which a $100,000 bond issue authorized some years ago for the erection of a County Juvenile Detention Home be used instead for building a new County Home and Infirmary. The January grand jury recommended extensive improvements or enlargement of the present buildings at the northern outskirts of Cumberland.

The fourth proposed measure under discussion, it was learned, would abolish the position of assistant state's attorney, created about six years ago and held since that time by Paul M. Fletcher, chairman of the Republican State Central Comittee.

Would Raise Salary

The bill would increase the annual salary of the state's attorney from $4,000 to $6,000 and would bar him from taking civil cases. The assistant state's attorney is paid $3,000 a year. Both officials are now permitted to engage in the practice of law, outside of criminal cases. It was pointed out that the state's attorney, with his salary increased, could retain an assistant whenever he felt the need of such aid in criminal trials.

It was explained yesterday the state-wide measure under consideration in Annapolis, which would abolish the Orphans Courts in Maryland, is the result of the Bond court reorganization report, submitted several years ago, and was not in the Sherbow Report, as stated last week. The act, known as House Bill 56, is opposed by the county board and other officials here.

The board also received a request from Charles L. Kopp, county superintendent of schools, to oppose a clause in Senate Bill 64, Page 3, Sectin 6, which would amend the State Constitution giving the Legislature power to cut the governor's budget in regard to funds allocated to public schools in the state. The board agreed to his request.

Army Wants More Room

Joseph C. Goldsborough, real estate agent for the Army Engineers, conferred with the board regarding his request to rent more rooms in the Union Street County Office Building. The Army recruiting service now has two rooms and requires more space. The matter was referred to County Engineer Albert S. Paye for investigation.

A petition signed by more than 100 citizens was presented to the board, asking that the section of road on Bear Hill, between Oldtown and Flintstone, be given a permanent surface. The road is heavily traveled by persons working in local plants, and was graded as a WPA project some years ago. The engineer was instructed to investigate.

Members of the Flintstone Church of the Brethren asked permission to widen Flintstone Creek near the town. It was reported the project would be in connection with summer recreation. The engineer will investigate the request.

County Delegation To Back Proposal

J. Milton Dick, former minority floor leader of the House of Delegates, was named temporary chairman last night of a representative county committee to study the proposed formation of a sanitary district in Allegany County.

Dick announced after the meeting that the committee will hold its first session Tuesday, February 4, at 7:30 p. m. at Frostburg City Hall.

The committee includes Harry Simpson, William Douglas, George A. Dressman and Miles G. Thompson, LaVale; Dr. W. E. Moseley and Rev. Lee H. Richcreek, Mt. Savage; Mayor Verl A. Ash, Midland; Mayor J. Milton McIntyre, Westernport; Mayor Marshall C. Skidmore and William Jenkins, Frostburg; French VanMeter, H. C. Heineman, and Chelsie Liller, Cresaptown; Mayor Fred Wiseman, Luke; Mrs. Elsie Roland, Flintstone, and Edward Shafer and John Cook, Potomac Park.

Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer, presided and welcomed the 60 persons attending the meeting, held in the City Hall auditorium, in the absence of Mayor Thomas S. Post. The mayor was in his office yesterday after undergoing a minor operation for nose trouble, but did not feel able to attend last night's meeting.

Hall Explains Purposes

George L. Hall, chief engineer of the State Department of Health, outlined the purpose of the meeting, called to discuss the possible enactment of legislation to authorize the county commissioners to set up sanitary districts in incorporated or unincorporated communities outside of Cumberland where there is need for improvement in water supplies and sewage disposal.

Hall explained that a sanitary district is a non-profit making agency, distinct from any municipal, county or state government, established by an act of the legislature for the purpose of permitting the construction, operation and administration of sanitary facilities, such as water supply and sewerage systems and the collection or disposal of garbage or trash, within its geographical limits.

A commission of three men is appointed to carry on the affairs of the district, and reasonable compensation for their services provided in the enabling bill setting up the district. Hall explained that the enabling bill would merely set up the necessary legislative machinery so that sanitary projects could be undertaken as the residents of any county community deemed necessary, without having to wait for the next session of the legislature.

Sub-districts may also be designated in the bill establishing the county sanitary district so that expansion will be possible without additional legislation.

Residents in any county area can petition the three-man commission to form a sanitary district in their community. Upon approval by the county commissioners, the commission then prepares plans and specifications to estimate preliminary expenses.

If any residents object to the formation of a district in that area, they may petition the commission, and if they are dissatisfied with the commission's ruling, they may appeal to the county, commissioners. The decision of the latter group is final.

Delegation Favors Bill

State Senator Robert B. Kimble, who called the meeting at the request of the Stae Deparment of Healh, said that the enabling bill would have to be submitted to the legislature by March 1 to be acted upon during the current session.

Five members, of the Allegany county delegation, Lester Reed, Noel Speir Cook, John T. Fey, William H. Geppert and Charles See, expressed their interest in the proposal and said they will vote for the enabling bill authorizing the county commissioners to set up a sanitary district in the county if county residents so desire.

William H. Lemmert and C. N. Wilkinson represented the board of county commissioners.

Pointing out the need for a sanitary district, Paul C. Holland, chief engineer for the Public Service Commission, said that small, privately owned water companies have caused more complaints to the PSC than any other source. He explained that the cost of providing adequate water supplies is prohibitive for small companies, but that a sanitary district could operate on a larger basis.

Each speaker stressed the fact that public sentiment on the proposal must be expressed before further action can be taken.

RICHARD WILLISON, JR.

Richard Henry Willison, Jr., 65, former superintendent of the City Street department, died last night at 8 o'clock at his home, 209 Avirett avenue.

Mr. Willison, who had been in ill health for the past three years, retired about 8 years ago after 27 years of service with the city engineering corps.

He was a native of Hyndman, Pa., a son of the late Richard H. and Jenevie Kelso Willison. Mr. Willison was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church.
